U.S. Army Kwajalein Atoll, Republic of the Marshall Islands

Range change of command ceremony Tuesday

By Peter Rejcek
Associate Editor

Lt. Col. Raymond Jones is going to test a new working environment when he PCSes next week.

The commander of the Ronald Reagan Ballistic Missile Defense Test Site leaves the range to Lt. Col. Clarence E. Johnson Tuesday at a 9 a.m. change of command ceremony at Island Memorial Chapel. Jones heads to Washington, D.C., where he'll serve as executive officer for the deputy director at the Director of Information Systems for Command, Control, Communications and Computers.

Jones leaves legacy of KMAR to Johnson

DISC4 is responsible for the information management function for the Department of the Army, serving as the Chief Information Officer of the Army, among a variety of other duties.

"I've never been in that environment," said Jones, who has spent his military career testing airplanes and missiles. But the new territory won't entirely be unfamiliar, as Jones will work in the Acquisition and Integration division. "It's not that much different in terms of testing and acquisition."

Jones arrived at Kwajalein July 1999, when the range was re-established as a command subordinate to USAKA. The command-designate position requires someone with a background in test and evaluation and program management. Jones said the biggest challenge to re-establishing the range as a command involved local awareness.

"The hardest part was to establish that in the community," he said. "We had a very smooth transition ... I was fortunate to have two good USAKA commanders that have allowed me to do [my job]."

That job has included a number of different

RMI outpatient medical services still being offered

Outpatient medical services on a reimbursable basis are still being offered to non-grandfathered Republic of the Marshall Islands workers despite plans to phase out services this month.

The phase-out has been put on hold until the situation is clarified, said Lt. Col. Steven Beal, USAKA Host Nation chief, before he PCSed earlier this month. Clarification has to be made regarding the contract and statement of work as they pertain to the hospital, he said.

"The command's long-term intent is to continue outpatient treatment, pending approval from higher headquarters," Beal said.

Services already phased-out since last June include prescriptive and over-the-counter medications, sick call, dental and prenatal care, said Beth Turnbaugh, Kwajalein Hospital administrator.

Inpatient services or major surgery will not be available to non-

MPs, RMI security forces depart atoll

Almost 24 hours after a successful launch and intercept mission, their valuable assistance no longer needed, the crew of the RMIS Lomor left Kwajalein Monday afternoon. In a dockside ceremony prior to their departure, Col. Curtis L. Wrenn, USAKA commander, presented the 14 crewmembers with certificates of appreciation.

"We needed your help for this mission's security and for the safety of the U.S. and Marshallese citizens living in Kwajalein Atoll," Wrenn told the crew.

"I thank you for a job well done."

The Majuro-based, 103-foot-long maritime security vessel arrived at Kwajalein July 7, with an immediate mission of 24-hour surveillance of Greenpeace activities.

Grace Sherwood Library great place for an escape

It's great working right next to a library. I mean besides the fact that the couches make for a comfortable spot to take an after-lunch nap, the Grace Sherwood Library is a wonderful place to seek refuge from deadlines and find inspiration for new ideas.

Roaming through the aisles, tracing your finger along the row of book spines, like a child rapping a stick across a picket fence, is a good way to relax and think. (Hey, even in paradise, life can be stressful, especially when summer vacations leave staffs shorthanded.) Judging by the number of patrons that visit the library, I would guess quite a few people agree.

I've lived in some small, intimate communities — Sulphur Springs, Texas, for example, the Dairy Capital of the State, where about a thousand people got together over a long weekend and built a playground that was the size of Camelot — but no where have I seen a busier library.

Folks are constantly whizzing by our door most afternoons and some mornings, sighing in quiet frustration when they arrive at the wrong hour. The young kiddos, whether by stealth or by stampede, arrive like clockwork for storytime with librarian Phyllis Manley.

Phyllis, Liz Omalyev, Susannah Jones and the rest of the staff are always helpful — though, in truth, we at the Hourglass probably enjoy a privileged relationship. You can always count on Phyllis to find just the book for you — like a zealous chef always offering up a new, tasty dish to her stuffed and happy customers. And she even delivers! I guess it's kind of like that sitcom Cheers, where everybody knows your name. There's just no alcohol involved.

(Oooh. I just had a brilliant idea. No, never mind. I don't think there's enough money to budget an off-island bartender. Besides there's not even enough room anymore for the Hourglass archives, let alone a 100-gallon cooler.)

Phyllis is leaving us shortly. While it's no secret, she enjoys keeping a low-profile, so nobody tell her I put the word out or she'll kill me and make me pay all those late fees. Really, I don't know what happened to Chyna the wrestler's biography ... Seriously, we at the Hourglass are going to miss her wry sense of humor, her well-rounded literary tastes and the way she would let us first rummage through the books that are dropped off at her door in crumpled, brown paper bags.

Thanks, Phyllis, and good luck.

For those of you who don't get out to the library too often — the coconut legends about folks PCSing after 35 years and not knowing where it is are true, by the way — on the next rainy day, head up to the second floor of Building 805, above the bowling alley, and make yourself at home.

Just keep away from that bag of books at the door. I still get first dibs.

BAC addresses move to make Gilligan's non-smoking

By KW Hillis
Feature Writer

Concerns about turning Gilligan's into a non-smoking bar as of Oct. 1 dominated Wednesday's Bachelor's Advisory Council meeting.

The USAKA commander has issued a mandate that all the clubs will be non-smoking by October 2001 to meet a Department of Defense regulation requiring all government buildings to be non-smoking by 2003.

Some of the BAC representatives, including one non-smoker, were concerned with Gilligan's becoming non-smoking, said Paul King, Sodexho Marriott general manager. King said that a petition is being circulated, requesting the commander to reconsider the smoking ban. Currently, the Yokwe Yuk Club's Jobwa room and the main dining room are non-smoking.

"There is a question whether the Oceanview, which is an outdoor bar, will be non-smoking," King said.

BAC representative Joanne Garland said, "I plan to start my own petition to allow [smoking]."

In other BAC business:

- Modifying two of the Pacific BQ rooms into divided storage space for unaccompanied personnel will have to wait until the next fiscal year, said Carol Eaton, USAKA Housing manager. Although the work order has been submitted, the modification was not in the annual work plan and it will have to be budgeted.

Eaton said she would query Housing Services to find out the status of a survey determining how many unaccompanied residents would take advantage of the additional storage space and if any information had been received about storage lockers used on other bases.

- Monopolization of the new pavilion area behind the Topics and Sands BQs by a large number of non-BQ residents, even though invited by a BQ resident, elicited another request for "BQ residents only" signs.

- The continued lack of bike racks outside all the BQs was questioned.

"I will look into the issue and provide an answer in the published meeting minutes, or during the next BAC meeting," said CW2

Wiley Blanton, USAKA BAC chairperson.

- Blanton addressed smoking in a non-smoking BQ after the meeting.

"Pinky Hina [Housing Services BQ supervisor] is the 'go to' person for problems like that," Blanton said. "She will go over there and knock on their door ... and work that out."

- Instead of meeting every other month, Blanton said the BAC would meet quarterly.

BQ residents or representatives with any problem or issue that cannot wait until the next meeting can send it to USAKA Community Services or call him, Blanton said. "We'll look into it. I'll pass on the complaint or suggestion to the person that is responsible. I won't do their job for them ... If they don't act on it, it's my responsibility to bring it to the commander's attention."

Due to a last-minute change in time, just four BAC representatives met with the new chairperson. Representatives are evaluating the length of time until the next meeting and the inability to bring up issues at Wednesday's meeting due to the last-minute time change. The next meeting is currently scheduled for Oct. 10 at 1 p.m.

Wrenn honors RMI Lomor crew ...

"First, we anchored at Big Shell and monitored Greenpeace's position from the water," said Maj. Thomas Heine, chief of surveillance on the Lomor. "Then we moved to Gea Pass to monitor traffic into the lagoon."

While anchored there, the crew intercepted and boarded what turned out to be a privately-owned sailboat. After a thorough search of the Lord Jim, and verification of passports, the married couple was allowed entry into Kwajalein's harbor.

For the rest of the IFT-6 mission, the Lomor crew stood ready to board and remove any vessel compromising the lagoon's 12-mile safety exclusion zone.

Wrenn also presented the ship's captain with a framed certificate of appreciation for the vessel and a commander's coin. "Your service is an example of the good spirit of cooperation and the partnership between the United States and the Republic of the Marshall Islands," Wrenn said.

Tuesday, Wrenn presented a certificate to military police with the 25th Infantry Division, Hawaii, before those soldiers returned home. The MPS were grandfathered unless there is a formal referral request from RMI medical personnel, according to Dr. Eric Lindborg, Kwajalein Hospital chief of staff.

The unfinished hospital on Ebeye, which is scheduled to open this fall, was one reason why the phase-out date was pushed back from April to July.

The hospital is about 32 percent complete, said Dr. Sandra Yao, chief of Ebeye Hospital medical staff. "There are visible changes inside the building," she said.

This month, hospital services for non-grandfathered RMI workers were to be limited to Workers Comp cases, work-related physical exams, diabetes education information and emergency stabilization, Turnbaugh said.

While contract issues are being worked, "non-work-related outpatient care for non-grandfathered RMI workers will be on a patient reimbursable basis," said Lloyd Jordan, RSE acting site manager.

If a modification to the statement of work is made, then pending approval from both USAKA and Raytheon, the Kwaj Employees Association Trust could provide optional medical insurance for participating Marshallese workers, said Romeo Alfred, RSE Training manager and KEAT board member.

A 'healthy tan' can cause ill effects for the skin

By KW Hillis
Feature Writer

The morning after surgery, Sue Rosoff was surprised by the intensity of the pain.

"When I woke up the next day and all the anesthesia had worn off ... [I thought] I had gotten hit by a Mack truck," said the Kwaj resident.

But it wasn't a sudden accident that sent Rosoff to Hawaii for surgery last fall. A lifetime's accumulation of the sun's ultraviolet rays had produced two small growths, both on the left side of her face — and both cancerous.

Rosoff is not alone. There are about 700,000 new cases of skin cancer each year, according to the National Cancer Institute. This number is almost equal to the combined total of new breast, lung, prostate and colorectal cancers diagnosed each year.

Due to the growth in number of skin cancers and Kwajalein Atoll's equatorial sun, the Kwajalein Hospital Health Awareness Committee has designated July as Cancer in the Sun Health Awareness month.

"[People] don't take sunburn as seriously as they should," said Colleen Howard, Kwajalein Hospital pharmacist. "Not only is it bad as far as skin cancer is concerned, but it also causes premature aging and wrinkling."

Sun exposure is the main cause of the three types of skin cancer. Malignant melanoma is the most dangerous because it can spread rapidly and is fatal if not detected early. Squamous and basal cell carcinomas are slower growing and rarely spread to other parts of the body, although squamous cell does spread more often than basal cell.

The best defense against skin cancer is a monthly skin check using the A-B-C-D rule to examine new or existing moles, Howard said.

If a mole or a pigmented spot becomes Asymmetric, one half unlike the other; has an irregular or scalloped Border; the Color varies from one area to another or the Diameter of the mole is larger than a pencil eraser, it is a good idea to have a dermatologist or doctor evaluate it.

Even though her growths didn't fit the typical textbook depiction of skin cancer, Rosoff made an appointment with the visiting dermatologist.

"The bump on my nose got bigger and then smaller. I thought it was a sweat gland that was impacted," Rosoff said. Instead, she was diagnosed with two basal cell carcinoma tumors.

"Dr. (E.H.) Thornhill and [the visiting dermatologist] concurred that I have a Moh's procedure," Rosoff said.

One of the techniques for removing skin tumors, the Moh's micrographic procedure has a 96 percent cure rate, according to the NCI. The tumor is removed and the edges or margins of the removed skin are checked for cancerous tissue. If cancer is detected, then another slice is removed until only healthy tissue is found.

Although Rosoff's skin was numbed, she was awake for the surgery.

"You can feel them cutting... then they use a cauterizer, so you smell your skin burning," Rosoff said. "It's like being at a burger roast — but it's you. The thing that is really reassuring about it is that you know right there they got it all... otherwise, they keep digging."

Now, almost a year after her surgery, Rosoff reminisced about the amount of time she spent in the sun.

"I grew up on the beach, and a lot of what I'm dealing with now didn't happen out here, it happened when I was a kid," Rosoff said. "I woke up every morning... put on a bathing suit. I lived in the ocean and I burned all the time.

I always had a great tan."

The NCI rates a "healthy tan" as dangerous as the military would rate "friendly fire." In an attempt to shield itself from ultraviolet light damage, the actual production of melanin, or pigment cells, can go awry and lead to cancer.

People with fair skin, moles, freckles or blond or red hair are more at risk for skin cancer, as are individuals who have family members with skin cancer, according to the NCI.

Knowing the consequences of her actions, Rosoff follows all the guidelines recommended by the NCI including applying 30 to 45 SPF sunscreen every day, wearing a hat or visor and staying out of the sun between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m.

"People offer to go snorkeling in the middle of the day; I just never go," Rosoff said. "Even if I wear a 45 [SPF sunscreen] and a T-shirt, I still get sunburned out there."

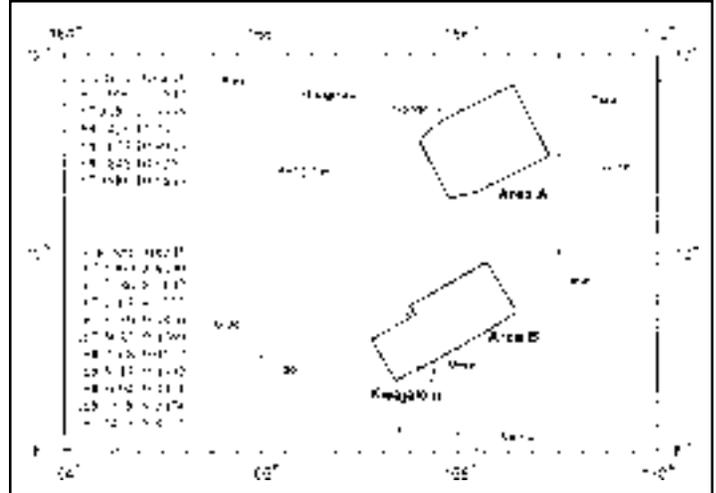

"When people are fair to begin with, this is a tough place to be," she said. "I end up going snorkeling early or later."

Certain medications, like some diuretics, Retin-A and Motrin, can add to the problem, Howard said. They can make a person more sensitive to the ultraviolet rays of the sun. The pharmacy staff will be glad to look up any medication to see if it produces photosensitivity, Howard added.

Rosoff, who will have her skin checked again when the dermatologist visits, said she worries about people who get sunburned.

"If I could tell them how much it hurt just getting the two little divots out of my face, maybe they'd think twice," Rosoff said.

Range operation scheduled for Thursday

From Range Safety Office

A range operation is scheduled for Thursday, July 26. Caution times are 7:01 p.m. Thursday to 4:01 a.m. Friday.

In conjunction with this operation, a caution area will exist within Kwajalein Atoll, defined by the area bounded on the north by Boked Island on the east reef and Yabbernohr Island on the west reef, and bounded on the south by a line drawn north of Bigej Island on the east reef to a point at latitude 08 54.2N, longitude 167 45.8E, then to a point at latitude 08 52.8N, longitude 167 45.8E, and then to a point north of the high tide mark on Nimi

Island on the west reef.

Bigej Island, including the inner reef, is specifically excluded and is not a part of the mid-atoll corridor. Illeginni is designated an evacuation island; all other mid-atoll corridor islands are designated as sheltered islands.

In order to ensure clearance of non-mission support personnel from the mid-atoll corridor by the window opening time, Kwajalein police island clearance procedures will begin at approximately 7:30 a.m. Monday and continue until evacuation has been accomplished. Egress of all air and seacraft will be required when requested by authorized clearance personnel. Subsequent to lagoon clearance, the hazard area will be in effect until mission completion.

In the event of a mission slip, the caution times and areas will be in effect for the following days:

- 7:01 p.m. Friday, July 27, through 4:01 a.m. Saturday, July 28.
- 7:01 p.m. Saturday, July 28, through 4:01 a.m. Sunday, July 29.

Questions regarding the above safety requirements for this mission should be directed to the Command Safety Office, range safety officer, 51361.

programs and projects, from National Missile Defense to space tracking. Internally, probably the most important mission involved the Kwajalein Modernization and Remoting. Jones said the project is about 50 percent complete, but regrets he won't be able to see it to fruition.

"I would like to stay to the end. I hate leaving things unfinished," he said. "There's always a fear that the strategy might change after you leave."

Also on Jones' watch: The range achieved a 100 percent success rate for tracking National Foreign Launches, or NFLs, two years in a row. Jones said the Reagan Test Site is well on its way for a third straight perfect record.

"The range has been extremely busy," Jones noted. Operations have included four NMD flight tests, two TCMP tests, and six ICBM tests. The range also continued its scientific work, with the Tropical Rainforest Measuring Mission, and participated in its first-ever commercial space launch with the HETE II mission.

"What stands out is the mission accomplishments," Jones said.

When asked to reflect on what the range is doing better since he arrived, Jones said, "I think it's working better as a team than it was two years ago."

He explained that in today's testing environment, it's difficult to coordinate a project because of all the different customers, internal and external, that are involved. Success depends on teamwork, he said. "The dynamics of the environment have changed. NMD demonstrates that ... The approach is more of a teaming effort with the customer.

"In the future, we can team better," he added. "There's never a point when you reach the end."

But the end of his tour here is near. Jones offered this advice to his successor: "Trust your people and listen, trust in their judgment," he said. "They're the experts, especially out here."

Local teens headed to Japan for swimming tourney

By Peter Rejcek
Associate Editor

Two young men from Kwajalein will make history over the next week as they compete in the 2001 FINA World Swimming Championships in Fukuoka, Japan.

Loren Lindborg, 19, and Carlos Notarianni, 13, were selected to represent the Republic of the Marshall Islands at the international competition. They are the first swimmers from the RMI to swim against this caliber of competition, according to coach Cris Lindborg. And Notarianni is the first Marshallese native to participate in international competition, which features Olympic swimmers.

"It will be a good experience for the kids," Lindborg said. "It's way beyond our league ... but it's a great opportunity."

Loren Lindborg said he is nervous and excited about being chosen to compete. His modest goal, "To beat out Burundi."

Loren Lindborg, 19, will compete in several swimming events, including the freestyle, butterfly and backstroke at the 2001 FINA World Swimming Championships in Fukuoka, Japan. Lindborg holds several local pool records.

Competition will be stiff. There are about 3,000 swimmers and officials from 130 countries competing in the championships. Events include swimming, diving, water polo, synchronized swimming and open water swimming.

The Lindborgs, Notarianni and his mother, Sylvia, departed Thursday for the games, which start today and run through July 29. They only had about three weeks to prepare, as Cris Lindborg said she was belatedly notified that two swimmers from the Marshall Islands had been invited to participate.

Loren Lindborg, who was born on Kwaj, has been on the swim team since the wee age of six, and holds several pool records. Notarianni has been swimming competitively since he moved here about six years ago.

Kwaj swimmers have repeatedly represented the RMI in the Micronesian Cup games since at least 1990. Cris Lindborg said the teams have always done extremely well, generally dominating their opponents. The next games are scheduled at Pohnpei in 2002.

Carlos Notarianni, 13, practices Wednesday afternoon at the Millican Family Pool for his upcoming trip to Fukuoka, Japan, where he plans to swim in the 50 and 100 meter races, the freestyle, backstroke and breaststroke races.

Gene Dohrman, foreground, goes for a kill shot against Randy Erekson Tuesday night at the CRC racquetball courts. A group of players meets at the courts every Tuesday and Thursday.

Racquetball group meets weekly

By Bruce Sinkula

One of Kwajalein's best kept secrets is tucked away next to the Corlett Recreation Center gym. On Tuesday and Thursday nights, the thunderous thud of a rubber ball hitting solid walls echoes from the CRC racquetball courts.

"These are the best courts I've ever played on," said Gene Dohrman, a longtime racquetball enthusiast and reigning island champion.

Dohrman is one of a group of players who meet most Tuesday and Thursday evenings, beginning at 7 p.m., for pick-up games in the facility's two courts.

These informal racquetball games become a challenge to "see how many points we can score off of Dohrman," joked Randy Erekson, who took up the sport a couple years ago.

Anyone is welcome to stop by. Just enter through the south doors of the CRC and you may wonder if you have been transported to some expensive health club 7,000 miles northeast of here.

The two racquetball courts, built in 1994, feature glass back walls (a nice amenity for spectators) and quality wood floors.

Besides the twice-weekly meetings, which can attract from two to six players each night, Community Activities is scheduled to host tournaments in September and November. The courts are open 7:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. daily.

Mr. Holland's Opus (PG, 1995)

Glenn Holland begins teaching at JFK High School with the intent of staying for just a few years until his career as a composer takes off. But three decades later, he's still nurturing students while letting his home life deteriorate. The movie echoes the theme of such films as "It's a Wonderful Life": No life spent in worthy pursuit is ever wasted. (Richard Dreyfuss) (142 minutes)
Richardson Theater, 7:30 p.m.

Flirting with Disaster (R, 1996)

Mel Copland is going through a mid-life crisis well before he's middle-aged. A control freak, Mel finds himself out of control when he embarks on a quest to find his biological parents, who apparently abandoned him as a baby. Dragging his wife and unnamed four-month-old son along for the ride, Mel runs into a strange cast of characters, including two gay federal officers, four parents and a brother who tries to send him on a bad acid trip. (Ben Stiller, Alan Alda, Patricia Arquette, Mary Tyler Moore) (92 minutes)

Yokwe Yuk Theater, 8 p.m.

Operation Condor (PG-13, 1997)

Jackie Chan movie featuring his usual spectacular stunts, amazing fights and silly humor. The story blends Indiana Jones with James Bond, with Chan as a soldier of fortune who goes to North Africa on a treasure hunt for Nazi gold. In pursuit are all sorts of bad guys, including a couple of bumbling Arab terrorists. (95 minutes)

Soulflower swings through on three-day tour

By Peter Rejcek
Associate Editor

Mixing original cuts and well-known crowd favorites, Soulflower brought its "progressive" rock-n-roll sound to Kwajalein and Roi-Namur this week in a three-day sweep through the atoll.

The four-member band played their own tunes from previously released albums, including their own "bootleg" that is caught up in a "legal battle" among the band, as well as music from the Beatles, Nirvana and others.

Sascha Alexander, lead guitarist and vocalist, said the band's been together since 1997. The Maui-based rockers have toured a good bit of the world, with such stars as Bob Dylan and Ozzy Osbourne.

And like the Beatles (their bootleg contains a twisted version of "Eleanor Rigby"), Alexander said the band is getting its inspiration from India, with plans to tour the subcontinent in the future.

Next up on the Kwaj music scene: A visit from USA Express, an Army band, in August.
