“Thank You Kwajalein”

Letter from Jesse Riketa, on behalf of Kwajalein Atoll Local Government:

Greetings and salutations to Col. Larsen and the Kwajalein community. I would like to take this great opportunity to deeply express our sincere thanks on behalf of the Kwajalein Atoll Local Government leadership to issue a commendation to Col. Larsen for good command as USAG-KA commander.

On Wednesday there were some Marshallese indigenous who came to USAG-KA on Ebeye commute badge privileges to contact businesses, seek employment, do laundry and other daily tasks, as usual.

However, due to bad weather conditions and rough seas, you issued an executive order of command to hold off all ferry boat services to and from Ebeye.

Early in the morning Thursday, the ferry boats launched the first day's commute to and from Ebeye.

Every single Marshallese indigenous disembarking the ferry was very happy and telling us non-stop that they were well fed, bedded, taken care of, and you may name a few.

This is an extraordinary genuine act of kindness, love and compassionate beyond expectation. Therefore, we (all Marshallese who live in Kwajalein Atoll) with honor salute you, your staff, all departmental heads and activities that are serving under you watch for such good friendship toward the Marshallese people and Kwajalein Atoll indigenous.

Last but not least sir, once again thank you very much on behalf of Kwajalein Atoll leadership and the communities of Kwajalein Atoll. How kind of you.

Sincerely,
Alap Jesse Riketa

USAG-KA offers condolences for former RMI president's passing:

Mr. Jurelang Zedkaia, former president of the Republic of the Marshall Islands, passed away Oct. 8. Zedkaia was the fifth RMI president, serving in that office from Nov. 2009 to Jan. 2012. At the time of his death he was a senator from Majuro, and a Paramount Chief or Irojlaplap for Majuro. U.S. Army Garrison Kwajalein Atoll is grateful for the service of the former president and offers condolences and prayers to the Zedkaia family.

COMMUNITY THANK YOU'S

By Col. Michael Larsen, USAG-KA:
Team Kwajalein,

Thank you for coming together and helping our RMI workforce and families who we serve with side by side each day. Your generosity and compassion were appreciated by the people you helped give comfort to during a long, stormy night. This was a historic event for our Island, and we proved to ourselves and the world that we are truly one united community.

Take care and enjoy your holiday weekend safely.

Sincerely, Kwaj-6

Submitted by Sharon Rice:

Several Kwajalein Jr./Sr. High School teens jumped into action when they learned that over 50 Marshallese men, women and children would be stranded at the DSC overnight due to the tumultuous weather. Abigail Bishop, Jordan Rice, Austin Maxwell and Harley McMahan gathered blankets and pillows around the island and made several trips to distribute those to the Ri Majol (Marshall Islanders) at DSC. The Bargain Bazaar also opened their doors to the teens where they assisted in collecting jackets, sweaters, socks and warm clothing to be distributed among the grounded Ebeye residents. Thank you guys!

Submitted by Susan Zehr:

Thank you to everyone who assisted in salvaging Casa Chica. She is our home, and I can't say thank you enough! A big thank you to the Marine Department, the divers, Heavy Equipment and Public Works for all your hard work to save her. My heart goes out to the other owners who lost their boats. Komol Tata!

From Hourglass staff:

A big thanks goes out to all other community members who donated bedding materials, food and water to the RMI citizens stranded overnight at the DSC. Heather Ardrey and the Protestant congregation, Linda Lowry, Mike Lowry and everyone who we didn't have space to mention here: sincerest thanks. People like you help make Kwaj a great place to live.

KWAJ FIRE DEPARTMENT KICKS OFF FIRE PREVENTION WEEK

HOURGLASS REPORTS

U.S. Army Garrison-Kwajalein Atoll's Kwajalein Fire Department kicked off National Fire Prevention Week Monday.

KFD staff invited the island's kids and parents out to the local food court to meet "Sparky" and "Fire Pup," the National Fire Prevention Association's famous canine mascots. The Kwaj kids got some hot, new temporary tattoos, fire prevention-themed toys, discounted ice cream and more. Parents, in turn, got some classic photos of their kids with the canines friends and got up to speed on NFPA's message for 2015: "Hear the Beep Where You Sleep."

"The intent is to bring attention to the importance of having working smoke detectors throughout the house, including bedrooms," said KFD Chief John Finley. For most residences, that means having at least two—and perhaps several—alarms in key positions throughout the house. One in each bedroom, one outside each separate sleeping area—and having them on every level of the home—is key.

Why is this year's message so important? According to the NFPA, roughly half of all home fire deaths result from fires reported between 11 p.m. and 7 a.m., when most people are asleep. A faulty smoke alarm, or a unit with dead batteries, won't wake you as fire smoke spreads throughout the home. And, of course, if you don't wake up, you might not make it out alive.

The beginning of October each year is a time for America's firefighting and fire prevention communities to come together and educate citizens on the perennial importance of fire prevention strategies.

"Fire departments across the US and abroad focus on the same theme and deliver the message to their respective areas," Finley said. "Since Kwajalein is such a small community we are able to reach out to the residents and the schools relatively easily."

In addition to the event at the food court, KFD sponsored several more events this week, such as special visits to school classrooms, an open house at the fire station and more. Check next week's Hourglass for highlights.

Underwater Photos of the Week

HOURLASS REPORTS

This granulated sea star (Choriaster granulatus) was recently photographed by Kwajalein resident Lynda Reynolds. These tropical starfish are found throughout much of the Indian Ocean, especially along Africa's eastern coast, and the western Pacific, from Japan in the north to New Caledonia in the south. The granulated sea star is one of nearly 1,500 species of starfish that live in the planet's oceans.

Choriaster granulatus is known for its ruddy, pink hue and its five stubby little conical arms, a feature for which the species is often called the doughboy star. Like other sea stars, the species feeds on small invertebrates, dead marine animals and coral polyps. It lives at depths of up to 40 meters, typically among coral reefs and rubble where there is ample food to graze on, and can reproduce both sexually and asexually.

HUNTSVILLE STAFF ENJOY COLOR RUN

(Submitted content features former Kwaj residents)

The Color Run, also known as the Happiest 5k on the Planet, is a unique paint race that celebrates healthiness, happiness and individuality. Now the single largest event series in the world, The Color Run has exploded since the debut event. There were more than 300 events in 50-plus countries in 2014, and now in the second year the runs are still going.

On September 26 an estimated crowd of 4,000-plus runners laced up their sneakers and headed for Downtown Huntsville all in the name of color, dancing and raising money for the Arts Council. During every kilometer, volunteers pelted these rambunctious runners with colored corn starch and finished it off with a coat of glitter. All proceeds from Saturday's Color Run benefited the Huntsville Arts Council.

Never missing out on an opportunity to have some fun, a large contingent of runners with Kwaj connections participated. The eclectic group was made up of a mix of Kwajalein Range Services and Massachusetts Institute of Technology employees and other former Kwaj residents. The group got up early in the morning, put on their favorite tutus and hit the streets of Huntsville for five of the happiest kilometers on the planet.

Naturally, after a strenuous workout mimosas were needed to recharge. The crew gathered at a local downtown Huntsville establishment for brunch, and as luck would have it, it was National Pancake Day to boot. The Elvis Pancake was to die for: How can pecans, bananas, bits of bacon and peanut butter, all in one pancake, not be delicious—and good for you? It was a magnificently colorful day!

KWAJALEIN RECLAIMED WATER STANDARD VIOLATION

The Reclaimed Water Document of Environmental Protection (DEP) requires public notification when reclaimed water standards are violated. The reclaimed water system exceeded the Biochemical Oxygen Demand (BOD) limitation of 10 milligrams per liter (mg/L). Per sampling requirements, the weekly sample was collected at the reclaimed water system's point of entry on 11 September, 2015 and had a measured concentration of 10.3 mg/L. The following weekly sample, collected on 18 September, had a measured concentration of 5.1 mg/L, indicating compliance. BOD levels are used as an indicator of bacteria levels. However, regular bacteriological sampling within the reclaimed water system showed no increase during this time. No health-based restrictions on the normal use (irrigation, vehicle washing, etc) of reclaimed (non-potable) water are necessary. Additionally, there was no threat to public health or the environment as a result of this BOD exceedance. If you have any questions, please call the environmental department 51134.

— HERO — OF THE WEEK

USAG-KA's Hero of the Week for this week is Kwaj resident and Zamperini Dining Facility Cashier Herna Jibbwa. Having worked at the cafeteria since 1989, Herna has made tons of friends at work over the years. She says that the social dimension of her position is probably the best aspect of her work life. "I work six days a week; I get up early in the morning every day since 1989," she says. "I haven't missed a day. But people come see me every day, and everyone is so friendly. I like it." During her free time, Herna enjoys spending time with friends on Kwajalein and Ebeye and going to church. She has a sister who lives on Ebeye and four children, all of whom live in the United States—two in San Diego and two in Arkansas.

HOURLASS REPORTS

Compressed gas cylinder storage

Compressed gas cylinders are hazardous, due to their high pressure and the gas properties they may contain. This Simply Safety explains how gas cylinders should be stored.

1. Full and empty cylinders must be segregated according to their contents. Flammables and other gases must also be a minimum of 20 feet away from each other or segregated by a one-hour fire wall. They must also be 20 feet away and uphill from flammable liquids. All cylinders must be stored in a well-ventilated area.

2. Empty and full cylinders of the same contents can be stored together in a well-ventilated space as long as they are separated by rows or lines that are visible.

3. All cylinders must be stored in an upright position; some exceptions, determined by ES&H may apply. They must be secured by a chain or strap two-thirds of the way up the cylinder.

4. The contents of all cylinders must be labeled on the cylinder's exterior.

5. Compressed gas cylinders must not be stored near electrical circuits, breaker panels of extension cords.

6. If storing cylinders outside, all requirements listed above must be met. Additionally, the cylinders must be protected from sunrays and salt spray. Lastly, they must not be stored on the ground; a platform keeping the cylinders off the ground is required.
