'Remember Pearl Harbor' was nation's call to arms

By John Pickler,
President, Kwajalein Range
Services

Perhaps no other call to arms, battle cry, or war slogan has evoked the kind of patriotic fervor and raised the national spirit for joining the armed forces as did "Remember Pearl Harbor" during the mobilization for and fighting during World War II. Clearly, this dramatic yet tragic event on Dec. 7, 1941, awoke the sleeping giant of the U.S. military manpower and industrial capacity that was unmatched anywhere in the world. Beyond that though, it crystallized and energized the fighting spirit of the military personnel to seek revenge for a devastating early dawn, surprise attack on an unsuspecting United States Pacific Fleet anchored in

Pearl Harbor and on the surrounding military airfields and installations on Oahu.

At 7:55 a.m. on an otherwise calm Sunday morning in Hawaii, the first wave of Japanese aircraft arrived over their target areas, and in just more than two hours the U.S. Navy had suffered its greatest defeat in history. Twenty-one vessels were sunk or damaged; U.S. airpower on the island was crushed; and American losses totaled 2,390, with many more wounded. In the wake of such a disaster, Americans rallied and a once-divided nation was now committed to avenge Pearl Harbor. The battle cry "Remember Pearl Harbor" carried our nation forward for the next three and a half years and helped us seal the victory over the Axis powers.

During this past Thanksgiving holiday weekend, our family had a most memorable reunion in Honolulu. Though Karen and I have been to Honolulu on several previous occasions, it was the first time our three children, their spouses, and the three of the four grandchildren had been to Hawaii. While our family members normally avoid 'scheduled events' during our reunions, their unanimous request was to visit Pearl Harbor and take the tour of the USS Arizona. While we had to wait several hours for our tour to begin, we were

One December day changed America forever

In September of 1939, Germany invaded Poland. In response, France and Great Britain mobilized for war and another European conflict had begun.

Americans remembered only too well the carnage of the European battlefields during World War I. They were almost solidly isolationist and wanted nothing to do with Europe's politics or problems.

Besides, Americans had their own concerns, struggling to extricate themselves from the economic ruin of the Depression. They were beginning to see some light at the end of the tunnel and the rest of the world wasn't their affair.

Even when our traditional ally, Great Britain, stood alone against the Germans and suffered through the Blitz, Americans did not want to become involved. Too many men had died in the trenches of France in 1918.

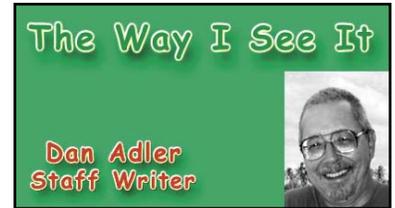

Winston Churchill's magnificent oratory was broadcast from London. It stirred America to sympathy, but not enough to send Americans to die for England.

On June 22, 1941, the Germans attacked the Soviet Union. The war was ever growing. The Germans and British were already fighting each other in the skies above England, in the sands of North Africa, in the Middle East and on the waters of the Atlantic Ocean. All of Western Europe was in the grip of Hitler's Germany. If the Soviet Union and Britain fell, Hitler would rule the whole of Europe, North Africa and the oil rich Middle East. There would be no European power left to oppose him.

In response to the dangerous situation, Franklin Roosevelt knew he had to help the British and the Soviets. He skillfully guided Lend Lease through a balky Congress and America became, in Roosevelt's phrase, 'The Arsenal of Democracy.' But Roosevelt knew the American people would never stand for direct involvement.

While the European war escalated, danger arose across the vast Pacific Ocean. The Japanese had invaded China in 1931 and a war had raged there since then. In 1937, Japanese troops massacred 300,000 Chinese civilians and

Living history

Utilomar tree planted as reminder of Kwajalein roots

By Nell M. Drumheller
Editor

The Marshallese Cultural Society, the U.S. Army Kwajalein Atoll and Kwajalein Range Service Environmental Departments, with the support of the COL Beverly Stipe, USAKA commander, planted an utilomar tree Monday as a living monument to the Marshallese story of Kwajalein roots.

Dr. Eric Lindborg, Kwajalein Hospital chief medical officer, emceed the ceremony, describing significance of the utilomar tree and said he hoped that children and grandchildren of those present at the ceremony would visit the tree and remember this event.

The tree was planted in a raised area overlooking the ocean near the fifth hole on Holmberg Fairways golf course.

According to information provided by Cris Lindborg of the Marshallese Cultural center, the place name "Kwajalein" is a European derivation of the Marshallese words ri-ruk-jan-leen; the people who gather or harvest the fruits or blossoms. The mythical flower tree itself has sometimes been called Kwajalein. The tree was a never-ending source for gathering blossoms used in making flower wreaths, and perfume. There was always an abundance of flowers, no matter how many and how often they were gathered. The bounty of the tree was also associated with schools of flying fish jojo that were concentrated in the nearby ocean. The fish were countless in number and always available for fishing. Legend also says that the flying fish would sometimes fly out of the water to form a great circle, as if there was a floating wit (a wreath of flowers) on the ocean's surface. The Kwajalein jojo fish represented the wonderful harvest of the ocean and the utilomar blossoms the reliable fruit of the land.

In Marshallese tradition Kwajalein is a place of abundance and generosity. The present day telling of the story adds that Kwajalein continues to offer sustenance, work and things of beauty to Marshallese from many different atolls as well as the many people who come from all over the world to harvest the fruits of Kwajalein.

tree because, according to Eric, the sapling would grow along with the community and relationships between the Americans and people of the Marshall Islands.

Happy holidays on Christmas island

By Lisa Barbella

On Saturday, much of the community gathered in front of the Yuk Club for the 38th annual Tree Lighting Ceremony. The blocked-off road was lined with food stands for people to enjoy while waiting for Santa to arrive and the event to begin. The ceremony started with the Junior/Senior High School Band performing the opening song Let it Snow, Let it Snow, Let it Snow to get the crowd into the holiday spirit. Emcee Simone Smead then welcomed the community and the Rev. Rick Funk, protestant chaplain, gave the invocation. The entertainment for the evening began with the Junior/Senior High School Band, led by Dick Shields, performing another song, Winter Wonderland. They were followed by the Brady Dance Troupe who danced to Rockin' Around the Christmas Tree. The young girls' performance was an example of how all age groups of Kwajalein residents attend and participate in this event. As Karen Brady, who led the troupe put it, "It's multidimensional; all generations are allowed to participate and enjoy it together."

The Junior/Senior High School Choirs sang Kwajalein at Christmas, a song written by choir leader Cheryl Shields for the event. The Kwajalein Girl Scouts also entertained the audience with a few Christmas songs and an established Tree Lighting ceremony favorite, the Job Corps, pleased the crowd with song and dance.

The main event, the lighting of the tree, occurred after COL Beverly Stipe, U.S. Army Kwajalein Atoll commander, gave a greeting and spoke about the meaning of Christmas on Kwajalein. The Rev. John Sheehan, Roman Catholic priest, gave the benediction then Santa and Mrs. Claus were invited to the stage where they led the audience in a countdown to lighting the tree. The giant Christmas tree, as well as the palm trees surrounding it, decorated by the Kwajalein Operations Appliance shop, illuminated the night with hundreds of lights.

The old Kwajalein festivity was enjoyed by those who attended, including long-time resident Cheryl DeLong for whom the event has become a favorite tradition. "They did a great job. It's become a great family tradition that I wouldn't choose to miss, it's a unique community event," DeLong stated.

all impressed with the solemn, almost reverent nature of our 75-minute program which began with a film of the Pearl Harbor attack and was followed by a boat ride to and tour of the USS Arizona Memorial. Beneath the surface of the water, we could clearly see the form of the Arizona, the final resting place for many of the ship's 1,177 crewmen who lost their lives on that fateful day. At one end of the Memorial is the shrine room where the names of those killed on the Arizona are engraved on the wall. As a special tribute to the ship and its lost crew, the U.S. flag flies from the flagpole, this is attached to the mainmast of the sunken battleship. The USS Arizona Memorial commemorates all of those whose lives were lost on Oahu, Dec. 7, 1941.

Three generations were represented during our family's visit to the USS Arizona Memorial. Although Karen and I are the only members of the family with any near term memory of the immediate aftermath of World War II, this visit had a strong and emotional, if not equal, impact on all of us. The legacy of Pearl Harbor -- the symbol of a nation unprepared for war -- still haunts our nation and stirs us to maintain an eternal vigilance. Its message to us is still the same today as it was in World War II, "Remember Pearl Harbor!"

raped an estimated 20,000 Chinese women at Nanjing. It was one of many atrocities the Japanese committed.

Few Americans were aware of what was happening there. Most of them looked toward Europe. But Roosevelt knew what was happening. He did all he could to persuade the Japanese government to leave China.

Diplomacy went on as the Chinese war raged. Finally, in an act of last resort, Roosevelt told the Japanese that if they did not withdraw from China, the United States would no longer supply them with oil and other vital materials that the Japanese economy desperately needed. The American Pacific fleet was ordered to go on alert.

And so the world stage was set.

On Dec. 6, 1941, America was a nation at peace. Isolationists ruled the politics of the country. Industry was geared to automobiles and everyday items. The draft had been extended by only one vote in congress.

On Sunday, Dec. 7, 1941, the Japanese struck Pearl Harbor in a sneak attack. It will forever be the day that lives in infamy. Germany declared war on the United States four days later. The war America tried to avoid had come calling.

Americans who had not wanted war now directed all their anger and might to defeating their attackers. Industry turned from automobiles to tanks, ships and planes.

At great cost in lives and treasure, after years of fighting, Americans, along with the British and the Soviets, defeated the tyranny of Hitler and Imperial Japan.

At war's end, Americans were weary. They wanted to retreat back into the world they knew before the war. It was over. They had done their duty. Now they just wanted the world to leave them alone. But it was not to be.

When those Japanese planes appeared out of nowhere in the bright blue Hawaiian sky above Pearl Harbor, America was forever changed.

She was thrust into a role she didn't ask for and didn't want. She became the defender of freedom in the world. She became a superpower.

America rebuilt Europe and Japan. She became the free world's shield against communism and tyranny. She fought 40 years of Cold War and the shooting wars in Korea and Vietnam.

America and the Soviet Union challenged each other in the Arms Race and the Space Race. America built a mighty military and spent billions on the race to the moon. The American economy became the strongest, most powerful and richest in the world.

Americans had bravely accepted the challenges and hardships of World War II and freed millions of enslaved people. They met the challenges and accepted the burden of standing against the Soviets in the post-war years so the sacrifices made by her Soldiers, Marines, Sailors and Airmen would not be in vain.

Ever since those Japanese bombs fell on Pearl Harbor and awakened a 'sleeping giant,' America has been the planet's greatest hope for freedom and justice.

How different the world might be, if not for one December day in 1941.

Television antennas will no longer be installed

Due to the increased number of maintenance issues with TV antennas installed by Kwajalein Range Services in the past 18 months, a moratorium is being placed on future installations and maintenance or repair of installed units. KRS is working with U.S. Army Kwajalein Atoll/Reagan Test Site to identify a corrosion-resistant antenna that is better suited for our harsh environment. Once a better solution has been identified, it will be communicated to all island residents.

Range operation scheduled for Tuesday

A range operation is scheduled for Tuesday. Caution times are from 1 p.m. to 9 p.m. In conjunction with this operation, a caution area will exist within the Kwajalein Atoll. The caution area is bounded on the north by Boked Island on the east reef and Yabbernohr Island on the west reef. On the south, the area is bounded by a line drawn north of Bigej on the east reef to a point at latitude 08 54.2N, longitude 167 45.8E, then to a point at latitude 08 52.8N, longitude 167 45.8E and then to a point north of the high tide mark on Ninni Island on the west reef.

Bigej, including the inner reef, is specifically excluded and is not a part of the mid-atoll corridor. All mid-atoll corridor islands are designated as sheltered islands. Additional areas specified outside the mid-atoll are designated as caution areas. See maps.

In order to ensure clearance of non-mission support personnel from the mid-atoll corridor by the window opening time, Kwajalein Police Department clearance procedures will begin at 7:30 a.m., Friday and continue until evacuation has been accomplished.

Egress of all air and seacraft will be required when requested by authorized clearance personnel. Subsequent to lagoon clearance, the hazard area will be in effect until mission completion.

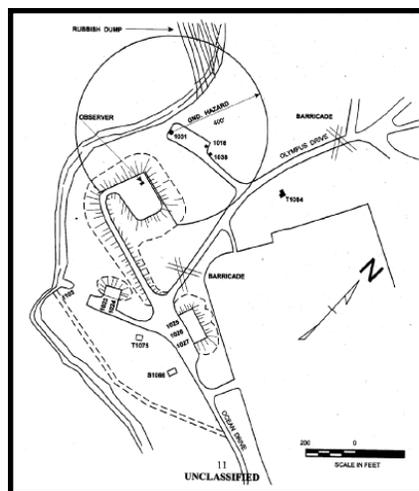

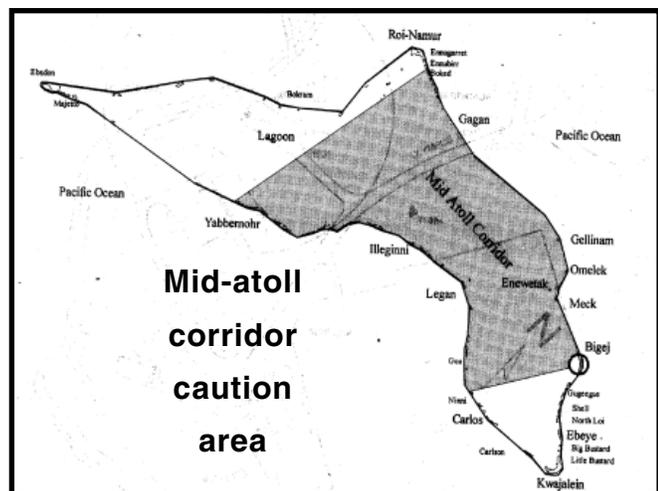

Vehicle and VHF silence is required on Roi-Namur from the opening of the launch window until released by the mission support coordinator. This includes gasoline driven generators and welding of any type. This includes radio traffic from Roi Ops, all marine, fire, Roi-Namur Police Department and private radios.

Although Bigej is outside the mid-atoll corridor, it and lagoon waters north of Bigej pass are off limits to all personnel for this mission.

In the event of a mission slip, the caution times and areas will be in effect for the following days:

- 1-9 p.m., Dec. 14
- 1-9 p.m., Dec. 15
- 1-9 p.m., Dec. 16

Questions regarding the above safety requirements should be directed to the U.S. Army Kwajalein Atoll Command Safety Directorate, Range Safety officer, 51910.

Ground caution area
