Thanks to my Marshallese friends for great experience

By Bill Feldman
Night ferry captain

In the big picture, only a small handful of Americans ever have the opportunity to travel to a foreign land and serve a common or direct purpose for both U.S. interests and the interests of people who reside in the host nation.

I have been fortunate in my life to be in this unique position as a Naval officer and now most recently as a civilian contractor in Kwajalein Atoll.

On Kwajalein, I have always considered myself one of the lucky few Americans able to physically greet or interact with each and every Marshallese man and woman who commutes here for work or pleasure nearly every day. For this reason alone, I have treasured my experience on Kwajalein.

For the past six months, I have been entrusted with the dark and quiet responsibility of operating the night ferry from Kwajalein to Ebeye and it has been an experience that I will always remember with feelings of pride and great respect. All of the very special Marshallese who I've grown to know very well and carry to and from these small islands for the last six months have been more than passengers. They have been my friends and family who have taught me to appreciate many new and extraordinary aspects of a culture in the middle of this great ocean.

To my Marshallese friends and night ferry passengers, it has been my honor to be your night ferry captain and friend on every 3-mile trip and it has been my great pleasure to play this very small part in your daily lives.

I thank you kindly for your trust and for such a great experience here in your island atoll. But mostly, thank you for making me feel at home and part of the Marshallese family.

My interaction with all of you on the night ferry and throughout my days on Kwajalein has enriched my life and I will miss all of you very much.

I will especially miss the most dedicated and loyal crew any captain could ask for . . . Primo and Ricky. I'd sail anywhere in the world with you guys.

I wish everyone the best.

Jaraman Nan Aleb (good luck to all).

Emphasis on drug-free workplace

By Nell M. Drumheller
Editor

John Pickler, president of Kwajalein Range Service, last week announced revised measures aimed at making U.S. Army Kwajalein Atoll facilities a drug-free workplace.

"I'd like to personally introduce an initiative you'll be seeing in the coming days which concerns values that the USAKA commander and I feel are cornerstones to a safe and productive workplace and to a community of excellence," he said.

KRS will release SPI-1801 Drug and Alcohol-Free Workplace soon. The SPI consolidates the company's drug and alcohol-free workplace programs and adds some new elements. It is expected to be rolled out to all employees through familiarization training in the near future.

Pickler said that all KRS team members will soon be asked to reaffirm their commitment and understanding of these requirements. "Most of what you will be briefed on already exists in other KRS programs and policies, some of which won't be needed when we release the new SPI. Established processes at KRS include things like availability of an excellent Employee Assistance Program, drug or alcohol tests we may be asked to take and what will happen if someone's behavior at work suggests influence of drugs or alcohol," he said.

"Most of you are already familiar with KRS policies related to drug and/or alcohol abuse. Obviously and for good reasons we're against it. Also, KRS has been given specific contract requirements to maintain a drug-free workplace at USAKA/RTS [Reagan Test Site] - this recently prompted us to update and consolidate program documentation to demonstrate that we're doing all that the Army has asked us in this regard."

Pickler once again emphasized what has become a familiar theme from him - safety. "We all know that our personal safety, along with that of our coworkers and our entire community, is enhanced by a mutual commitment to refrain from substance abuse in the workplace and from use of illegal drugs at all times," he added.

Pickler said that the excellence with which "we complete our missions at USAKA/RTS hinges on an alert, productive and healthy workforce. I recently reaffirmed my commitment and understanding of KRS drug and alcohol-free workplace requirements, along with rules that come hand-in-hand with the privilege of living and working on a U.S. Army installation."

One item not well documented in the past involves what happens if illegal drugs are detected on the installation, including at the Kwajalein Hospital. Pickler clarified the policy, "We're very sensitive to the privacy of our patients at Kwajalein, but we also recognize that certain events must be reported to the USAKA commander in order to assure safety and security of this installation."

"If our investigation turns up evidence of illegal drug use or intoxication in the workplace, the hospital will report this to KRS management, who in turn will report to the USAKA command," Jeff Halliday, KRS attorney said.

Pickler added, "We've worked to make very clear what you can expect in this regard - know that our interest is driven by our mission and the wellbeing of our community."

Pickler urged members of the community to join him in keeping Kwajalein drug free.

Meal cards can be used for concert

By Mig Owens
Assistant editor

In a first-of-its-kind joint effort between Community Activities and Dining Services departments, meal-card holders may elect to enjoy dinner at the Armed Forces Entertainment-sponsored performance of wideawake Wednesday at the Richardson Theater. Tickets may be obtained by meal-card holders at Café Pacific.

Families are also invited to picnic with the band at a cost of $7 for adults, $3 for children under 12. The menu includes baby-back ribs, chicken, cole slaw, baked beans, corn, cookies and beverages. Children's meals include a hot dog, chips, cookies and a beverage. Beer and wine also will be available for purchase.

"We're trying to give another option on a weekday night," Kim Parker, Entertainment Services superintendent, said. Steve Cummings, Dining Services manager, added that the joint effort is intended to "make events as enjoyable as possible."

Dinner will be served from 6 to 7:30 p.m. with support from the mobile kitchen. The band starts at 6 p.m. and beverage service will continue throughout their performance.

Cummings clarified that Café Pacific will remain open for dinner on Wednesday for those who opt to dine there.

"Dining Services and Community

Activities are trying to get together and do new things," Jennifer Aakre, Dining Services retail manager, explained. Cummings added that more collaborative efforts are in the works, including offering a dining option to meal-card holders at the Labor Day beach event.

Though the band's visit falls mid-week because of their schedule, Parker said "we're really glad they're coming and that we get a chance to listen to them."

With a blend of modern rock and acoustic pop, wideawake holds numerous awards and honors. In addition to performing with Sheryl Crow, they have opened for major-label artists such as Third Eye Blind. For more information on the band, visit www.wideawake.com.

Junior golf clinic inspires love of game in children

By Mig Owens
Assistant editor

A growing interest in golf among children is the driving force behind the Junior Golf Clinic, where enthusiasts 6 to 16 learn the basics of the sport.

Held three days a week for three weeks through Friday, participants gather at Holmberg Fairways for instruction where Bob Butz, golf course supervisor, said his goal is to "introduce juniors to the game of golf and the basic fundamentals for playing, both etiquette and swing mechanics."

(Illustrations by Dan Adler)

Sponsored by Kwajalein Range Services Community Activities, the clinic boasts 38 participants divided primarily by ages into groups of eight to ten. The clinic is in its second year.

“The first year the clinic was one day with six participants...this year I went three weeks with 38 participating,” Butz said. Different this year, he believes, is more interest from the children.

“Most of them have a parent that plays, although some do not, even in the states there is a growing interest in golf among kids 6-16,” he explained.

Butz said the clinic currently underway will be followed by another in November.

“My goal was to introduce golf to as many kids as wanted to try, hopefully get them started in a positive direction with basic fundamentals and etiquette for golf,” he said. “What I would like to gain from doing this is to stimulate interest with the kids in the hopes that they will like to continue playing and learning about golf.”

Ruthie Long, 6, gives it her best shot as instructor Bob Butz looks on.

Trading running for badge, pro athlete is now policeman

By Elizabeth Davie
Reporter

Sometimes people make a career change for one reason or another. In Tyrone Scott's case he traded his running shoes for a badge.

"I ran track professionally for Nike from 1992 to 1998. I was approached by an agent and a Nike representative after the 1992 Olympic trials. It was a natural progression for me because I was a California state champion and an all-American athlete at the University of Texas. I still have two school records at UT," said Scott, now a police officer on Roi-Namur.

Scott said he was originally interested in becoming a professional athlete because of the financial aspect. However, he said traveling around the world and competing in front of crowds numbering 40,000 or more was an added bonus.

"As a pro athlete I trained an average of 6 hours a day doing weight training, plyometrics, event-specific work and cardio work," he said.

Scott competed in track meets all around the world, mostly in Europe. "When I traveled to Europe it was hard to just walk down the street without being mobbed by autograph seekers. They love track and field over there," he said.

"My goals were to win the U.S. Championships, I did that twice and to make the Olympic team. I was ranked No. 3 in the U.S. the year of the 1996 Olympic trials but I tore my patella tendon on my first jump, I didn't obtain that goal," he said.

Scott stopped competing after tearing his patella tendon. "After surgery I spent eight weeks doing rehab at the Olympic training center in Colorado Springs [Colorado], while there I accepted a position as a police officer in Indianapolis. I probably could have competed longer, but I wanted to move on to something else," he said.

When asked what he missed most about being a professional athlete he said, "The thing I miss the most is perks. I miss walking into Footlocker or calling the Nike representative, and getting any Nike product I or my friends wanted for free. I was also sponsored by Oakley, so I miss picking out anything I wanted from their catalogue."

Making the transition to become a police officer was relatively easy, Scott said. "It takes a strong person to do what is right when no one is looking. When you are training 6 hours a day, most of the time you are all alone, but you know what is needed to obtain the goal. A police officer is entrusted with a lot of responsibility, and most of the time we are alone when critical and possibly life-altering decisions need to be made. I felt I was up to the challenge....and almost 10 years later I still am," he added.

Even though he is what some people call "a world away" in Kwajalein, Scott is sometimes still recognized for his athletic abilities.

"When I first came out here to work for Lt. Damon Brown, one of the first things out of his mouth was 'your name sounds familiar,' then after a few more conversations he told me he was a huge track and field fan that's why my name sounded familiar," Scott said.

"When I first talked to Tyrone, I could tell he was real quiet and down to earth," said Tosh Francis, Kwaj resident.

"When I first saw him play basketball, I was like 'Damn that dude is fast and he can jump out of the gym.' I have never seen anybody out here his height move that fast. I was like 'if he goes any faster he might fly.'" Francis said of Scott.

Francis added that he's the kind of guy that if you don't ask him about his track career, he would never bring it up but when you see him in action, his athleticism speaks for itself.

So why would a former professional athlete turned 'big city' cop be here?

"I came to Kwaj to get away from police work in a major city. I wanted a slower pace. If I was a K9 officer and had a girlfriend/wife out here, I would never leave. I really like it out here. I am currently president of the Enniburr Children's Christmas Fund and sometime about mid-September we are going to hold the chili cook-off on Roi. This is a great fund raiser and challenge that I am looking forward to," he said.

Some of Scott's accomplishments include:

- 1988 California State Champion in the triple jump
- All-American athlete at the University of Texas for two years
- Current University of Texas record holder in the indoor and outdoor triple jump
- Two-time U.S. National Champion in the triple jump
- Competed in two World Championships and two Olympic trials

New meningitis vaccine will be available on Kwajalein soon

By Dr. John Janikowski
Kwajalein Hospital

A new vaccine for meningitis has been approved for use in the United States. A number of Kwaj parents have heard about this vaccine and have made inquiries regarding the availability of this new vaccine here. We anticipate the vaccine will be available on Kwajalein within the next two months. The following is an overview of the disease, the vaccine and the vaccination plans for Kwajalein.

Meningococcal disease is a potentially fatal bacterial infection. Although rare, it is extremely dangerous because it can progress rapidly and within hours cause permanent disability or death in spite of treatment. There are three common clinical forms:

- Meningitis (49 percent of cases)
- Blood infection (33 percent)
- Pneumonia (9 percent).

Miscellaneous other forms account for the remaining 9 percent.

Meningococcal disease is the most common cause of bacterial meningitis in toddlers, adolescents and young adults in the United States. About one of every ten people who get the disease will die from it, and others will be affected for life. The symptoms include high fever, chills, headache, stiff neck, confusion, nausea, vomiting, exhaustion, and possibly a rash. Transmission occurs from person to person through droplets of respiratory secretions. Studies have determined that the peak age group for the disease is in 16 to 18 year olds.

A vaccine for prevention of meningococcal disease has been available since the 1970s and licensed in the United States since 1981. In the past the vaccine was targeted to be given to prospective college freshmen who would be living in dorms and other people thought to be at increased risk. It was available for use in ages 2 and above. A new vaccine, MCV4, was licensed in the United States in January. It is licensed for use only in ages 11-55. If anyone outside of this age range would need to be vaccinated, they would need the old vaccine, MPSV4. Along with the new vaccine came new recommendations, which have been endorsed by the American Academy of Pediatrics. The new guidelines recommend MCV4 vaccine for:

- Young adolescents (11-12 years of age)
- Adolescents (if not previously vaccinated) at high school entry or 15 years of age (whichever comes first)
- All college freshmen living in dorms (if not previously vaccinated)
- Other groups at high risk such as those with underlying medical conditions or travelers to areas with high rates of meningococcal disease.

This strategy provides immediate coverage to most of the peak risk group ages, 16-18. In three years, all of those in the 12-15 year-old group not only will be covered, but will be covered before they hit the peak age range. Without this staggered type of approach, vaccine supply could be an issue.

Eventually, youth 11-12 will be the prime target for the vaccine. The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention's Advisory Committee on Immunization Practices determined that establishing the target age at 11 may give lasting immunity through college with a single dose. The old vaccine required a booster every 3-5 years. Although MCV4 is now the preferred vaccine for people 11-55, the old vaccine can still be used in cases where the new vaccine is not available or for those needing vaccine that fall outside of the 11-55 year age range.

Adverse reactions to the new vaccine are similar to that of the old vaccine. These include:

- Mild injection site pain and redness
- Brief fever in five percent
- Severe allergic and neurological reactions: each less than 1/1,000,000.

The Kwajalein medical staff recommends our community follow these guidelines established by the American Academy of Pediatrics. The vaccine will be a requirement for entry into the ninth grade on Kwajalein. Because the vaccine is new and there is a backlog of adolescents needing the vaccine, the requirement will be transitioned into effect over the next year. The initial target groups here will be youth 11-12 and incoming ninth graders/15 year olds. The CDC in Atlanta has advised health facilities to reinforce priority groups for vaccination. Adolescents who fall outside of the listed priority groups but wish to decrease their risk may be vaccinated only if supplies allow or with the old vaccine. The average cost in the private sector in the United States for each dose of the new vaccine is $82. The actual charge for the vaccine here in Kwajalein may be more or less than that depending on availability, cost from our suppliers, etc.

The vaccine was ordered for Kwajalein shortly after its availability was announced. Because of the high volume of demand, the vaccine is being allocated based on estimated needs as well as available supply. We have been informed that our supply will be shipped from the manufacturer on Sept. 21. Because we live with the "it's on the next barge" approach to supplies, we cannot set a date to start vaccination until the vaccine has actually arrived on Kwajalein.

The CDC was contacted to determine if bachelor quarter residents would fall into the same high risk category as college students living in dormitories. The conclusion was no they do not. BQ residents are not a high-risk group for the following reasons:

- All BQ residents fall outside of the highest risk 16-18 year old range.
- The BQs are set up more on the order of an efficiency apartment with a separate bathroom as opposed to shared bathrooms of many dormitories.
- BQs have individual residents in each room, whereas students in dorms frequently share rooms.

Therefore, no vaccine is needed for BQ residents unless they fall into a high-risk group for health reasons, occupation reasons, outbreak reasons or for travel reasons.

Watch the Hourglass and/or roller for updates. When the vaccine is here, candidates can call the hospital at 52223 to be scheduled for immunization.

A Lot Like Love. Two friends who've convinced themselves they would never make a good couple discover they might just be wrong in this romantic comedy. Oliver (Ashton Kutcher) and Emily (Amanda Peet) first met when they were college students sharing a flight from California to New York; Emily spontaneously seduced Oliver on the plane, and they spent the next few days together in the city. When they parted, however, Emily decided not to pursue a relationship with Oliver, even though he was obviously interested. Over the next several years, circumstances kept putting them in one another's paths, and over the years Oliver and Emily became close friends and confidantes. Both are still certain, though, that they're entirely wrong for each other on a romantic level. However, after nearly a decade, with both Oliver and Emily edging into their thirties, they begin to wonder if they've allowed a great opportunity to pass them by. A Lot Like Love also stars Kathryn Hahn, Ali Larter, and Kal Penn.

Star Wars: Episode III. George Lucas draws the Star Wars film series to a close with this dark sci-fi adventure which sets the stage for the events of the first film and brings the saga full circle. After a fierce battle in which Obi-Wan (Ewan McGregor) and Anakin (Hayden Christensen) join Republic forces to help free Chancellor Palpatine (Ian McDiarmid) from the evil Count Dooku (Christopher Lee) and his minions, Anakin is drawn into Palpatine's confidence. Palpatine has designs on expanding his rule, and with this in mind he plants seeds of doubt in Anakin's mind about the strength and wisdom of the Jedi. Anakin is already in a quandary about how to reveal to others the news of his secret marriage to Padmé Amidala (Natalie Portman) now that she is pregnant, and visions which foretell her death in childbirth weigh heavy on his mind. As Anakin finds himself used by both the Jedi and the Republic for their own purposes — particularly after Mace Windu (Samuel L. Jackson) expresses his distrust of the young Jedi — he turns more and more to the Force for help, but begins to succumb to the temptations of its dark side. Many of the Star Wars series regulars returned for Star Wars: Episode III — Revenge of the Sith, including Frank Oz as the voice of Yoda, Kenny Baker as R2-D2, and Peter Mayhew as Chewbacca.

Range operation scheduled for Thursday

A range operation is scheduled for Thursday. Caution times are from 7:01 p.m. to 3:01 a.m. Friday. In conjunction with this operation, a caution area will exist within the Kwajalein Atoll. The caution area is bounded on the north by Boked Island on the East Reef and Yabbernohr Island on the West Reef. On the south, the area is bounded by a line drawn north of Bigej Island on the East Reef to a point at latitude 08 54.2N, longitude 167 45.8E, then to a point at latitude 08 52.8N, longitude 167 45.8E, and then to a point north of the high tide mark on Ninni Island on the West Reef. Bigej Island, including the inner reef, is specifically excluded and is not a part of the Mid-Atoll Corridor. All Mid-Atoll Corridor islands are designated as sheltered islands. Additional areas specified outside the mid-atoll are designated as caution areas, see map.

In order to ensure clearance of non-mission support personnel from the Mid-Atoll Corridor by the window opening time, Kwajalein Police Department island clearance procedures will begin at approximately 7:30 a.m. on Monday and continue until evacuation has been accomplished. Egress of all air and sea craft will be required when requested by authorized clearance personnel. Subsequent to lagoon clearance, the hazard area will be in effect until mission completion.

Vehicle silence is required on Roi-Namur from the opening of the launch window until released by the mission support coordinator. This includes gasoline-driven generators and welding of any type.

VHF radio silence is required on Roi-Namur from the opening of the launch window until released by the mission support coordinator. This includes radio traffic from Roi-Operations, all marina, fire, Roi-Namur Police Department and private radios.

In the event of a mission slip, the cautions times and areas will be in effect for the following days:

7:01 p.m. Friday through 3:01 a.m. Aug. 27

7:01 a.m. Aug. 27 through 3:01 a.m. Aug. 28

Questions regarding the above safety requirements for this mission should be directed to U.S. Army Kwajalein Atoll Command Safety Directorate, range safety officer at 54250.
