Outage affects phone lines Scootin'

By Barbara Johnson
Feature Writer

More than 1,500 residential and business phone lines died Saturday, from Eighth Street north to the vicinity of the CRC, according to Jim Schilling, Raytheon mission support supervisor.

The Communications Department heard about the problem around 8:20 a.m. Saturday, when the Fire Department reported 18 fire alarms from around the island had gone off simultaneously, and they had determined they were not due to fires.

Shortly after, Communications began receiving phone calls reporting outages. Telephone crews searched for and found a rupture in the covering of the telephone cable on Lagoon Road, near the Community Activities Building.

"The cable is over 45 years old and insulated with paper," Schilling said. "When it broke open, the air that is pumped inside to keep water out leaked, and water got in, melting the paper and shorting the lines all together.

"We found a wet area and spliced

The forecast for the weekend includes a horde of large and small goblins and ghosts descending upon Kwajalein.

The annual children's Costume Contest, put on by Community Activities, takes place Saturday evening at the Multi-Purpose Room. At 5 p.m. the Kwajalein Dance Association will present a Halloween Dance recital. Starting at 5:15 p.m., infants, the first of 10 groups, will be carried onto the stage to show off their costumes

A bicycle stands unused as Rudy Gil, Jr., 13, flies by on a shiny, new scooter on Lincoln Street. Children between five and 14 are opting for scooters rather than in-line skates or bikes as a means of transportation. Scooters are at the top of Christmas wish lists.

Stateside craze rolls across Pacific

By Barbara Johnson
Feature Writer

It's called the "scooter craze" in the states, and it has scooted across the Pacific to Kwaj in the past several months.

Those fold-up, foot-powered metal scooters, first widely sold in the states in late 1999, are starting to glide down our streets in increasing numbers.

By all accounts, it's the "in thing" here now, from kindergarten age on up. Some kids who don't already have them will probably ask for them for Christmas.

Rudy Gil Jr., 13, bought his scooter on the Internet. He says that they're used on Kwaj by kids from about 5 to 14.

"They fold up, they're easier to maneuver and they do more things [than a skateboard]," he said. "You hold on with your hands and control them with a foot on the ground. If you fall, you have your feet on the ground, he added, explaining why they're easier to use than a skateboard.

Their popularity soared this summer, and as many as 2 million to 5 million are expected to be sold this year stateside, according to the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission. That's about $2 million in sales, up from close to zero last year.

But are they safe?

These shiny, high-tech versions of the kick-powered scooters popular in the '50s caused about 11,300 injuries by October of this year, according to the commission. Almost 90 percent involved children under 15, and most were cuts, bruises and sprains. But a third were broken bones and dislocations, mostly in the arms and hands. More than 4,000 injuries were reported in August

Now's the time to vote for the Yoda of your choice

The Presidential election is coming up and while the Hourglass will not endorse a candidate, we would encourage you to vote.

For you soldier-types, you'll be picking your next commander-in-chief. In a way, you are picking your boss's boss. How many people can say they have that opportunity? OK, millions of government workers, but it's still pretty cool.

For us contractor-types, well, we get to elect the person who will have a direct impact on our lives at the range, as well as numerous other issues that may affect us in different ways, depending on the issue and what may be happening in our lives. A pretty weighty decision, indeed, and it only comes around every four years.

Think about this. I know you've probably seen e-mails on this topic, but consider, the kids voting this year for the first time never knew life without MTV or microwave ovens. They were never politically savvy during the Cold War. You might as well be talking about the Civil War.

The Beatles. The Rolling Stones, and Led Zeppelin are as foreign to them as Glenn Miller, Benny Goodman or Tommy Dorsey.

Every president they've ever known is still alive.

And computers. Since these kids have been alive, most every home has had one. The real curmudgeons in the bunch might say in a few years, "I remember life before the Internet."

What I find most unforgiveable — they didn't see Star Wars in the theater until two years ago. How can one grow up without hearing Yoda say, "You must feeel the Force," and "When 900 years old you reach, look as good you will not."

This latest crop of 18-year-olds have grown up with new Disney musicals every other summer.

And these kids are supposed to help pick the next president?

I'm sure every generation asks that same question every four years, and the Republic keeps on rolling.

I suspect we'll keep rolling, despite the lack of quality entertainment growing up. But for the 18-year-old reader, let me break regulations here and endorse a candidate. Place a write-in vote for Yoda. He was a wise Jedi master.

Seriously, maybe we all should just vote our conscience.

Want to voice an opinion?

If you have a communitywide issue to raise and no other outlet, perhaps you should write a letter to the editor. Keep your verbage to less than 300 words, and keep your comments to the issues. This would be a no-libel zone. Letters must be signed. We will edit for AP Style and, if you exceed the word limit, space. Please limit yourself to one letter every 30 days, to give other readers a chance to write.

Send your letter to:

Health fair draws crowds

By KW Hillis
Feature Writer

A toddler, with a vivid yellow balloon tied to her wrist and three smiley face stickers on her jumper, tightly gripped a lollipop in one hand and a box of toothpaste in the other.

"Start teaching them young about good health," said dentist, Dr. Michael Johnson, sitting behind the dental information table at the Fourth Annual Kwajalein Hospital Health Fair last Monday.

Tables, overflowing with literature about stress, diet, arthritis, mammograms, cholesterol tests and food and personal safety tips filled up Macy's side lawn and covered walkway.

One after another, residents had their blood pressure taken by nurses Kris Brown and Kathy Campbell, Occupational Health director, at the Occupational Health booth.

At the nurses' booth, a small crowd formed as children picked up crayon books and stickers, and their parents and other residents willingly had their fingers pricked for blood sugar tests.

"We did over 100 blood sugar tests," said nurse Julie Fair. "I personally sent five or six for a follow-up at the hospital since their blood sugar was [high]."

Leonie Williamson, a recent Kwaj arrival, said, "My blood sugar was too high when they checked it. The [nurse] told me to go by the hospital this week to have it checked. This fair is absolutely a great idea."

Children crowded around the Environmental, Safety and Industrial Health booth trying to guess how many earplugs were in a basket. Rachael Teagarden, 12, won a rollerblading helmet and pads with an exact guess of 400 earplugs.

In addition to an ergonomics station set up so residents could be measured for proper height and access to their work areas, pamphlets and a myriad of videos on topics such as water, bike, home repair and food safety were on display.

The videos will be available for checkout at the library, said Dave Burris, RSE Safety and Industrial Hygiene manager. "Families can check the videos out then watch and discuss them together."

Many residents signed up as prospective blood donors and picked up a free cholesterol packet from the Medical Laboratory Services booth.

People cannot eat or drink, except for water, for 10 hours before showing up for their cholesterol test, said William Coughlin, medical laboratory technologist.

"A lot of people are asking about flu shots since we offered them last year at the fair," said pharmacist Susan Eade-Parson, while handing a Tylenol sample to a fairgoer. "We won't have [the flu shots] until sometime in November."

Dr. Eric Lindborg, chief medical officer, talked to residents about prevention and early detection of skin cancer at the doctors' booth.

"The turnout was great. The weather cooperated," said Kevin Stanforth, physical therapist and fair coordinator. "I just wish that more of our Marshallese workers attended."

Vehicles work from nine to five

By Bob Fore
Feature Writer

In the last few weeks, a number of government vehicles have been observed in the housing area and are suspected by the Provost Marshal's office of being used for unauthorized/unofficial reasons. Vehicle operators are reminded that government vehicles are to be used for official government business only.

"No matter which agency the vehicle belongs to, the operator must comply with USAKA/KMR policies and regulations regarding their proper use," said Maj. Paul Bezzek, USAKA/KMR provost marshal. "Individuals who fail to comply will receive a written citation and, depending upon the seriousness of the infraction, may be subject to further administrative action including loss of driving privileges."

Duty vehicles may not be used for personal reasons such as travel to movies, retail or recreational facilities, to the snack bar, dining facility or home for meals, or for checking personal mail at the post office.

Certain USAKA/KMR vehicles can be rented for personal use by contacting RSE Automotive Operations at 53341. Persons on TDY status may rent vehicles and operate them as "rental cars" provided they observe all parking rules and restrictions.

"Drivers need to have no doubt as to the nature of their vehicle use," said Bert Godlewski, USAKA/KMR equipment specialist. "If there is a doubt, it is probably best to use their bikes."

As a reminder, parking is prohibited in the residential areas after 8 p.m., with the exception of on-call hospital and fire department vehicles. All other call-out vehicles must be parked in the designated parking lot at the corner of Seventh Street and Lagoon Road, unless they have been given specific permission from the USAKA/KMR commander or his representative.

Any questions may be directed to Automotive Operations, 53341, or the USAKA/KMR Transport Office, 53770.

Women's Club operates Mic Shop for 37 years

By Gwyne Copeland
Contributing Writer

The Micronesian Handicraft Shop is celebrating an anniversary. The Yokwe Yuk Women's Club has operated the Mic Shop for 37 years this week.

Today, the shop is brimming with handicrafts made by artisans from throughout Micronesia, including the Marshall Islands, Palau, Yap, Kosrae, Chuuk and Pohnpei, and profits go back to the islands.

In the past year the shop has donated $35,000 to the YYWC's Education and Assistance Committee. The EAC distributes the money for educational needs throughout Micronesia.

All of the merchandise is purchased directly from the artisans, pumping tens of thousands of dollars into the island economies. The sales to the Mic Shop are some artisans' only source of income.

Opened at the air terminal in 1962, the Mic Shop was the inspiration of Josephine White, the wife of the Trust Territory District Representative for Kwajalein at the time. According to Mic Shop history, White wanted to supply Kwaj residents with native handicrafts and to improve the Micronesian economy by providing an outlet for local products.

A year later, in 1963, White and her husband were transferred to Yap, and the Yokwe Yuk Women's Club assumed responsibility for the shop on Oct. 22.

The women's club adopted the additional purpose of donating all of the Mic Shop profits to educational needs in Micronesia.

Since that time, the Education and Assistance Committee of the Yokwe Yuk Women's Club has given an average of $30,000 a year in scholarships and grants throughout Micronesia.

When Tricia Conner heard the Mic Shop's mission she knew that's where she wanted to volunteer.

"It's eloquent in its beauty ... the way they encourage production of artifacts and how all the money is sent back to benefit education," Conner said.

The Micronesian Handicraft Shop specializes in handmade artifacts from the Marshall Islands and Micronesia. Some of the big sellers are carved sharks from Pohnpei that include real sharks' teeth. The Mic Shop has been operated in the air terminal for nearly four decades.

Conner has served as the buyer for Chuukese goods for more than two years. She said it's been a way for her to volunteer and still be home with her young children. Buyers unpack, inventory and price the merchandise.

"When you get a box, it's always exciting to open it up and see the new things. I've come to appreciate the artisans. After seeing so many shipments you develop an eye, and the Mic Shop really carries nice things," Conner said.

Dianne Tarnstrom is currently the president of the women's club, but in two previous tours on Kwaj she served as the Mic Shop chair.

"The Mic Shop is the best thing on the island. It does the most good. It is the most interesting," Tarnstrom said.

"In the '70s there were so many people who wanted to volunteer, you had to get on a waiting list to work here," Tarnstrom said.

Today, the Mic Shop continues to be operated by volunteers. About 50 donate their time to the shop each month.

Mic Shop chair, Ronalee MacQueen, said she appreciates all the work people do, but if they had more volunteers they could open the shop more.

Dotty Miller has volunteered at the Mic Shop for 11 years. "I like that the hours I put in there means a child may have a book to read," she said.

Miller and other volunteers said they enjoy working with the women on Kwajalein who are all dedicated to serving the children of Micronesia.

If you'd like to volunteer to work a two-hour shift at the Mic Shop, call MacQueen at 54609.

Hospital sets appointment guidelines

From Kwajalein Hospital

In an effort to reduce patient waiting times during sick call hours, Kwajalein Hospital has issued a set of guidelines.

"Our main goal is to service the community as best we can," said Valerie Gray, Outpatient Department nurse manager. "Following these guidelines will help us to accomplish this."

Anyone needing to schedule an appointment with a physician should contact Kwajalein Hospital at 52223 or 52224. Appointments are available Tuesdays through Saturdays from 1:00 p.m. until 3:45 p.m. When requested or authorized by the physician, patients may receive an appointment for 10:30 a.m. on weekdays.

A scheduled appointment should be made when someone has a chronic problem, or when the patient believes that an extended amount of time may be needed with the physician.

An example of this would be when a new arrival on island needs to have prescriptions refilled for an ongoing problem and needs to establish themselves with a physician.

Other examples of this would be if the patient has a history of high blood pressure, diabetes or mole/lesion removals.

These examples take time, and it will be in the patient's best interest if the physician has a specific time set aside for them.

Sick call is held Tuesday through Saturday from 8:00 a.m. to 10:30 a.m. for urgent, emergency or acute problems that cannot wait for an appointment and generally require 10 to 15 minutes of a physician's time.

Weekday afternoons are reserved for emergencies and appointments.

A patient reporting for sick call with a problem requiring more time will be requested to return and be prioritized for a scheduled appointment.

After 10:30 a.m. until 4:30 p.m., if an appointment is not made, there will be an additional walk-in service fee. After 4:30 p.m. until 7:30 a.m., as well as on weekends and holidays, there will be a minimum flat rate emergency room fee for services rendered.

Routine shots and immunizations are given from 1:30 p.m. until 4:00 p.m., Tuesdays through Saturdays.

Anyone under the age of 18 must have a written consent from a legal guardian to receive care at the hospital.

"Anyone with questions should feel free to contact the hospital," Gray said, "and we will be sure to get an answer for them."

Costumes are preferred ...

to the judges. The judges will select three winners from each group.

Sunday night, from 6:30-8:30 p.m., is the official Trick or Treat time in the housing area. Leave porch lights on to keep all the small goblins, ballerinas and witches safe. Children should carry flashlights and be able to see clearly through masks.

Sunday and Monday nights at the CRC, the Haunted House doors will creak open for the public. Younger residents, preschool to sixth grade, will be welcomed by the ghostly gatekeeper between 6-7 p.m. Seventh-graders to adults will be entertained and frightened from 7:15-8:30 p.m. Children eight and younger should be accompanied by their parents. Nine-year-olds through seventh-graders should be accompanied by an adult 21 or older.

The Roi Outrigger Club's Halloween party will be Saturday evening. The traditional costume contest will start at 8 p.m. and Latitude 8 will play.

Gilligan's Halloween Bash will commence at 5:30 p.m., Sunday. The costume contest starts at 8 p.m.

For Halloween, CPN will rebroadcast the 1938 radio show, "War of the Worlds," Tuesday at 2 p.m. on 1224 AM and 101.1 FM.

Daylight-saving time

Don't forget, clocks in the continental United States are rolled back one hour as of 2 a.m. Sunday.

Phone service restored ...

and repaired it by 10:30 p.m. Saturday," he said, "but then we realized it was wet much farther than that."

Schilling said they won't know the extent of the damage until they remove the cable.

"Luckily, we had already laid the new section of replacement cable funded last year," Schilling said. "The plan was to cut over into the new cable in early December, but we had to go ahead and do it now."

The crew started with pair No. 1, and by noon Thursday had switched over all 1,500 lines. Almost everyone's service was restored by Thursday afternoon.

This cable, which is two generations ahead of the old cable, is plastic-insulated and jelly-filled. It should cause a lot fewer problems, Schilling said, but it only replaces a section of the old cable, between Building 1010 and IMD.

"If we get funding, the plan is to replace cable up to the [housing area]," Schilling said, adding, "Something will happen again before it's replaced."

There will be some problems because of crossed lines, Schilling said. Over the years, a lot of pairs had become crossed in the old cable.

As of Thursday, a crew will have to respond to individual problems with crossed lines or out-of-service phones.

Schilling said that anyone having problems with crossed lines should call 55111.

Scootin'

alone, an increase of 700 percent from May.

Nearly two-thirds of scooter-related injuries could have been prevented or lessened, according to the commission, if riders had worn helmets, wrist guards and knee and elbow pads.

The CPSC recommends that scooter riders, especially children, wear the same kind of safety gear recommended for in-line skating — a helmet and knee and elbow pads. This equipment can cost less than $35.

The Raytheon Safety Office says that so far there have been no recorded injuries at Kwaj directly related to this type of scooter.

They have several recommendations for scooter safety on island:

- Treat the scooter like a bicycle regarding rules of the road
- Stay off sidewalks in and around the mall
- Wear protective equipment
- Beware — it is difficult for pedestrians and drivers to see people on scooters. They are used to seeing people on bicycles.

The scooters often have small wheels like those on in-line skates and lightweight polished aluminum frames that weigh less than 10 pounds and fold up. They also feature high-tech plastic wheels like those on in-line skates and a rear brake.

New ones this year have features for tricks, Gil said.

Macy's West has sold 32 of a popular brand of scooters on island, at $55, and they are trying to get more before the holidays, said Dave Fearon, manager. They are also available on the Internet at a range of prices and sizes.

Kids aren't the only ones using the scooters — college students and commuters in cities across the country are using them for transportation. And the fad has spread around the world, from Hong Kong to Switzerland to Israel.

New
from the Tape Escape

The Skulls — When Luke McNamara (Joshua Jackson) is invited to join the prestigious secret college society, The Skulls, where presidents are groomed and wealthy bloodlines bond, it's a dream come true. But when a fellow pledge gets caught up in murder, Luke is alone amidst the sinister and well-connected brotherhood. Rated PG-13.

Shanghai Noon — Two cultures collide when East meets West in this action-adventure comedy starring Jackie Chan, Owen Wilson and Lucy Liu. Chan is a Chinese Imperial Guard who goes to the old West to rescue a beautiful, kidnapped Princess and meets up with a laid-back outlaw cowboy. Rated PG-13.

Love and Basketball — From the playground to the pro leagues Monica and Quincy taught each other how to play the game. Now their commitment to the sport will force them to choose between each other and the game. Produced by Spike Lee and Sam Kitt and starring Sanaa Lathan and Omar Epps. Rated PG-13.

U-571 — A U.S. Navy captain and his crew are called back from leave for a top-secret assignment, where they must disguise themselves as Nazis and infiltrate a severely damaged Nazi U-Boat. Their assignment is to steal the Nazi's top-secret coding device and sink the sub before the Germans catch on to what's really happening. The movie features explosions, raging fires and speeding torpedoes. Stars Matthew McConaughey, Bill Paxton and Harvey Keitel. Rated PG-13.

American Psycho — Patrick Bateman is a young, handsome, Harvard-educated success. He seems perfect, with his beautiful fiancée and high-powered friends, but he has another side they don't know, one that lusts for more than status and material things. Stars Christian Bale, Reese Witherspoon and Willem Dafoe as the detective hot on Bateman's trail. Rated R.

Snow Day — Chevy Chase, Jean Smart and Chris Elliott team up in this comedy about a snow day, when school's out because of an unexpected snowfall. For 15-year-old Hal, it's a chance to win the heart of a popular girl — or embarrass himself. For 10-year-old Natalie, it's a chance to create a second snow day, if she can stop Snowplowman, the town's road-clearing fiend. Rated PG.

DC-8 are: For Monday and Wednesday (Honolulu time), the DC-8 aircraft show time for duty passengers is not later than (NLT) 5 a.m. local. At 5:30 a.m. local, all unfilled/empty seats will be released to Space-A travelers. On Friday (Honolulu time) the C-141 show time for duty passengers is NLT 6:55 a.m. local. At 7:25 a.m. local, unfilled/empty seats are released for Space-A travelers. If duty passengers arrive after the seats are released for Space-A use, the duty passengers will be manifested for the flight only if there are still unfilled/empty seats, and the passenger terminal has sufficient time to process the traveler without delaying the aircraft. The decision rests with the passenger terminal supervisor.

Keep in mind that Space-A travelers, once manifested, will not be bumped off the flight due to late-show duty passengers. Space-A roll-call Mondays and Wednesdays (Honolulu time) will be at 4:30 a.m. local. Space-A roll-call Fridays (Honolulu time) will be at 6:25 a.m. local. It is always good for travelers to show a few minutes early; however, as long as the traveler is on time and ready to travel, they will be considered for the flight. Call the Hickam flight information recording, 449-1854, for the most current updates on your flight. You may also call the terminal, 449-1515.

Some RSE managers may have a few more tools to use within their respective departments.

Dr. Mary Lippitt, president of Enterprise Management, came to Kwaj this week to share her insights on leadership, including motivation, communication, teaming and conflict, to name a few, with 30 managers and supervisors.

Class participants discussed strategies common throughout industry and those unique to Kwajalein.

"You're all living together," Lippitt said. "The issues managers have to handle are broader... You have to have more flexibility, if the phones are down, or the plane doesn't come in as scheduled. Managers in the states don't have to deal with all of those same issues."

Lippitt comes to Kwajalein from Bethesda, Md. She's been a corporate trainer since 1974, and served as president of Enterprise Management since 1985. A lot has changed over the years.

"It's more results-oriented. Time is more precious. It's harder for people to come to training," she said. "There's a greater need for customizing [training]."

In fact, Lippitt received materials and local scenarios months ago to help her develop the program.

But one thing she didn't expect was, "the friendliness, the mutual support," she said. "I'm not wearing my sweater. I was cold and someone loaned it to me. The generosity here is very special."
