JEPTAS STRUT STUFF ON CHRISTMAS

HOURLASS REPORT

It was not a silent night on Ebeye, audiences and visitors discovered on Christmas Eve. Many months of advance planning for Christmas celebrations in the Marshall Islands culminated in a competitive showcase by Jebtas (chapters) Dec. 25. The performance group, traditionally affiliated with a weto (land parcel) or island and organized by local leadership, wowed the crowds.

Dressed in colorful matching gear and accompanied by live musicians, choruses of over 100 members sang holiday tunes. Together, young performers at Ebeye United Church of Christ acted out the nativity story and sang "Silent Night," in Marshallese and English. The fellowship hall of Ebeye Calvary Church erupted in applause during a men's ensemble dance number, as the guys busted out slick dance moves.

Christmas in the Marshall Islands continues to be a unique and festive time steeped in traditions that bring atoll residents together through the shared experience of faith and kinship.

WEEKLY WEATHER OUTLOOK

RTS WEATHER STATION STAFF

WEATHER TRENDS: The InterTropical Convergence Zone (ITCZ) is farther north again, located along the 6-7 degree parallel. This puts Kwajalein in the northern sector with scattered showers and few thunderstorms Wednesday and Thursday. Our rainfall for the month will be about two inches above normal after Thursday, keeping the water resources happy.

Indicators are showing the ITCZ should drift southward again for the weekend. Northeasterly trade winds establish from 15-20 knots. We are not expecting the need for small craft advisory this weekend, for a change. Happy boating!

Widely scattered showers will be embedded in the trade winds Friday-Tuesday. A weak disturbance will bring the ITCZ northward mid-next week increasing the rain/shower coverage for Wednesday and Thursday.

E-Talk: This week's E-talk discusses how to be a responsible, respectful diver when exploring submerged cultural heritage sites. Leave artifacts and pieces of the wreck in place so other divers can experience them.

Safely Speaking: We do a lot of things that can cause injury every day, but don't. We become complacent and don't even think about the how we put ourselves in the line of fire. Protect yourself by: looking for the hazard, eliminating, or controlling it, and use best practices to minimize it.

Have a Fire Safe Holiday Season. As you deck the halls this season, be fire smart. Make sure you keep the tree watered. If a dry tree comes into contact with a flame, it can easily catch on fire and spread quickly throughout your home. This video shows the difference between a dry and watered tree: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=AZk4vIXCnc8>

THUMBS UP to the nice folks at Surfway and the Post Office who have repeatedly re-arranged their schedules to accommodate changes in the ATI and assure that we have some Holiday Cheer in time for the big day. Your efforts and going the extra mile is appreciated!

THUMBS UP and thanks to all of the volunteer "ELVES" who assisted me with the 13th Annual "Stray Dog" Christmas Party. From Elves who signed up to bring food and drinks, baked, set-up, helped arrange furniture, cleaned the ARC (before and after), who donated to the cause, and set up the Christmas music that we could all enjoy – THANK YOU and Happy New Year!

—Sabrina Mumma

THUMBS UP to the Automotive staff whose "delivery elves" make the season brighter for everyone to get their packages home from the Post Office. That's a Kwaj tradition that we can all get behind. Thanks Guys!
