U.S. Army Kwajalein Atoll, Republic of the Marshall Islands

Skater Kye Ehart, 14, shows off his moves on the grind rail at the basketball court next to Emon Beach on a recent Monday afternoon. Ehart is one of the young people who petitioned the USAKA/KMR command for a skate park where he and his friends could enjoy their sport of aggressive skating, which incorporates jumps, flips, twists and grinding.

Complicated martial arts moves or road construction technical terms? No, that's the future scene at the proposed Kwajalein Skate Park.

The park is slated to open some time in October, said

Yuk Club renovation nears completion

By Peter Rejcek

Unofficially, call it the longest bar in the Republic of the Marshall Islands.

At 56 feet long, the bar at the Yokwe Yuk Club is more than double its original length of 21 feet. That not only means more elbow rooms for patrons, but a quicker turnaround for being served.

"It's going to increase the speed of the service," said Malcolm Gowans, Yokwe Yuk Club bar manager.

Happy birthday, America, from the Joint Chiefs of Staff

On July 4, 1776, the 13 American colonies declared their independence. The first patriots, with diverse backgrounds, representing different regions and interests, were united in their quest for freedom and their willingness to fight for liberty.

Despite the considerable risk of almost certain defeat at the hands of the greatest land and sea power of that age, they ultimately triumphed, and a new, independent United States of America emerged.

At sea, on land and in the air, whether during peace or war, the men and women of America's Armed Forces have continued to ensure the sacrifices of our forefathers and others who followed them were

Library to host evening with author Mitchell

From Grace Sherwood Library

National award-winning fiction author Ed Mitchell will be at Grace Sherwood Library conference room at 7 p.m. Thursday.

Mitchell will discuss how he came to win the National Publishers Freedom Award for Best New Fiction in the United States and Canada published by a small press. He won for his book, "Gold Rush 2000."

The book is about a ruthless international conglomerate that stalks Desert Storm hero Nolen Martin in order to steal the massive gold vein he discovered in northern California. Meanwhile, the FBI is trying to falsely arrest Nolen for treason to prevent the inevitable gold rush from exposing the government's clandestine weapon site.

Mitchell will share hilarious tales of an author on tour, read from his novel and answer questions about writing and publishing.

not made in vain. The backgrounds of the individuals in today's Armed Forces are even more diverse than those of our predecessors — yet we all continue to unite behind the same ideals and values that guided this nation to independence over 200 years ago.

Today, on the first Independence Day of the 21st century, you — America's soldiers, sailors, airmen, marines and coastguardsmen — are America's new patriots, linked in spirit to the generations of fighting men and women of our nation's great history. Around a troubled world, you deter our foes, protect our friends and keep the peace.

Despite enormous danger, personal sacrifice and lengthy separation from family and friends, it is your indomitable spirit and steadfast willingness to serve that define America and manifest its ideals, both at home and abroad. On this Independence Day, America honors you and all those who preceded you.

On behalf of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, thank you for all you do in the defense of our great nation — on this — America's birthday.

Did You Know?

Skillful questioning ...

The motto of the College of the Marshall Islands is Jitdam Kapeel. Jitdam means to question. Traditionally it refers to young people asking their elders about their lineage. Kapeel means skillful. It refers not only to manual skills, but skills of the intellect and of the heart as well. Educated people are those who have honed the critical skills of analysis and judgment, who have become proficient and creative in the skills of craft.

Yuk Club's traditional restaurant will close July 9 ...

FOM carpenter Scott Wallace cuts tiles for a new roof over the Yokwe Yuk Club bar on Wednesday morning. The bar is scheduled to reopen July 15. Besides quenching their thirst, patrons will enjoy limited dining services every evening. Lunch will also be served three days a week.

(From page 1)

But on July 15, beverages and bistro food will flow following a ribbon-cutting ceremony led by USAKA/KMR commander Gary K. McMillen. Sodexho Marriott officials say the transformation — in service and structure — will be finished by then.

"It's going to be fantastic," exclaimed Gowans during a tour of the renovations Wednesday morning.

The new bar, which now curves all the way around to the gaming area in the back, boasts three bartender stations, replete with ice wells and sinks. Gowans explained that the old bar was too crowded with just one bar station, creating a bottleneck for customers and waitstaff.

"It wasn't practical at all," he said. "Everything is a lot better organized."

Other renovations at the bar area include new ceiling tiles and FOM-fabricated ice wells. Along with the new look, there will be a new register system that will allow waitstaff to deal more directly with customers without slowing down bartenders with additional money transactions, according to Gowans. Again, the idea is to speed up service.

Comfort and ambiance are also buzz words in the $60,000 renovation project. Furniture is being reupholstered, and booths along the wall are being surrounded by a type of portico, or a series of columns that screen each table for an added sense of privacy. New carpet has already been laid and the dance floor refurbished. The stereo system is being upgraded and rearranged for maximum effect. Even the DJ booth is getting a tweak.

"We have true stereo sound now," Gowans said.

In the game room, currently stripped bare, new vending machines will be added, along with a table tennis game. New equipment, including cue sticks and balls, has been purchased for the two pool tables, which will eventually be refurbished with new felt, as well.

Dining differences

Next month promises not only bar changes but the end of traditional restaurant services at the Yokwe Yuk Club. The restaurant is scheduled to serve its last meal on July 9. Dining will then be moved over to the bar kitchen, where Executive Chef Bob Baker has developed a diverse menu.

Expect to see Kahlua pork quesadillas compete for attention with "The Colonel's" grilled chicken Caesar salad. Some of the menu items are accompanied by colorful descriptions, such as the Caesar salad: "You'll stand and salute this perfectly charbroiled breast of chicken ..."

"I think the best part is that it's new. It's something different," Baker said of the change in dining philosophy. "It will be a varied menu ... It's going to be more casual."

Food will be served from 5:30 p.m. to 10 p.m. seven days a week. Lunch will be available from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Thursday through Saturday. Wait service will be conducted on a limited basis in the evenings, particularly on weekend nights, according to Paul King, Sodexho Marriott general manager.

King said dining hours and wait service could expand, depending on whether or not there is a demand for it. Originally, wait service was to be completely eliminated in an effort to save money.

"We're very flexible and it's dependent on patronage," King said of the proposal to have limited table service. "This whole concept is based on patronage."

According to Jewels Marhold, Sodexho Marriott catering director, the traditional restaurant is not completely put out of business. At least twice a month there will be special events, beginning in September.

"We may have themed events or gourmet meals," Marhold said, adding Sunday brunches are another possibility. Again, patronage will determine whether or not such events are planned with more frequency.

Gowans said he is confident all of the changes will win over even the most skeptical customers.

"A lot of people are hard to please," he admitted. "We'll turn them around."

The band Pure Aloha is scheduled to perform at the grand reopening on July 15. DJ Rich Feagler will then take over the festivities by spinning tunes into the wee hours of the morning.

Remember safety first on Fourth of July weekend

By Jim Bennett

The Fourth of July should be a blast, but not an unsafe blast, say safety officials.

With the holiday sparking numerous barbecues and other get-togethers, on-island experts have offered a number of ideas on playing it safe this weekend.

Um, Um, good

For food safety, it all boils down to three major rules, said food inspector Pat Zurick:

1. Wash your hands before cooking and eating.
2. Keep hot foods hot, preferably greater than 140 degrees Fahrenheit, and cold foods cold, below 41 degrees Fahrenheit.
3. Sanitize all dishes and utensils with bleach water.

Water woes

The water and beach can be fun, but they can be dangerous too, according to Ian West, Pools and Beaches coordinator. West suggests:

1. If you are going to swim, bring a buddy and stay within the buoyed lifelines. Swimming, snorkeling and diving are permitted outside the ropes only when you have a buddy and are wearing a U.S. Coast Guard approved personal flotation device.
2. If you're planning on snorkeling, swimming or diving, remember you cannot do it in the skiing area. A boat will be towing the big banana around and will hit you.
3. Playing on the jetty is prohibited.
4. Launching or beaching of all craft, except kayaks, paddleboards and small inflatables with oars, is not allowed. Paddling outside the ropes requires a buddy or shore watch, and a PFD must be available.
5. Don't throw sand and rocks.
6. Pick garbage up and throw it in the trashcans.
7. If you plan on bringing music to the beach, keep the volume at a reasonable level so as not to interfere with other people and lifeguard communications.
8. Don't carry beverages into the water or bring any glass containers on to the beach. Broken glass + bare feet = Bad Beach Day.
9. Lifeguards have the authority to

Hundreds of residents are expected to gather at Emon Beach Tuesday to enjoy the Fourth of July holiday. Large crowds add excitement and fun, but also the potential for accidents. Local experts have ideas about keeping the holiday safe.

ask any patron not complying with the beach rules to leave. Furthermore, the lifeguard has final authority regarding any unsafe beach conditions.

10. Parents should watch their small children. The waves at Emon Beach can get high at times, and young children underestimate them. The lifeguards at Emon Beach are there for safety, but they are not baby sitters.

Road rash

Many folks will be out on Emon Beach Tuesday, adding fun and excitement, as well as the potential for accidents. Kwajalein Police will step up patrols in the area, according to Capt. Tony Gibson, deputy chief.

Likewise, police are asking residents to:

1. Use a flashlight after dark. You might be able to see, but others may not see you.
2. Don't drink and drive. The rule stands for bicycles, too.
3. Keep personal items in view or locked up, including bicycles.
4. Don't ride your bicycle along Emon Beach road. It's closed on the Fourth. Park in the designated areas.

Hot times

Many folks use the holiday as an excuse to barbecue, and why not?

Fire Department Deputy Chief Jerry Leverett says safety starts with storage. Keep your lighter fluid in a well-ventilated place.

When setting up the grill, watch for nearby overhangs and tripping hazards.

Watch the amount of lighter fluid you use, and light it with long-stem matches. Also, use long-handled utensils when cooking.

Finally, give briquets 24 hours to cool down before throwing them out.

Taking care

In addition to the above ideas, Dawn Clyde at RSE Safety suggested residents be sure to drink plenty of water so you don't get dehydrated, and if you're going to be playing sports, such as beach volleyball, stretch out first.

The Safety Office will have a booth from 2 to 5 p.m. at the Fourth of July bash, and residents are invited to stop by and visit.

For more information on making your holiday safer, call Clyde at 51503.

Skaters make their dream come true with park ...

Todd Seitz, USAKA/KMR Community Services Division Retail Operations specialist. TrueRide Inc., from Duluth, Minn., provided the plans and is scheduled to install the equipment in September on the corner of Eighth Street and Ocean Road, Seitz said.

"Some people think that it's not a lot of equipment, but it's more than enough," said aggressive rollerblade skater Kye Ehart, 14, who has a copy of the plans on the wall over his bed. Ehart is leaving Kwaj in a week to attend a two-week rollerblade camp in Pennsylvania for the second year.

The strange-sounding equipment allows skaters to perform aggressive skating, or skating that incorporates jumps, flips, twists and grinding. Grinding means sliding on anything with the sides or between the wheels of the roller-blade or skateboard, Ehart said. The beef-box, also called funbox, and the grind-rail are used for grinding. The quarter pipe, street spine and half pipe are used for flips, turns and jumps, Ehart added.

Tanner Duncan, 15, who favors a skateboard over rollerblades, agreed with Ehart, "[The equipment] is more than we asked for."

It all started two years ago. Avid skaters Ehart, Duncan, Tyler Estes and Robbie Hamill were some of the teens who wrote Col. Gary K. McMillen, USAKA/KMR commander, requesting a skate park on Kwajalein. The letters were followed up with a petition signed by 105 of their classmates and sent with another request letter from Ehart.

"We would like to build a skate park here on Kwaj similar to the one at Hickam Air Force Base in Hawaii," Ehart's letter read. He promised construction support from the skaters and some of their parents. Ehart also addressed the safety issue, "I know it does not sound safe, but it is our sport, just like any other sport, and we would be more than happy to wear our helmets and pads."

McMillen responded to each letter-writer, indicating he had "continually observed the use of makeshift, home-constructed ramps" and was concerned over the safety of the equipment. He acknowledged that the proliferation of the equipment around the island prompted him to "take a serious look at providing this activity attendant, said Simone Smead, Community Activities manager.

"It's definitely coming. The kids want it. Military bases all over have skate parks ... we're just keeping up with the times. It's something of their own, an extension of their backyard," Smead added.

Gathered at the youth center near Emon on Friday night, teens, wearing T-shirts touting skateboard and rollerblade brand names, said they had no problem with wearing protective pads. They all knew the park was being built, but thought that the location of the park would be at Emon.

"The original location was by the youth center at Emon," Seitz said.

"There were two primary concerns: One was noise. The other was the cost of putting down concrete, fencing and lights," he added. "At the chosen location, we already have lights, fencing and concrete. A cap will be put on the concrete to make it as smooth as possible."

No matter where it will be, skaters and non-skaters alike already have plans for when the park in an organized and safe manner."

The interest in aggressive skating, according to the skaters on Kwaj, was started by the television show X-Games. X-Games shows aggressive sports athletes, including rollerbladers and skateboarders.

"It's a challenge. I try something, and then try something harder," Ehart said. "I started skating six years ago, then two years ago I saw the X-Games and wanted to do that."

Duncan, entering the 10th grade, also watches X-Games. "I started [skateboarding] a year ago in Germany because my friends were doing it," he said, adding that he is learning to skateboard aggressively to get ready for the skate park on Kwaj.

The park, to be run by Community Activities, will have set hours, rules requiring safety equipment and an opens.

"I'll do my homework there and then skate," said James Paget, 14, indicating he plans to spend all his free time at the park. Ehart and Duncan agreed that they plan to spend a lot of time there, too. Non-skaters, and non-aggressive skaters, like Tracy Jones, 12, plan to spend a lot of time there, as well. Jones will be there with her girlfriends watching the skaters.

"I hope it's open by Sept. 28th. I want to have my birthday party there," Jones said.

Surprisingly, none of the young skaters were doing their thing last Friday evening.

"We're trying to keep from getting hurt before the park opens," Ehart said. "We're still skating every day, but not as aggressively."

Absentee voting deadlines coming soon

By Staff Sgt. Kathleen T. Rhem
American Forces Press Service

WASHINGTON — Nov. 7, Election Day, is less than five months away. That may seem like a long time, but voting officials recommend absentee voters request ballots 45 days in advance, even further in advance if they haven't yet registered to vote in their home district.

Officials with the Federal Voting

Assistance Program have put information about absentee voting on the Internet at www.fvap.ncr.gov.

The site includes an electronic version of the pamphlet "How To Do It — Vote Absentee." The pamphlet answers such questions as: Can I vote absentee? How do I apply for an absentee ballot? The pamphlet is also available through installation voting assistance offices.
