USAKA community invited to attend uncasing ceremony

Hourglass Reports

The U.S. Army Kwajalein Atoll community is invited to attend the upcoming uncasing ceremony scheduled at 11 a.m., Wednesday, at the Metro Hangar, Building 898. All guests are requested to wear closed-toe shoes.

The uncasing ceremony is a long-standing Army tradition involving the establishment of a new unit and organization. In this case, the ceremony will signify the official transition of all installation base operations from the Space and Missile Defense Command/Army Forces Strategic Command, to the Army's Installation Management Command. Debra Zedalis, director of IMCOM-Pacific region will be presiding over the ceremony along with the USAKA Commander, Col. Nestor Sadler. The Deputy to the Commanding General, Ronald Chronister, will be representing SMDC/ARSTRAT.

As a result of this transition, a new IMCOM flag will be uncased to effectively signify the establishment of the U.S. Army Garrison-Kwajalein Atoll command and organization here at the island. The garrison, which after more than two years of planning, will be functioning at full operating capability, and will be responsible for managing and executing all installation base operations, logistics and community services in support of the SMDC Reagan Test Site mission and its customers.

All current RTS functions and assets will remain directly subordinate to SMDC, while the senior commander of the installation will continue to be Lt. Gen. David Mann, commanding general of SMDC/ARSTRAT, located at Redstone Arsenal, Huntsville, Ala.

Sadler will serve as the first official IMCOM garrison commander at Kwajalein, commanding a diverse team of military, government civilian and contractor personnel. IMCOM is the Army proponent for

In Memoriam

Former U.S. Army Kwajalein Atoll Commander, Col. John Willis Banks Jr., Ret., passed away Sept. 10 from a heart attack. Banks served as the USAKA Commander from 1982-84.

Banks was born in Greenwich, Conn., but grew up in New York. He graduated from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute and Babson College, and then went on to become a career Army officer and Vietnam Veteran.

Banks retired in Huntsville, Ala., with his wife, Konny DuVal Kyhn, where they lived their lives together.

Banks is survived by his daughter, Caroline Banks, and his daughter, Ashley Parsons, son-in-law Robert, and grandsons, John and Michael.

THE KWAJALEIN HOURGLASS

The Kwajalein Hourglass is named for the insignia of the U.S. Army 7th Infantry Division, which liberated the island from the forces of Imperial Japan on Feb. 4, 1944.

The Kwajalein Hourglass is an authorized publication for military personnel, federal employees, contractor workers and their families assigned to U.S. Army Kwajalein Atoll. Contents of the Hourglass are not necessarily official views of, or endorsed by, the U.S. Government, Department of Defense, Department of the Army or USAKA. It is published Saturdays in accordance with Army Regulation 360-1 and using a network printer by Kwajalein Range Services editorial staff.

After living and working on Kwajalein for 42 years, Samuel Manaole is planning to retire at the end of the year. Manaole arrived at U.S. Army Kwajalein Atoll in 1971 and has worked at various departments, and for various companies, over the years. He began working in the supply department, moved over to merchandising, then on to automotive. After a few years, he went back to the merchandising department, and then finally to the shipping and receiving department where he has worked ever since. Manaole works for packing and crating and he mostly serves as a spotter for the stacker when cargo is off-loaded at Echo Pier.

Longtime Kwajalein resident departs island after 42 years

Manaole grew up in Hawaii. When he was 21 years old, he went to work in Washington State. He heard about a contracting job on Johnston Island and jumped at the opportunity. During his seven years at Johnston Island, Manaole learned about Kwajalein. At that time, flights from Kwajalein were routed through Johnston Island. When his contract there ended, he decided to give Kwajalein a try. After 42 years, he's glad he did.

Manaole said he likes living on Kwajalein for many reasons. He enjoys the quiet and safe community; he feels it is easy to make friends and talk to people on island. Back in his younger years, he used to play tennis and helped out at swim meets. He also really enjoyed when Kwajalein hosted the carnival.

After living on Kwajalein for over four decades, Manaole has witnessed all the changes in island infrastructure, population and activities. He said he really enjoyed when the island had a larger population, over 5,000 at one point; there was always something going on. Positive changes include the demolition of the Pacific Bachelor Quarters and construction of the new bachelor quarters used today. Manaole used to be housed in the PBQ, where there were 10 residents to a room; he enjoys having his own room in the new BQs.

Manaole will depart Kwajalein at the end of this year and retire in Las Vegas. He said the things he will miss most about Kwajalein are the friendships he's made, the smiles from good people and all the fun he's had over the years.

Yokwe!

Liz Mefford is the new hair stylist, joining Mistee Julian, at Surfside Salon. Together they will be a dynamic duo, providing lots of style and a little sass. Mefford is from Denver; her neighbor used to work on Kwajalein and forwarded her the job opening at the salon. Mefford is looking forward to meditating on the beach, diving and eating fresh coconut. "Thank you to everyone who has been so kind and welcoming! I'm really enjoying the island and community," she said. "Cheers to adventure!"

Serving and Leading

Celebrate National Hispanic Heritage Month from Sept. 15 to Oct. 15

By Ray Drefus
USAKA Education Services Specialist

The theme for this year's observance is, "Hispanics: Serving and Leading our Nation with Pride and Honor."

The U.S. Army recognizes the achievements and contributions of Hispanic Americans. America's diversity is a powerful source of strength, and Hispanic Americans have not hesitated to defend and show their allegiance to this nation in many heroic ways, but especially through their military service.

You don't have to look far to see incredible examples of Hispanic American leaders. Dr. Joseph W. Westphal, the 30th Undersecretary of the Army was born in Santiago, Chile, and moved to the United States with his family at the age of 6. Dr. Westphal has stated, "Diversity is a natural element of Army culture ... a critical element in our ability to sustain the Force by attracting Soldiers and Civilians from all backgrounds."

What many of us may not be aware of is that Hispanic Americans have been an important part of our nation's history beginning with the actions of Gen. Bernardo de Galvez during the American Revolution.

Galvez's successful campaign against the British at Pensacola, Fla., was a decisive factor in the outcome of the American Revolution. The Texas city of Galveston was named after him.

Hispanic Americans have honorably defended our country in war and helped our nation thrive in peace. Approximately 1.2 million Hispanics are proud veterans of our armed forces. Approximately 115,000 Soldiers of Hispanic descent dedicate their lives nobly serving our Army and nation today.

Since the Civil War, 44 Hispanic Americans have received the Medal of Honor for distinguishing themselves through their valorous actions in combat.

Most recently, Sgt. 1st Class Leroy Arthur Petry, of Hispanic descent from Sante Fe, N.M., was awarded the Medal of Honor by President Obama during 2011 for his acts of gallantry and intrepidity at the risk of his own life.

On May 26, 2008, during his seventh deployment, Petry was a member of a team on a mission to capture a Taliban target in Paktia Province. Despite being wounded in both legs by gunfire, Petry continued to fight and give orders. When a grenade landed between him and two other Soldiers, Petry grabbed it and attempted to throw it away from them when it exploded.

His actions saved several Soldiers' lives, but severed his right hand. He chose to re-enlist despite his wounds; Petry is currently stationed at Joint Base Lewis-McChord, Wash., helping other Wounded Warriors.

Hispanics have served courageously as members of our Armed Forces to defend those ideals at home and abroad. Hispanic Americans are an important thread in the fabric of our great nation and our proud Army.

Army Strong.

Kwajalein parents, teens take on bullying with introduction of Kind Campaign

Hourglass Reports

“Finding Kind” is a movement and documentary that focuses on an ever-growing issue for teens: bullying. Kwajalein parents Sam and Melissa Engelhard are spearheading the “Finding Kind” movement here on Kwajalein, with a special parent and student screening of the film being offered next week. Parents will screen the film first, at 7 p.m., Friday, in the MP Room at Kwajalein High School. The student screening will be at 4 p.m., Oct. 5, in the MP Room; the student screening is for girls ages 11-18 only.

The Kind Campaign is an internationally recognized movement, documentary and school program based upon the powerful belief in kindness that brings awareness and healing to the negative and lasting effects of girl-against-girl “crime.” Physical fighting, name-calling, threats, power struggles, competition, manipulation, secrets, rumors and ostracizing other girls all fall under the category of girl-against-girl “crime.” The challenge and goal of the “Finding Kind” movement is to choose to take a stand and help create change.

After viewing the film, attendees will have a discussion about how bullying has affected their lives, and how they can prevent or mitigate it in the future. Part of the program includes the use of the Kind Pledge, Kind Apology and Kind Card, which help to mend friendships. The Kind Pledge is where a girl writes down a pledge or action step they are going to take to bring an end to bullying. The Kind Apology gives girls the opportunity to write a personalized apology for something they have said or done to another female. The Kind Card gives girls the chance to write something kind to another female. In our busy everyday lives, we often forget to stop and compliment others.

For additional information, contact the Engelhards at 51824, or see the Kind Campaign website at www.kindcampaign.com.
