HOURLASS REPORT

The Kwajalein workforce gathered at an Oct. 7 employee safety expo at Emon Beach for refresher training and workplace safety education.

The 2017 Safety Day event hosted hundreds of employees from all trades and departments, covering safety briefings on topics including lockout tags and footwear, to ergonomics in the office, personal protective equipment and explosive ordnance disposal safety.

Guests interacted with safety professionals, asked questions about workplace safety and slip hazards, and collected useful giveaways, including water bottles, koozies, stickers and solar flashlights donated by Kwajalein Range Services.

The event was designed around the theme "Communication and Teamwork—It takes all of us to be safe."

1. KRS FOCUS Team member Terry Henson, left, walks Mike Peoples and Rhonda Arrington through a driving safety drill Oct. 7 at Emon Beach. 2. A local Public Works crew member tests traction characteristics of different footwear at a safety demonstration exhibit with Scott McElhoe. 3. KRS Safety Supervisor John Mohr talks with Carrie Aljure about pinch points, power tool hazards and other workplace safety issues. 4. SONG AND TRANCE: HAVNEVIK LIVE ON ROI

HOURLASS REPORT

Visiting musician Kate Havnevik transformed Roi-Namur's Outrigger into an all-out dance party Oct. 6. The rapt Roi audiophiles' dance floor was the first stop on a three-show Kwajalein Atoll tour by Havnevik, a Norwegian orchestral composer, singer-songwriter and electronic artist. She was joined onstage by acclaimed U.K. music producer Guy Sigsworth on the mixer, keyboard and synthesizers and drummer Gunhild Hjermundrud, all of whom traveled thousands of miles to entertain the U.S. Army Garrison-Kwajalein Atoll community in concerts sponsored by the Quality of Life Committee.

Havnevik's work has been featured in popular cinema and television ("Grey's Anatomy," "The West Wing," "The O.C."). It was the first time many in the crowd had heard music from the Norwegian artist, but they didn't shy away from cutting their best dance moves. The trio played well known tracks like "New Day" and selections from Havnevik's albums, including the 2006 "Melankton." Havnevik also serenaded the audience with a Norwegian folksong and solo ("Shooting Star") with a guitar borrowed from local musician Bob Barker.

Following the concert, Sigsworth, Havnevik and Hjermundrud enjoyed a day of relaxation and snorkeling in a B-Boat off Mellu before heading "downtown" to Kwaj to prepare for their next two performances.

The electronica concert was particularly special for one Roi resident: Denise Miller, housing supervisor recently recovered from back surgery. She expressed her admiration for the magic the musicians created inside the small bar. The concert coincided with her birthday.

"I haven't been able to dance in four years," said Miller. "It means so much to be able to listen to Kate's music tonight."

Pick up next week's Hourglass for cool photos from Kate Havnevik's shows on Kwajalein!

Mason Finley and Assistant Chief of Training Carmel Shearer give fire safety a thumbs up at the annual Fire Prevention Week Kickoff at the AAFES Food Court Oct. 8.

KWAJ FIRE DEPARTMENT KICKS OFF FIRE SAFETY WEEK

HOURLASS REPORT

Family, friends and Kwaj kids of all ages joined emergency services personnel and the Kwajalein Fire Department at the AAFES Food Court for a Fire Prevention Week kickoff party, Oct. 8. The annual KFD outreach event is an enjoyable way to introduce families and young children to fire safety awareness and emergency preparation. Over the course of the afternoon visitors enjoyed treats, grab bags full of fire safety goodies and posed for fun photos together.

The kickoff party occurred just before a week of KFD classroom visits, workshops and demonstrations in which KFD personnel discussed basic fire safety training with the island's young residents. Kids got an up close look at fire prevention gear and learned about fire safety around the home. Coverage of the Oct. 13 Kwajalein Fire Station Open House will appear in next week's Hourglass.

"The open house is a blast," says Lt. John Blalock. "We get to show [the kids] different fire safety tools and we have different activities [for them]."

When KFD needs to visit a local home in the event of an emergency, no one should underestimate the difference kids can make in maintaining domestic safety.

"[When] kids call, they can give us a clear description [of the emergency, location]. It is very helpful and useful to us," said Blalock.

KWAJALEIN ATHLETES RUN IN 40TH ANNUAL COLUMBUS DAY EVENT

HOURGLASS REPORT

More than 100 Kwajalein athletes participated in the 40th annual Columbus Day Run Monday, Oct. 12.

Joggers, runners and walkers woke up before sunrise, laced up their sneakers and did one or two laps around the perimeter of Kwajalein. Some raced competitively, and others sashayed leisurely along the course in packs.

The first three finishers in the quarter marathon group were, respectively: Jay Lord, Chad Gibbon and Travis Ropella. The first three finishers in the half marathon group were, respectively: Johnny Barraza, Dan Lavery and Ray Moyer.

The event, a long-standing Kwajalein Running Club tradition, was organized by Kwaj residents Bob and Jane Sholar. They received help from local runner Christi Cardillo, the Kwajalein chapters of the National Honor Society and Youth Services Teen Center staff.

HOURGLASS REPORT

It is one of Kwajalein's oldest surviving public art traditions: Each fall, the bit of Lagoon Road that runs beside Kwajalein Jr./Sr. High School becomes the colorful asphalt canvas of the graduating senior class. On Monday, Oct. 2, the Class of 2018 braved the sun and rain to bedazzle the street with creative personal logos and tags, meticulously crafted with stencils and spray paint.

Senior street painting is an all-day affair requiring multiple coats of paint and a lot of elbow grease to ensure students' tags remain bright and legible for colorful sightseeing all year. The logos themselves often reflect clever crossovers of pop-culture and the students' passions, interests, visions and values.

Why paint the street? In the last, fleeting year of high school, it is a bold celebratory act to splash one's symbolic dreams on the ground. It invites the community to celebrate and recognize each of the seniors as individuals about to embark on the next great adventure as they prepare to leave the atoll for college or careers.

Cruise down to KHS and check out the sweet street. You can see the bright and colorful future painted on the ground.

WEEKLY WEATHER OUTLOOK

RTS WEATHER STATION STAFF

WEATHER DISCUSSION: As numerical models indicated last week, a Madden Julian Oscillation (MJO) signal has emerged over the maritime continent region. MJO is a planetary scale wave in the tropics that slowly progresses eastward; when over the Western Pacific region it enhances convection and will result in more shower activity for our region. Anticipate that the developing MJO will trend from the Atlantic basin, to the development of tropical storms in the Pacific, generally in the Philippines area and South China Sea.

Locally, weather models are keeping the current weather pattern into the weekend with widely scattered to scattered showers within a weak Intercontinental Convergence Zone (ITCZ) near us. However, next week the weather models are creating a higher amount of low-level wind convergence within the ITCZ. The ITCZ remains near our latitude. With these factors, we believe next week will be the start of a 5-7 day period of above average precipitation for Kwajalein.

SATURDAY/SUNDAY/MONDAY FORECAST: Isolated showers Saturday morning becoming scattered by afternoon and evening hours and decrease late Saturday night. Widely scattered showers and some heavy showers for daytime Sunday and isolated for Monday, with showers increasing Monday night. Winds ENE-ESE at 10-14 knots Saturday, ENE-ESE at 5-10 knots Sunday and ENE-E at 8-13 knots Monday.

MID-WEEK FORECAST: Scattered to occasionally numerous showers Tuesday next week, then much uncertainty for the days that follow. The trend is for above average precipitation starting in 5-10 days. Winds ENE-ESE at 10-15 knots.

SAFETY

OSHA has made changes to the Hazard Communication program with internationally standardized labeling and Safety Data Sheet (SDS*) requirements. This Safely Speaking reviews one of the new the pictograms you'll start to see on workplace chemicals. The following materials will have the pictogram indicated above.

Carcinogens. A carcinogen is any substance that cause cancer. Carcinogens may increase the risk of cancer by altering cellular metabolism or damaging DNA directly in cells and induces uncontrolled, malignant division, ultimately leading to the formation of tumors.

Mutagenicity. A mutagen is a physical or chemical agent that changes the genetic material, usually DNA , of an organism and thus increases the frequency of mutations above the natural background level.

Reproductive Toxicity. Reproductive toxicity is a hazard where some chemicals will interfere with normal reproduction. It includes adverse effects on sexual function and fertility in adult males and females, as well as developmental toxicity in the offspring.

Respiratory Sensitizer. Respiratory sensitizer is a substance with the potential to act, through whatever mechanism, to create a situation of airway hypersensitivity where none previously existed.

Target Organ Toxicity. Target organ toxicity means chemicals that is toxic (poisonous) to one or two organs. These are referred to as target organs of toxicity for that chemical.

Aspiration Toxicity. The entry of a liquid or solid substance or mixture directly through the oral or nasal cavity, or indirectly from vomiting, into the trachea and lower respiratory system. Aspiration toxicity includes severe acute effects such as chemical pneumonia, varying degrees of pulmonary injury or death following aspiration.
