Rustman promises strong competition

By Bruce Sinkula
Sports Writer

The 22nd Rustman triathlon, slated for Monday, April 30, promises to offer keen individual and team competition. As is usually the case with the Rustman, the intrigue is not limited to the contestants who finish early.

Probably no one knows the ins and outs of the race better than Bob Sholar. Sholar holds the record for the fastest individual Rustman performance, 2:06:21, back in 1993.

Now the coordinator of the triathlon, Sholar revealed at least one secret to winning the event — “exceptional bikers tend to do well.”

The question at this year's Rustman is, can anyone keep pace with last year's individual winner Sharon Greenbaum, left, who is training hard with running partner Anna Vining. The opening gun for the 22nd annual triathlon goes off at 4 p.m. April 30.

RMI seeks assistance with Enniburr, Ebeye projects

By Peter Rejcek
Associate Editor

An idea by the RMI government to supply electricity to Third Island from Roi-Namur has sparked interest at USAKA, though a plan to carry out the work is nonexistent at this time.

“If they're willing to come up with a plan for funding it — their own money or grants — we would take a look at it then,” said Lt. Col. Steve Beal, USAKA/KMR Host Nation chief. “Nobody knows what the cost will be.”

The proposal was brought forth earlier this month at the annual Joint Committee Meeting in Honolulu between the RMI and U.S. governments. The annual meeting, which is required by the Compact of Free Association, largely discusses military issues, but also covers a variety of humanitarian projects.

Currently, there is no electricity available on Third Island, or Enniburr, except for a few personal generators. Beal said the new power plant, (See EBEYE, page 4)

Evaluation finds CDC ready to deal with child abuse

By KW Hillis
Feature Writer

The Child Development Center is well-prepared to deal with any signs of child abuse, according to the results of an evaluation presented to the School Advisory Council Wednesday night.

The CDC scored high on all but one area of the Child Abuse Rating Tool, or CARAT, said Trina Tiffany, Kwajalein CDC supervisor.

CARAT evaluates many areas including CDC stress factors and how the staff works together and with the children, Tiffany said. Also evaluated are the staff's ability to recognize abuse and how to report it, parents' education and support systems, various programs and even the facilities.

The facilities layout generated the only low score, Tiffany said. In a classroom, non-staff should not be able to walk in without checking at the main desk before being allowed entry. Since there are three buildings, that is not possible, she explained.

No cases of child abuse have been reported on Kwajalein, according to Police Department Chief Bruce

Letters to the Editor

Picture is worth a thousand words

This is regarding your decision to no longer print the division championship team pictures in the Hourglass.

It has been a longtime tradition of the Hourglass to print the winning team photos, and your sudden decision not to print them is confusing. Why? Does it take up too much room in the paper? Why not print a smaller picture, with the headline "division champions" and the names of the players — no article needed about the last game, just the picture will tell us what we need to know.

What does the picture in the Hourglass mean to the players? Well, anyone that's won can tell you that one of the perks of winning is the confidence of knowing your name and picture will be in the Hourglass, the satisfaction of everyone knowing your team won the championship. "Bragging rights" if you will; showing off the article to friends and family.

And why not brag? Winning a division championship is not easy; it requires a lot of teamwork. It is an all-season-round effort of hard playing. And not just one player makes the team.

Your past article on the World Series softball games mentioned the persons who did well in that game, but what about the rest of the team? Other key players that may have done well in previous games that helped get the team to that final game?

It takes a whole team to win a championship, so please reconsider the pictures and give the teams their credit due. To think that Spartan I Girls, who beat out the forever champions, Homeplate, to win the A Division Women's Championship for the first time won't be able to have their picture in the paper to reap the glory of winning, like other teams have in the past, is just sad.

Mary Harris-Wiehe

Ms. Harris-Wiehe,

There are several reasons we have decided to discontinue printing the team photos — some of which you touched on — but probably the top reason is simply a change of philosophy.

We have tried to get away from what's generally called "grip-n-grin" photos — people smiling at the camera — and use more "action" photos. In the case of sports, we are trying to cover more playoff games and other sporting events by adding a sports writer to the staff and, when possible, running photos from the games.

In essence, we are trying to appeal not only to the team players but to all our readers. As a reader, the picture of a second baseman making the play on a ground ball or a game story about some last-inning heroics may be more interesting than a group picture.

We have worked hard to change the Hourglass into a newspaper that better reflects stateside standards in news writing and photography, as well as Army regulations and standards.

Traditions are good, but we also need to evolve and try different things. For instance, this editorial page didn't even exist a year ago, but I believe it has become a popular addition to the Hourglass, offering a valuable forum that was not available to the readers before.

*Sincerely,

Waiting list started for optometrist visits

From staff reports

Beginning today, Kwajalein Hospital will accept appointments for the optometrist's visit June 1-8.

Once all the appointments are filled, a waiting list will be started, said Elaine McMahon, Kwajalein Hospital administrator. When the optometrist visits the island next time, residents on the waiting list will be used first to fill appointment times, she said. Residents are now able to call any time of year and get on the waiting list for the next optometrist visit.

In addition, there are now two optometrists contracted to visit Kwajalein. Each will take turns visiting, McMahon said. As a result, there will now be four visits per year instead of three.

Although McMahon said she expects appointments to fill up fast this time, the new procedure is working well for the orthopedist, orthodontist and other specialists who visit the island.

Call 52224 for an optometrist appointment.

Letters to the Editor

Easter ad makes for one happy grandpa

My daughter, her husband and my grandchild PCSed last September and I've missed them terribly. What a wonderful surprise to open the April 10 Hourglass to see a picture of her advertising this year's Easter Egg Hunt. McKenna's little bonnet and "goofy" face made one happy grandpa!

Thanks,

Parents want upgrade in computer curriculum to prepare kids for future ...

Bell. Tiffany said she is very confident that the system in place works.

"Our emphasis, our priority, is the child," Tiffany said. "Every morning, every child is visually checked by a staff member. They know what to do if there are bruises or other concerns."

Whether the staff suspects a child is abused at home or at the center, they are required to report the incident, Tiffany said.

The CDC will offer a workshop in May on how to work with children throughout summer vacation as part of the parents' education and support system, Tiffany added.

Recalculate the curriculum?

Questions about the number and type of computer classes and how often the computer science curriculum is reviewed and upgraded preceded the SAC board vote on the computer science curriculum for the 2001-2002 school year.

Concerned that only two one-semester computer science classes are available for high school students starting next fall, parent Kris Brown said, "The way the world is going, everyone has to be ... totally computer literate."

The number of qualified teachers, lack of state-of-the-art computers and equipment and the number of students that request the classes limit the number of computer classes offered, said Steve Howell, Kwajalein High School principal.

"It would be wonderful to offer more classes ... We do one heck of a job in our curriculum for the size of our school and number of teachers we have."

Howell added that since software and computer classes change so quickly, classes offered in future years would probably change.

The SAC board agreed with member Dianne Tarnstrom and Brown to look into reviewing the computer science curriculum more frequently. The board then voted unanimously to accept the computer science and science curricula.

Howell added that the class schedule would be available for parents by the next SAC meeting.

Burt in the running

Named as a semifinalist in the United States Presidential Scholars Program, senior Mary Etta Burt said, "I found out Monday ... It's pretty cool to have made the semifinals."

Academic candidates are chosen based on their SAT and ACT scores.

Last February, Burt, along with 2,600 other candidates, was asked to submit self-assessments, school reports, transcripts, essays and recommendations.

There are 500 semifinalists and the final selection of 121 academic and 20 art scholars will take place in May. The winners are invited to go to Washington, along with a teacher who has influenced them, to meet with government officials in June.

Full staff

Barring last-minute changes, all staff positions have been filled for next fall, said Karen Ammann, Kwajalein Schools superintendent.

PTO news

The April 12 Book Fair raised $1,700.

Kwaj grad named to dean's list

Alexandra Hillman, daughter of Kwaj residents Emily and Ed Hillman, was named to the Dean's Commendation List for the past semester at Gettysburg College in Pennsylvania.

Hillman graduated from Kwajalein High School in June 1998.

The Grace Sherwood Library now has a collection of Donna Guthrie books.

They may be read in the library but not checked out until after April 28.

Ebeye Hospital opening pushed back to October ...

which is scheduled to be completed before the end of the year, could handle the additional load. There are about 800 residents on Enniburr.

On Ebeye, the RMI government is looking for USAKA's help in transitioning its services to the new Ebeye Hospital, which is now scheduled to open Oct. 1. Originally set to open its doors by July, the hospital sat unused for years before work on the facility was renewed in earnest late last year.

The RMI government has asked for help from the U.S. Army Health Facilities Planning Agency, according to Beal. The agency, as its name implies, advises military hospitals on how to design their services, among other medical issues.

"They came to our hospital," Beal noted.

Specifically, the Marshallese want help in learning to maintain the new hospital building, as well as how to use the equipment. The U.S. Pacific Command, which hosted the meeting, agreed to look into the matter, Beal said.

In an unrelated medical issue, the RMI government will receive $75,000 under the Title 10 Humanitarian Assistance Program, according to Beal. Part of the money will be used to fund visiting physicians from Tripler Hospital in Honolulu. The rest of the funds will go towards medical equipment and supplies, Beal said, adding that support will be split between Ebeye and Majuro. The doctors are expected to arrive around late August/early September.

Also under the HAP, and as discussed at a working-level JCM in November, Lae and Ujae atolls will receive $80,000 to construct water catchment systems on both atolls using the local labor force and volunteers, according to Beal.

And back at Kwajalein Atoll, under the Humanitarian Civic Action Program, a school house will be built on Carlos Island. Troops from the Wisconsin National Guard are expected to arrive here July 3, with construction to be completed Aug. 26. Cost for materials is about $150,000, while another $250,000 has been allocated for troop expenses.

Beal said he is hoping for additional HCA projects on Carlos, as well as Carlson, over the next couple of years in anticipation of the RMI government's plan to ease Ebeye's population problems by encouraging settlement on those west reef islands.

"We're very supportive of that," he said.

"Ebeye is very crowded," said Botlang Loeak, RMI liaison to USAKA.

"The meeting was very good," Loeak added.

Leading the U.S. delegation was Col. Lloyd Rowe, U.S. Air Force chief, Southeast Asia, South Asia and Oceania Policy Division, Strategic Planning and Policy Directorate, U.S. Pacific Command. Foreign Minister Alvin Jacklick headed the RMI contingent. Admiral Dennis Blair, commander in chief, U.S. Pacific Command, opened the one-day meeting.

"It was very cordial," Beal said of the April 3 meeting. "In almost every case, we agreed to work together."

Senko visits Kirabati

Last week during a different diplomatic mission, Beal accompanied Mike Senko, U.S. ambassador to the RMI and the Republic of Kirabati, to Tarawa, Kirabati. Senko formally presented his credentials to the president, officially assuming his duties to the island nation.

"That was a good trip," Beal said. "It was productive."

The U.S. delegation brought more than goodwill with it: U.S. funds have been allocated to build a building at the Kirabati Teachers College on Tarawa, as well as refurbish two schools that had been built years ago by U.S. troops, according to Beal. The work, carrying a $150,000 price tag, is scheduled to begin next month.

E-mail growing in popularity for TRICARE questions

WASHINGTON (Army News Service, April 17) — E-mail has become one of the most popular ways for TRICARE beneficiaries to get answers to their questions, according to military health care officials.

The TRICARE Help E-Mail Service, commonly known as THEMS and operated by the U.S. Army Medical Command, has grown by leaps and bounds since its inception in April 1999.

TRICARE was among the issues addressed by Kwajalein Family Action Plan delegates at a January meeting. There are an estimated 100 military retirees at Kwajalein, who have complained about the program's lack of choice.

The service is growing more than 30 percent per quarter because "we provide fast, accurate and complete answers to TRICARE questions and assist beneficiaries in resolving their TRICARE problems," said Maj. Howard Schellenberg, THEMS program manager.

Schellenberg emphasized that the e-mail service is not a substitute for TRICARE Service Centers or other methods of TRICARE customer support.

"Our service is there to supplement the great efforts of everyone who helps the customer," he said. "There should always be many different ways to get TRICARE help, and we work with other services to form an effective support network."

THEMS works by allowing soldiers and their families with access to a computer at work or home to e-mail their TRICARE questions, issues or concerns to TRICARE\_help@amedd.army.mil.

Jack Desmond, operations manager for the service, explained why he believes the TRICARE Internet program is so effective.

"We are not an Internet site where you have to find your own answer by sorting through a frequently-asked questions section," Desmond said. "Everyone who sends us a question receives an individual answer from a real person, not a form letter or computer-generated response."

"The difference is we answer your question; we don't try to make you an expert in military health care," he added.

Rustman appeals to all kinds of athletes ...

Could his record be in jeopardy this year? "There are more good bikers on island this year," said Elliot Moseley, who is competing individually in his second Rustman.

"More than ever before," Sholar added. "Only several individual competitors have broken 70 minutes in the bike portion."

Sholar speculated that more than one person could accomplish the feat this year — weather permitting.

"A very low wind day can cut ten, 15 seconds per lap off (your time)," said Sharon Greenbaum, Rustman 2000 individual champion.

The bike portion of the race is the part that Greenbaum, a veteran triathlete, worries about the most. "With running and swimming you feel more in control of your own fate," she said. "It seems like every year some one gets a flat tire."

"I know it would be a bigger disappointment to get a flat tire during the Rustman because you don't have the opportunity to compete again until next year," she noted.

Asked if she has the women's Rustman record, set by Kathy Wellman in 1997, in her sights, Greenbaum said, "It's not out of the question, but I'll do the best that I can."

Over last two years Greenbaum has finished just under six minutes behind Wellman's record pace of 2:17:25.

The Rustman isn't just for individuals. Greenbaum's husband, Charles, will be the bicyclist on a squad that hopes to contend for the team title this year.

"The top few teams appear, on paper, pretty even; but anything can happen," Charles Greenbaum said.

His teammates are Ray Fogg (swimmer) and Derek Brower (runner). Together, they call themselves, "Foggy Green Brow."

Youth served

Stephanie Flavin, a freshman at Kwajalein High School, will compete individually in her first Rustman. To the best of Sholar's recollection, Flavin is probably the youngest female to ever compete in the triathlon. She drew inspiration from the 2000 Rustman.

"Last year, after watching the race, I decided to give it a try," she said.

She wasted little time preparing for the event.

Flavin took delivery of a TREK 2000 bicycle last summer and promptly began training at the beginning of the school year.

Flavin appears well prepared for what is about three hours of grueling competition.

"I'm on the swim team," she said, "so I do a lot of that. But running is my favorite."

Sometimes no amount of preparation can eliminate those pre-race jitters.

"I've never done a triathlon before, so I'm nervous, but I'm looking forward to it," Flavin said.

The traditionalist

Perhaps no one brings more uniqueness to the Rustman than Peter Barbella.

Not only does he hold the longest active Rustman streak — this will be his 12th — but he has used a one-speed bike in every one of them.

"He's a traditionalist," Sholar said.

In Barbella's first Rustman, back in 1990, his choice of pedal-power wasn't so unusual.

"Considerably more people competed on those rusted-out Huffys back then," Barbella recalled.

In the same way station wagons have given way to SUVs, one-speed Huffys have lost their place in the Rustman to 10-, 15-, and 21-speed Trek, Cannondale and other racing bikes of the 21st century.

Yet, Barbella will not change his mode of two-wheeled transport.

"I wouldn't do that much better on a multi-speed bike," he said jokingly. "Over the last several years, I believe I am the only one crazy enough to bike around the runway six times on a one-speed bike."

The Rustman Triathlon is one of the few annual events that help make life on Kwajalein a unique experience.

"I really enjoy the crowd," Barbella said. "The Rustman seems to bring out the community."

The Rustman Revisited

The Rustman triathlon consists of a one kilometer (1,100 yard) swim, a 42 kilometer (26 mile) bike and a 10 kilometer (6.2 mile) run. The same course has been used for the race's entire history.

Contestants, with their freshly applied ID numbers written on their arms and legs — temporary Rustman tattoos — will be transported to Echo Pier for the 4 p.m. start of the swim portion of the event. After the starting gun has sounded, the athletes will swim to Emon Beach.

Once there, the contestants will scamper across the beach to the transition station, where they will change into their bicycling garb or tag off to a Rustman teammate. The bikers will pedal through downtown, toward the air terminal building, for the first of six laps around the runway.

After completing their sixth lap, the competitors will head back to Emon Beach for the last portion of the Rustman, the 10 kilometer run.

The runners will complete three circuits of a two-mile loop that tracks through residential and downtown Kwajalein. The race ends at Emon Beach.

Chargogg, Undertow sit atop division

By Bruce Sinkula
Sports Writer

With only a handful of games remaining to be played in the 2001 water polo season as of today, the top teams are jockeying to be the No. 1 seed for the upcoming playoffs.

Chargogg appears to have the inside track on the regular season championship with a perfect 8-0 record. They won the first of two meetings Thursday night against Undertow (6-2). Those two teams will face each other once more next week. At 7-3, Foul Play is finished with the regular season, and unless Undertow continues to stumble, they will be in third place.

Stingrays (3-6) will likely take fourth place and have the unenviable task of facing the regular season champions in the first round of the water polo playoffs.

The Inebriators (2-8) will apparently face Marco (1-8) in the consolation championship for the fifth and sixth place teams.

At the end of the season, the top four teams will be placed into the water polo championship bracket.

The winners of the first round championship bracket games will advance to the 2001 Water Polo Championship game.

Each team plays 10 regular season games.

Rehman wins KRC Driftwood Classic

By Bob Sholar
Kwajalein Running Club

David Rehman narrowly outran a small but speedy field to win Kwajalein Running Club's 23rd Annual Driftwood Classic 10K Road Race in just under 43 minutes.

As is typical for this race, the heat was wilting.

Between Rehman and a few teachers, the school accounted for four of the top five finishers.

Just 13 seconds behind Rehman charged the first female finisher, Sharon Greenbaum, in 43:02. That's less than 30 seconds off the women's record of 42:38, set by Brigid Shank in 1991.

Left-Overs take Wednesday League bowling title

By Mario Vilorio
Wednesday Bowling League

Left-Overs survived the Ebeye heat and the intensity of Triple J Bazooka, needing only to win one game to put the league title in their bag.

The Wednesday Bowling League wrapped up its 2000-2001 season late last month with an awards ceremony and a tournament-style No-Tap.

Left-Overs are made up of Vivian Salarda, Mike Lisle, Rudy Eser-Jose and Mario Vilorio.

Triple J Bazooka came in second, with Pinatubo grabbing third place. FILA settled for fourth place.

Recess the Movie: School's Out (G, New Release)

Based on the popular animated children's program Disney's Recess, this full-length film finds young pupil T.J. Detweiler looking forward to a wild summer vacation. He gets his wish when he uncovers a plot by an evil school principal trying to banish summer vacation forever by using a machine to create perpetual winter. (82 minutes)
Richardson Theater, 7:30 p.m.

Shadow of the Vampire (R, New Release)

A director bent on creating the most authentic horror movie, even to the point of actual bloodletting, hires an actor known for his obsessive methods to play the vampire. Soon, the actor is out of control, attacking fellow cast members and plucking bats out of the air for midnight snacks. (John Malkovich, Willem Dafoe, Cary Elwes) (93 minutes)
Yokwe Yuk Theater, 8 p.m.

O Brother Where Art Thou? (PG-13, New Release)

A trio of escaped prisoners meet crazed Bible salesmen, sirens, mobsters and a slew of other strange and quirky people as they search for a treasure. They even find time to cut a hit record. This Coen brothers comedy is set in the Deep South during the Great Depression. (George Clooney, John Goodman) (106 minutes)
Tradewinds Theater, 8 p.m.

Meeting the stars

Comedian Lisa Sundstedt visits with resident Cheri Malloy after Wednesday's USO Comedy Break show at the Richardson Theater. Sundstedt, Kevin Jordan, middle, and Spanky kept the audience laughing all night long. The trio are headed to Kosrae on the next part of their tour of the Pacific.

Jeramon non kom

"Jeramon non kom" is the Marshallese way to say, "Goodbye and good luck friends."

Trace, Shaunna, and Olivia Fleming depart April 24 on ATI for Portland, Ore.

Trace is RSE senior system technologist, and Shaunna worked at the CDC and the photo lab, and was a feature writer for the Hourglass. They have been at Kwaj two years.

They say, "We've had a lot of fun here and met many great people. We hope to return someday."

Kom ruwainene

"Kom ruwainene" is the Marshallese way to say, "Welcome."

Lee and Teresa Netteville and children Kara and Justin arrived recently from Colorado Springs, Colo. Lee is a meteorologist with Aeromet.

They say, "It's great. Love the slowed-down pace from the states."

Fundraising events to be advertised in the Hourglass or on the CPN roller must be accompanied by an approval letter from USAKA Community Services.
