U.S. SENATOR MURKOWSKI VISITS KWAJALEIN

NEWS / NIKKI MAXWELL, USAG-KA PUBLIC AFFAIRS

U.S. Sen. Lisa Murkowski (R-Alaska) and Rep. Aumua Coleman-Radewagen (R-American Samoa) arrived on U.S. Army Garrison-Kwajalein Atoll, March 29, as part of a Congressional delegation visiting the Pacific. They began their journey in Hawaii March 23, touring military assets at U.S. Pacific Command, Guam's Navy port and submarine base, Saipan, Wake Island and Palau.

During their day on Kwajalein Atoll, Murkowski and Coleman-Radewagen met with Republic of the Marshall Islands President Hilda Heine, U.S. Ambassador Karen Stewart, RMI Minister-in-Assistance David Paul, RMI Minister John Silk and Col. James DeOre, USAG-KA commander, at the USAG-KA headquarters on Kwajalein. DeOre welcomed the delegation, and while introductions were made he thanked them for taking the time to visit the garrison.

"My country puts a lot of importance on our unique and historical relationship, and renewed partnership with the United States," Heine told Murkowski. "I hope you witness the RMI contribution to this partnership during your visit."

The group's discussion at USAG-KA focused on the upcoming transition to trust fund income after 2023 and the greater bilateral relationship linking both nations. The group also discussed the Ri-katak program, which provides some Marshallese students an opportunity to attend USAG-KA's school system.

The senator commented on her excitement to finally explore the Marshall Islands.

"In Alaska, we have always looked at Kwajalein with great interest and the strategic role it plays here," Murkowski said. "I'm delighted to be in your islands and finally see for myself, and to better understand it from a national security perspective."

man-Radewagen toured Reagan Test Site assets on the island of Roi-Namur, observing radars and telemetry sites. Later that evening, Ambassador Stewart, Murkowski, and Coleman-Radewagen attended a dinner meeting with RMI government officials on the island of Ebeye. In attendance from RMI Government and traditional leadership were Paul, Silk, Iroijlaplap Imata Kabua, Sen. Alvin Jacklick, Sen. Mike Kabua, Deputy Chief Secretary Abaca Anjain-Maddison former, former Sen. Jeban Riklon, and Mayor Hirata Kabua.

"Thank you for welcoming me, for your hospitality and for educating me. This time with you is greatly appreciated," Murkowski said. "My visit here is an important one for me, to better understand our shared issues, but also for you to know that I see many things that we have in common. My purpose is to better informed so I can be more helpful to people here in the RMI."

Murkowski told the audience of her delegation's journey through the Pacific and noted that although her home state of Alaska is much colder, it has many similarities with the RMI: Both are remote; native Alaskans live off the land and mainly the sea; and the U.S. government perform weapons testing in Alaska and RMI.

Coleman-Radewagen thanked the Marshallese hosts for their hospitality. She grew up in Majuro and said she has fond memories of her childhood there. Minister Paul said she shares her middle name, Amata, with the first president of the RMI, Amata Kabua. He also stated that Radewagen's father, Peter Coleman, was the district administrator for the Marshall Islands, the Marianas and later the deputy high commissioner of the trust territories of the Pacific Islands and was very good friends with the late President Amata Kabua.

"It feels very good to be home," Coleman-Radewagen said. "The blood of the Marshalls flows in my family, so thank you very much for this wonderful evening."

During the dinner meeting, Stewart responded to a question from former Sen. Jeban Riklon regarding oil contamination from the Prinz Eugen wreck, near Carlson islet.

“Our governments have an agreement in principle, and we’re looking for the funding,” Stewart said, explaining that the U.S. government is pursuing efforts to remove oil from the wreck and that the recently passed budget will hopefully allow for allocation of funds for removal, with this summer as the target to begin operations.

Murkowski noted the RMI leadership’s concerns about many issues.

“This has been an opportunity for us to see the challenges you have here in Kwajalein Atoll, and I take them very seriously,” Murkowski said.

Sen. Kabua asked what can be done to deter potential threats from adversaries in the Pacific region.

“Alaska is also a host for national security assets, so we share the same concerns you have expressed,” Murkowski said. “Part of the answer is to ensure the United States has the strongest and most reliable defense so that neither of our homes will be threatened. I thank you for the sacrifices you have made in the past, and what you are helping to provide for national security—not only for the USA but also an umbrella that is designed to protect so many around the world.”

In closing remarks, Silk thanked the people and leadership of Kwajalein Atoll for a very warm welcome for Murkowski and Coleman-Radewagen. He added that Heine appreciated her meeting with the U.S. senator earlier that day.

This marked the Alaskan’s first visit to the RMI; however, her father Frank Murkowski served as a U.S. senator for more than 20 years and was well known in the region, visiting Majuro and other atolls several times during his government service.

“My father loved coming here, and I now know why,” Murkowski said to the Marshallese leaders before departing Ebeye. “I wish I had more time to see the rest of your beautiful islands and people. I will definitely be back.”

Murkowski was elected to Senate in 2002. She is the chairman of the Energy and Natural Resources Committee. She serves on the Senate Appropriations Committee and is a senior member of the Senate Indian Affairs Committee. 🌿

SEABEES ON THE JOB AT BIGEJ

EXTERNAL REPORT

By Lt. j.g. William Mitchell
Naval Mobile Construction Battalion 11

Construction Electrician 1st Class Marc Artache and Builder 2nd Class Derek Howell lead five Seabees in constructing a vital water catchment system to help Marshallese locals sustain a fresh water supply during the dry months of the year. The structure consists of a concrete block foundation, corrugated roofing, and a PVC piping system that funnels rain water into 1,500-gallon water storage tanks.

On March 15, the project began with the movement of all project tools and materials from Kwajalein to Bigej via a landing craft utility (LCU). The LCU also transported an 11K Skytrak and 420E Backhoe on the shore of Bigej where Equipment Operator 3rd Class Brady Northlee and Construction Mechanic 3rd Class Garrett Jarvis expertly unloaded the required materials to begin the project.

"It was an incredibly unique experience," said Jarvis. "Unloading materials from a huge boat onto a beach is something I'll never forget."

With the beach landing complete, the seven Seabees assigned to Bigej began excavating the site and establishing a stable foundation. Artache is responsible for overseeing all quality control and safety during construction ensuring the project meets and exceeds the high standards upheld by Naval Construction Forces.

"The quality of this project is imperative," said Artache. "This construction will establish an important guideline for locals to use to collect fresh water in the future."

Water is a critical resource throughout the world, and unfortunately, for some in the Marshall Islands, it is not always readily available. Determined, the Seabees of NMCB 11 are working to ensure the population on Bigej will never have this concern again.

"It's a great honor to be helping the people of this island. We're happy to be improving their way of life anyway we can," said Builder 1st Class Joshua Vanblarcom.

Over the next week, the Seabees will continue to construct the water catchment project on Bigej and enhance community relationships in the pursuit of completing their mission in the Marshall Islands.

USAG-KA ENERGY SAVINGS PROJECT UNDERWAY

PUBLIC NOTICE

USAG-KA Department of Public Works began the Energy Savings Performance Contract (ESPC) in March 2018. The project is self-funded by energy savings and does not require Sustainment, Restoration and Modernization (SRM) investment. This will improve facilities and infrastructure throughout the garrison, including Bachelor Quarters and Family Housing improvements.

The improvements include building 'enveloping' to create a tighter seal within structures and better insulation, retrofitting and installation of energy-efficient LED lighting, and replacing current air conditioners with mini-split air conditioning systems. All the projects are designed to save energy and be more cost-efficient for our community.

Some phases of the project have already begun. Residents will be contacted by DPW staff to coordinate a date/time for their services to be completed. The projects will take several hours to complete, and may require multiple visits. Contact Public Works at 5-5449 for information.

POST OFFICE TIPS

HOURLASS REPORT

Here are some helpful tips from the Kwajalein Army Post Office. Whether you are departing or arriving on the garrison, these tips are for you.

Here's What To Do

- Present your ID badge when receiving postal services, including package pickup.
- Check and pick up mail at least biweekly. (If you get a larger amount of mail, check weekly).
- Check packages before you leave the pick-up window to ensure they are yours.
- Complete your customs forms before coming to the window.
- Put a completed mailing label inside your package.
- If you are PCSing, include a copy of your travel orders inside the package. Give a second copy to the postal clerk.
- Use correct mailing addresses (PCS 701 is for personal mail and Unit 17001 for company mail).
- Please bring tracking numbers for missing packages to the finance window, as we can usually provide more tracking information.
- If your package arrived damaged and is missing something, please visit the postal office and ask. We occasionally find loose items.
- If mailing sea glass, be sure to clean it thoroughly before shipping. We have had sea glass returned.

Here's What Not To Do

- Don't leave empty boxes outside the Post Office.
- Don't slam the P.O. Box doors shut. They are fragile.
- Don't PCS without providing a change of address form. (Remember to also change your address on USPS.com).
- Refrain from using Gorilla cases for shipping. They become fragile in cold weather and may shatter in shipment. If you do use a gorilla case, include an additional completed mailing label in the case inside prior to shipping).
- Don't attempt to mail shells or items from the beach without checking to see if you are allowed to mail them. Your package will get returned.
- Don't mail items from the local shops without including a good description on the customs form and a sales receipt inside.
- Don't expect insurance to make up for poor packaging. Claims have been denied when items are not properly prepared.

WEEKLY WEATHER LOOKOUT

RTS WEATHER STATION STAFF

WEATHER DISCUSSION: This week's quiet weather is expected to subside beginning Saturday as the low pressure systems between Wake and Midway, and between Midway and Hawaii subside, allowing the northeast trade winds back into our area. Winds will increase from gentle breezes to mostly moderate breezes beginning late Saturday. A surface level trough is expected to create converging winds that will produce scattered showers Sunday morning through the early afternoon. On the backside of the trough, widely scattered showers and increased cloud cover is expected to linger on Monday. Typical northeast moderate to fresh breezes are expected to be reestablished middle of the day Monday.

WEEKLY OUTLOOK: Increased wind speeds associated with out typical trade winds are expected to remain in the area. Isolated to widely scattered showers are expected in the area at this time with northeast trade winds limiting moisture and showers within the Kwajalein area.

USAG-KA REPORT

RESIDENTIAL PHONE AND INTERNET UPDATE

Residential internet service on USAG-KA will continue as currently provided through April 2018. We are pending the establishment of the new Joint Venture service estimated to begin May 1, 2018. We do not believe there will be interruption of service during the final transition.

Residential phone billing will be $10 for March 2018 and $10 for April 2018. We are transitioning to a pay ahead process. Stay tuned for more details on how and when to pay this bill. USAG-KA is coordinating with the service activity to ensure that both 911 calling and on-island service is retained in the future at a nominal cost.

The current solution remains: VOIP/Internet calling for long distance through Joint Venture internet service, 911 service provided across the Atoll and we are developing options to continue local area service. Until a permanent service solution is determined, current services will remain in effect.

USAG-KA FMWR GOLF CART RENTAL PROGRAM

The USAG-KA FMWR Golf Cart Rental service has returned on Kwajalein. There are three golf carts available on Kwajalein and one is planned to transition to Roi-Namur. These are standard golf carts, which seat two people and have space for a golf bag in the rear.

These are to be used temporarily while USAG-KA awaits the arrival of ten new multi-passenger "scooters" this summer. The rental hours are: Tuesday - Saturday, 7 a.m. - 7 p.m. at the Kwajalein Library desk, and Sunday - Monday, 7 a.m. - 7 p.m. at the Kwajalein Golf Course Country Club. The rental cost will be $5 per hour.

Rental times will be limited to two hours per customer due to the limited amount of vehicles and high demand. Another important note: There will be no rental available after 7 p.m. because the temporary golf carts do not have headlights or turn signals necessary for safe operation after-dark. These carts are designed for traditional golf course use, not for use on a roadway. A current USAG-KA driver's license is required for vehicle rental. If you have any questions, please contact FMWR office at 5-1559.
