Cmdr. John Neagley does not simply believe in the 300 men and women under his command on the USS Fitzgerald. He is in awe of them.

"The guys who run this ship are really great Americans," he said. "It's humbling to be around them."

The commander of the guided missile destroyer, one of America's Arleigh Burke class destroyers, featuring an array of advanced weapons and radars, agreed to an interview Monday morning before the ship left port that day.

Lib Island open to Kwaj visitors

By Peter Rejcek
Associate Editor

Visitors to Lib are welcome but need to offer more than a courtesy wave when they visit the nearby island, according to the USAKA Host Nation office.

Maj. David Coffey, USAKA Host Nation chief, said his office conducted a survey of the island late last month, studying the effects of visits by Americans to the traditional island community. He said the islanders are happy to accommodate visitors, but are "somewhat offended" by Kwajers who come there, fish or dive, and then leave.

"They would prefer that we make a courtesy stop to let them know what we are doing and to just be neighborly," he explained.

Volunteers help keep Kwaj, Roi running

Whether as visible as a person dressed in a plaid kilt playing a drum and marching down Ebeye's main road or as invisible as a young man helping sign up residents for a golf tournament — volunteers do make a difference.

In conjunction with National Volunteer Week 2002, held April 21-27 in the states, the command recognized the work of volunteers at a dinner Tuesday night at the Yokwe Yuk Club.

Stand up and salute: Mother's Day is just around the corner

Dear Col. Wrenn:

Today is Military Spouse Appreciation Day, and I sure hope you got something nice for Sheila. Macy's has an excellent selection of island-style jewelry.

You might also want to remind the troops, since you work them pretty hard, especially during the latest run of missions, and so the spouses probably don't see much of them.

I guess we contractors don't have an official spouse appreciation day, so if I may, can we borrow the military day for the same purpose? I'm sure it's in the scope of work.

I'll assume so for now, and tell you about my personal favorite spouse on-island, Gina Bennett. Due to work requirements, she's essentially been a single, working mom of an infant for the past six months.

In that time, our daughter has learned to walk, and she's close to talking, without swearing, despite my part-time influence. She's had the usual run of childhood bugs and kept her mom up for some bit of most nights; but then apparently spouses, particularly moms, don't require much sleep. God bless 'em.

Anyway, I'm sure most guys out here can relate and tell you a similar story.

Caring for the kids in one or another's absence, or even just supporting the partner, in the case of those without kids, all makes the missions doable. I'm not knocking the single folks. They probably need a day, too, but not this one.

My thought here is, in the words of the great television show "Hee Haw" (OK, maybe it wasn't that great), to give all the spouses, particularly moms (whose special day is Sunday), a big salute.

Salute.

Community Activities needs public's help to keep Emon Beach clean

I bet just about everybody at Kwaj has bid farewell, wished a Happy Birthday, hung out with friends or just watched a sunset from one of the beach pavilions. The pavilions and picnic tables at the beaches are one of the best things going at Kwaj, and they are free.

However, dirty and poorly maintained facilities are no fun for anyone, and certainly disappointing for the person who made a reservation only to appear and find a mess.

Community Activities and FOM's Buildings and Grounds clean the grounds daily, but often the pavilions are "trashed" minutes later. Lately, the problem has gotten worse and I am appealing to everyone to take a minute to clean up after yourself, after someone else who was not thoughtful and just work together to keep the area looking its best.

Take down your decorations after parties and do not use staples to hang up decorations (they rust and bleed into the paint).

Pavilion reservations can be made by calling Community Activities at 53331 or the CRC at 52491. If each person pitched in a little bit, this problem would be solved overnight and we would all benefit!

Thanks in advance for your help!

Rustman succeeds despite poor conditions

[Kwajalein Running Club] recently completed its 23rd Rustman event. It was held in conditions that were anything but ideal! And even though it was held in such stormy conditions, it was still a success.

I would like to say thanks to all the volunteers and organizers for all the hard work they put into it. They were there long before we participants arrived and long after we left. Without their efforts the event would not have been such a success. It was their devotion to spend their day and willingness to stand in the rain that made Rustman XXIII what it was!

Thank you all!

I would also like to thank the spectators who came out to give their support. Especially the group at the corner by Finance. I couldn't see you but I heard you every time I rode by, and it was great motivation to keep hammering away! Thanks!

Paul Belarde

Range operation scheduled for Wednesday

From the Command Safety Office

A range operation is scheduled for Wednesday, May 15. Caution times are 7:01 p.m. through 4:01 a.m. Thursday, May 16.

In conjunction with this operation, a caution area will exist within Kwajalein Atoll, defined by the area bounded on the north by Boked Island on the east reef and Yabbernohr Island on the west reef, and bounded on the south by a line drawn north of Bigej Island on the east reef to a point at latitude 08 54.2N, longitude 167 45.8E, then to a point at latitude 08 52.8N, longitude 167 45.8E, and then to a point north of the high tide mark on Ninni Island on the west reef.

Bigej Island, including the inner reef, is specifically excluded and is not a part of the mid-atoll corridor. Illeginni is designated as an evacuation island. All other mid-atoll corridor islands are designated as sheltered islands. Additional areas specified outside the mid-atoll are designated as caution areas (see map at right).

In order to ensure clearance of non-mission support personnel from the mid-atoll corridor by the window opening time, Kwajalein Police Department island clearance procedures will begin at 7:30 a.m. Sunday, May 12, and continue until evacuation has been accomplished. Egress of all air and sea craft will be required when requested by authorized clearance personnel. Subsequent to lagoon clearance, the hazard area will be in effect until mission completion.

In the event of a mission slip, the caution times and areas will be in effect for the following days:

•7:01 p.m. Thursday, May 16, through 4:01 a.m. Friday, May 17

•7:01 p.m. Friday, May 17, through 4:01 a.m. Saturday, May 18

Questions regarding the above safety requirements for this mission should be directed to the Command Safety Office, range safety officer, 52477.

Kwajalein BAC addresses food issues, maid service

By KW Hillis
Feature Writer

Many of the issues brought to the Kwajalein Bachelor Advisory Council can be addressed elsewhere.

"Has it been called in?" asked CW2 Wiley Blanton, KBAC chairman, in response to many concerns. Before problems such as trees blocking a walkway behind the BQs or a leaking ceiling is brought to the BAC or called into the Commander's Hotline, they should be addressed to Housing Services at 53201.

If unaccompanied housing personnel first call Housing Services, they'll either call FOM or send someone out to see what the problem is, said Pinky Hina, UPH supervisor.

Waiting until the BAC meets or calling the hotline before the problem is called in actually adds time to the resolution, said Susan Kleback, Housing Services superintendent.

In other BAC business:

Unauthorized use of facilities

Problems with non-residents using laundry facilities in the BQs and monopolizing the pavilion behind the Tropics BQ were brought up by various BQ representatives.

Both issues were taken under advisement by Housing Services.

Noise

A solution to handle the noise from smokers standing outside of Gilligan's is being sought, Blanton said. When BQ residents are disturbed by the noise, they should continue to call the police, he added.

Maids

As of now, no maids are allowed in the BQs. Some residents, both male and female, have asked if they could hire a maid, said Sue Rosoff, Coral BQ representative.

"It is not Housing [Services] or USAKA; it is an RMI request not to allow maids in the BQs," said Carol Eaton, USAKA Housing Services manager. "We're seeing if we can revisit it again with Host Nation."

Food issues

As a result of a suggestion at a previous KBAC meeting, FOM is currently surveying the Adult Recreation Center to determine the cost of installing a kitchen.

Quality and availability of prepared food from various outlets on island was addressed by Frieda Straub, Sodexo USA Operations manager.

"Since the lines have been so long at the bakery, because of our success, we're looking at options to speed it up," she said.

The minimum cost of a delivered item from Three Palms Snack Bar has been decreased from $10 to $5. The delivery menu has been streamlined to maintain quality, she said.

Special items, such as a potato bar on Thursday nights and pizza specials, have been added. In addition, stir-fry cooking on Wednesdays is now available at the Three Palms, Straub said.

Host Nation takes survey of Lib ...

"I recommend also sharing a portion of whatever fish you catch in their waters. They are very warm and friendly people, with little outside contact, and it is just a courtesy."

USAKA's history with Lib, located about 35 miles southwest of Kwaj, dates back some 40 years. The U.S. relocated the island's inhabitants to Ebeye from 1960 to 1965 due to missile-testing safety. They were eventually returned home to Lib after testing moved to the mid-atoll area of Kwajalein.

Coffey said his office is interested in Lib not only because of its proximity and history, but because it is only one of four "stand-alone" island in the Marshalls, and the only one readily accessible by boaters.

"With this amount of interaction, Host Nation felt it prudent to monitor the effects of the visits," he said.

Resident and avid fishermen Dave Wallner said he visits the island about once a month. On every visit he and his crew will stop and talk to the local leaders, and eat lunch there while their kids play with the Marshallese children.

"They know us quite well," he said. On many of the visits, he added, they will bring gifts. Before Christmas, he delivered toys and other items his family had cleaned out of their house. After the holidays, he and other boaters helped deliver about 100 shoeboxes full of Christmas gifts that were left over from the Samaritan's Purse program on Ebeye. Other gifts in the past have included fish, basketballs, coffee, guitar strings and rice.

"I think for the most part people stop and visit with [the Lib islanders]," Wallner said.

Coffey said the Lib school, in particular, could use additional supplies such as books, paper, pencils, chalk and paint. Recreation equipment, especially basketballs and volleyballs, are also needed. Donated items can be brought to the Host Nation office, he said.

USAKA is also working with the RMI government to get Lib a much-needed water catchment, according to Coffey. He said his office is also trying to identify needed school furniture and to transport it to the island.

The survey visit was made with the blessing of Irojlaplap Michael Kabua, a traditional leader of Kwajalein Atoll who also owns Lib.

"He has requested many times that [Host Nation] visit his islands outside this atoll to better understand the traditional Marshallese way of life," Coffey explained, adding that his office attempts to maintain current information on all Marshallese populations and as much of the geography as possible.

Other results of the Host Nation survey:

- Local leaders speak English very well. English is taught in the Lib school.

- There are about 150 residents, with half being school age. "They appear to be quite healthy," Coffey said.

- The trees are loaded with fruit and include breadfruit, pandana, papaya, coconut, lime and banana. "The papaya trees are the biggest I have ever seen," Coffey said. "One lime tree has thousands of limes and they have a unique and fantastic flavor."

- A lake sits in the middle of the island. It has brackish water, but apparently has underground connections to the ocean because it rises and falls with the tides. "The fish in it are edible but do not resemble common ocean fish," Coffey noted. "We are told they also taste differently than ocean fish."

- A reef surrounds the island, making it difficult to land. A shallow-draft boat can reach the beach on the lee (west) side at high tide, but Coffey said it must watch for submerged rocks that have been thrown up on the reef. Boaters also run the risk of being stranded if they stay until the tide goes out.

"I recommend approaching at low tide and anchoring off the reef," he said. "The locals will paddle out to greet you and ferry you to the reef or you can swim to the reef and walk to the island. Look for a large white building that is easily visible from the water. This marks the location of the village."

- Visitors are very welcome. Bring a tent if you want to remain overnight.

Other surveys of nearby islands and atolls are planned in the future, Coffey said, including Namu Atoll, which is southeast of Kwaj and also a popular spot for diving and fishing.

Navy ships here supporting range operations ...

the USS Lake Erie, an Aegis missile cruiser, is in the region to support the range mission, according to Neagley, who could not discuss specifics of the operation. Neagley did say the mission comes during the ship's normal training cycle.

"It's unique to do operational missions during that time," he explained. "There are a lot of demands on ships these days ... In some ways it's been a benefit to us."

The Fitzgerald left its home port of San Diego April 1. Following this week's operation, Neagley said the ship should be home before Memorial Day weekend.

Like just about everything else these days, the events of Sept. 11 have changed the way the Navy does business, the commander said. Force Protection measures keep security tight around and on board ship, even at a friendly port operated by the Army. A sailor, a rifle slung over one shoulder, can be seen patrolling the deck at the stern. A small rubber skiff, a machine gun at the bow, skims across the water's surface, circling the Fitzgerald like a wary dog.

"There are specific measures we take," Neagley said, adding that the crew practices those protocols daily.

While the Fitzgerald has not participated directly in Operation: Enduring Freedom, the campaign in Afghanistan, the ship has been involved in homeland defense through Operation: Noble Eagle, according to Neagley.

When not involved in operations or training scenarios, the crew, average age 21, find distractions at sea. For example, on the ship's run from San Diego to Honolulu, it sponsored a "Run to Hawaii" for the crew. This entailed one of the Fitzgerald's treadmills being manned 24 hours a day while the ship was underway. The crew logged almost 700 miles during the five-day journey.

"The guys had a lot of fun," Neagley said.

And like a true Kwajalein, the Fitzgerald crew loves to cook-out. On Sundays, they fire up BBQ grills at stern. They even fly kites off the ship while she's underway.

While at Kwajalein, the crew enjoyed a little rest and relaxation, touring the island or snorkeling in the blue-green waters of the lagoon. A few of the men put a basketball team together and challenged a Kwaj group to a game Sunday.

"It was fun. We had a good time," said Gunner's Mate Dennis Miller, 20, a member of the winning Navy basketball team.

The Fitzgerald, a floating city with stores, an ATM and a post office, is home to about 335 crew members. Included in that number are three female officers. Neagley said more ships, not just aircraft carriers, are being opened to women as their facilities become coed.

The ship boasts the world's most sophisticated weaponry systems. She possesses the AEGIS Weapon System and the AN/SPY-1D multifunction radar for simultaneous detection and tracking of hundreds of potential targets. Ninety missiles are stored for rapid firing in the vertical launching system. She is also outfitted with an anti-submarine warfare system, with both hull-mounted and towed-array sonars. She can fight at sea and on land, with the Harpoon anti-ship missile system and the Tomahawk land attack cruise missile.

All of this advanced technology is important, Neagley said, but useless without the right personnel to use it.

"They're amazing Americans," he said of his people. "They come from all walks of life."

individuals. Next Tuesday, 18 Roi residents will be invited to a similar recognition dinner at the Outrigger Club.

"We honor you tonight for your generous contributions of that precious commodity: your time," Wrenn said to the roomful of volunteers and their guests. "In this command, we like to tout that Kwajalein is a great place to live and work, with a wonderful quality of life. But, a large part of that quality of life is not funded or directed by the command. It is a matter of someone in the community identifying the need and making it happen."

A stack of nomination forms sent to the USAKA Public Affairs office outlined what each nominee did to help the community over the last year. Residents donated their time and talents for various programs and events, acting as Boy and Girl Scout leaders, community tax advisors, church council members, school class advisors, private club officers, Pipe and Drum Band members or just helping where there was a need. For their own and neighboring islands these volunteers labored, beautifying, educating the young and staging holiday and special events.

Many volunteers were nominated by more than one person or organization for more than one activity, said LuAnne Fantasia, USAKA Public Affairs officer.

The volunteers do not fit one mold; age, gender, occupation, interests and reasons for volunteering are as different as the people themselves.

Rudy Gil Jr.'s reason for volunteering reflects that voiced by many, "It makes me feel good that I'm helping." Gil volunteers at the Kwajalein Golf Association and the Youth Council.

Said Relay for Life volunteer Beverly Schmidt, "My goal was for [the relay] to be a success ... I believe [volunteers] do it for the satisfaction and not for the glory."

Nominated for her work with the Marshallese Cultural Center to restore and archive historical glass photo plates, Sue Rosoff nominated other people for their work in various activities.

"[Volunteering] adds to your life, it adds to your experiences," Rosoff said. "Usually what I find is people volunteer for things that they are passionate about. And to me there is nothing more exciting than working with people who are passionate about what they do."

Roi resident Carol Saunders, nominated for donating her time and energy teaching yoga to other Roi residents, is definitely passionate.

"It's something that I enjoy and something that the community on Roi would like; I like sharing what I know," Saunders said. "The benefits I've received [do] so much for piece of mind ... I just like to share that."

Many volunteers downplay their volunteer work.

"There is just so much history, for me its automatic," said Bob Sholar, nominated for his work with the Kwajalein Running Club. "[Volunteering] is a part of me. It's very satisfying when it comes off. Part of the truth after having participated in the running club so much, I feel obligated."

When he first joined the club,

Sholar said he didn't help with the events.

"When I started getting involved some of the organizers said 'We wondered if you were ever going to help,'" he added, laughing.

Many of the volunteers said that they volunteered because their parents did.

Nominated for his work with Marshallese youth and church groups, Noda Lojkar pointed to Gil's nominations as an example of children doing volunteer work based on the example of their parents.

"I was eight or nine when I started [volunteering]," Gil said. "Whenever my parents were helping with something, I went along." Now he finds his own volunteer outlets.

There are still many unsung volunteer heroes, among them the commander, Rosoff said. "He does a lot and is a great example."

No matter why people volunteer, the community appreciates their time and talents, Fantasia said.

"We notice [volunteering] a lot more here and on Roi because we are so small," she said. "We immediately benefit out here because we are a small community."

UMUC TERM V, June 3-July 27. CMIS 102 Introduction to Problem Solving and Algorithm Design (3). May not be applied to a major in computer and information science. It is a prerequisite for CMS 140 Introductory Programming, which is required by the computer and information science major. For non-computing majors, this course applies the Interdisciplinary or Emerging Issues General Education requirement described on page 38 of the current catalog. It is a study of techniques for finding solutions to problems through structured programming and step-wise refinement. Topics include principals of programming, the logic of constructing a computer program and the practical aspects of intergrating program modules into a cohesive whole. Algorithms are used to demonstrate programming as an approach to problem solving and basic features of the C++ language as illustrated. Wednesdays and Fridays, 6-9 p.m. Instructor is Rich McGowan.

RACQUETBALL COURTS are available for use. Keep the lights on and doors closed to reduce humidity in the rooms.

KWAJALEIN POLICE Department is holding a bike auction May 18, 4-5 p.m., at the police station. Bikes will be paid for in U.S. currency. Proceeds benefit the USAKA recreation fund.

BOAT LOT custodians should keep the grass and weeds mowed at all times. The quarterly inspection is the week of June 3. Questions? Call Sadie, 53643.

KOENING/JABBAR tennis courts will be closed Tuesday, May 14. Questions? Call Scott, 53331.

MOTHER'S DAY is coming. Anyone who checks out Grace Sherwood Library material can sign up wives and mothers for a special gift drawing the last week of May.

GOLF COURSE holes adjacent to the runway will be closed Monday after 4:30 p.m. for the Rusty Family Race.

QOP carnival to raise money for teachers

Loaded like Santa's sleigh, the Host Nation boat left Echo Pier Wednesday with a bow and stern stacked full of bags and boxes containing stuffed animals and toys of every size and conceivable (and inconceivable) purpose.

All the toys are destined for the Queen of Peace carnival on Ebeye, which begins today and runs through tomorrow evening, according to Noda Lojkar. Lojkar, along with resident Amber Morse, helped collect the toys.

Lojkar said the carnival raises money for teachers at the Queen of Peace elementary school on Ebeye and high school campus on Gugeegue. There will be a variety of booths with games such as a dunking tank and basketball hoop. There will also be music, food and refreshments.

The Kwajalein public is invited, Lojkar said. "They can come and win back their toys," he joked.

The carnival is today until 6 p.m. and 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. tomorrow at the Queen of Peace elementary school.
