HOURLASS REPORT

U.S. Army Garrison-Kwajalein Atoll Command Staff, Gold Star Family Members, Veterans and community residents convened at the Island Memorial Chapel Nov. 11 to honor Soldiers and Veterans of the U.S. Armed Forces.

Master of Ceremonies Chief Warrant Officer 2 Jarell Smith welcomed the community and called upon Dr. Jon Sok to open the ceremony with an invocation. Under the direction of Tim Ryan, the Kwajalein Jr.-Sr. High School Band played classic military marches and the national anthems of the United States and Republic of the Marshall Islands.

USAG-KA Commander Col. James DeOre thanked the Kwajalein Schools band.

"I get goosebumps every time we hear the national anthems," said DeOre. "I want to thank you for a very professional performance."

DeOre asked the audience to recognize the U.S. Marine Corps birthday and to give the Veterans and their families a round of applause. He noted the auspicious occasion: Veterans Day 2018 falls on the 100-year anniversary of the end of WWI. The commander introduced the evening's special keynote speaker, U.S. Ambassador to the Republic of the Marshall Islands Karen Stewart.

"I'm really pleased to see this whole crowd," said Stewart. The ambassador thanked the organizations and volunteers who contributed to the event. "It is a great pleasure to bring honor [today]. We gather here today to unite in respect for all Veterans. For Veterans Day is the day we recognize the men and women who step forth to serve our country and serve a cause greater than themselves."

Following official remarks, selected individuals laid memorial wreathes at the base of the Colors displayed onstage: Stewart, DeOre; Dan Farnham of American Legion Post 44; and Gold Star Family member representative Michael Sam.

Immediately after the Kwajalein Schools band played "Amazing Grace," the Seabees of Naval Mobile Construction Battalion 1 fired a three-volley gun salute into the twilight.

Attendees paused for a moment of reflection, some with heads bowed, others deep in thought. Trumpeter Julia Sholar alone stood in the chapel and filled the moment of reverent silence with the song "Taps."

Smith invited the attendees to sing along with the band as they played the songs of the U.S. armed services. Together, one hundred years and several conflicts after WWI, Kwajalein residents were united through song and raised their voices to remember the honorable sacrifice of the countless men and women immortalized in the lyrics.

Following the ceremony, Veterans and families attended a special dinner hosted by American Legion Post 44.

KWAJ GETS CRAFTY AT HOLIDAY BAZAAR

HOURLASS REPORT

Shoppers, visitors and members of the Kwajalein and Roi-Namur communities gathered together at the Kwajalein Jr.-Sr. High School MP Room and CRC in the spirit of holiday shopping Nov. 12 for the 2018 Holiday Bazaar.

The annual event is sponsored by the Kwajalein Art Guild. Each year USAG-KA residents look forward to exploring new island-unique gifts for families and friends.

Visitors traveled between two event site rooms full of colorful local crafts displayed by island vendors. Among this year's exciting buys were homemade pottery, Kwaj T-shirts, handmade jewelry, dolls and signage, decorated coconuts, home decor items and papercrafts. The Kwajalein Schools Spartan Expresso team was on the scene selling treats and espresso-based coffees for shoppers to enjoy.

1) Shoppers at the Kwajalein Art Guild Holiday Bazaar check out vendor tables Nov. 12 in the MP Room. 2-3) Painted pottery and coconuts transformed into snowmen were among items available for sale.

ISLAND BRAVO

A huge Kommel Tata and thank you to Brian Lee, James Corder and their employees who saved the day!

Facing multiple logistical challenges, both teams were vital in moving our new biosafety laboratory cabinet from the warehouse into the Hospital Lab.

Weighing in at over 500 pounds, this was no easy task. Even at the end of their work day, these men laughed at each challenge while collaborating on a solution. The cabinet was safely moved to its destination.

GARRISON FLU SHOT CAMPAIGN ROLLS OUT AT KWAJ HEALTH FAIR

HOURLASS REPORT

Members of the Kwajalein community flocked to the 2018 Kwajalein Health Fair Saturday, Nov. 10 at the CRC Gym.

The event's big attraction was a bustling flu shot station manned by International S.O.S.'s Kwajalein Program Manager Thomas Berger and Kwajalein Hospital Nurse Shannon Lane.

Dozens of folks visited the gym between 4 and 6 p.m. to scan their insurance cards and get in line to receive their annual dose of influenza-beating vaccines. While some children reached critical meltdown when confronting the needle (see Cliff Pryor above), most kids (and adults) took their doses like pros and kept the line moving. More than 60 residents received their shots during the two-hour event, said Kwajalein Hospital Steven Kass. Flu shots are available for Kwaj residents aged 6-months and up.

"We are really excited to be out in the community promoting the flu vaccination," said Kass. "It has been very well received across the school system and the health fair; we have plenty to go around so if anyone has not had a chance to get theirs please stop by the hospital."

Before and after getting their shots, visitors took the opportunity to visit several stations set up and staffed by medical professionals from most medical and first responder-related departments on the garrison.

Everyone from Dr. Jon Sok and his staff at the Kwajalein Dental Clinic, to the Employee Assistance Program's Mary Beth Dawicki and Kwajalein Fire Department Chief John Finley were on site to pass out informational brochures, demonstrate health and safety practices and answer residents' questions.

MEET USAG-KA'S NEW KWAJALEIN HOSPITAL MEDICAL LEADERS

Jorge Solis
Director of Nursing
From Kansas City, Missouri

JORGE SOLIS is Kwajalein Hospital's new director of nursing. With about eight years of experience in Army forward surgical teams overseas, Solis is excited for the career shift that his position on Kwajalein affords him. He's in medicine for the constant challenge, he says: "It's an ongoing, evolutionary process. You're always learning. You have to adapt to be successful." What's Solis looking forward during his free time? "All the water stuff," he said with a laugh.

Dr. Craig Corey, MD
Chief Medical Officer
From Charlotte, North Carolina

DR. CRAIG COREY is Kwajalein Hospital's new chief medical officer. With 30 years of experience working as a doctor – and eight years as a paramedic before getting his M.D. – Corey is a seasoned pro who enjoys the new team International S.O.S. has assembled around him. Like his colleague Jorge Solis, it's the evolving practice and methodologies of medicine that keep his interest high in the field. "It's not the same stuff every day, and it's always a challenge," he said. Like Solis, Corey is anxious to get more time in the lagoon and ocean snorkeling.

Dr. Allan Anderson, Pharm. D.
Director of Pharmacy
From Boise, Idaho

DR. ALLAN ANDERSON is Kwajalein Hospital's new director of pharmacy. He specializes in infectious diseases. Anderson has accrued 30 years of experience working as a pharmacist during his career, the last 11 years of which he spent overseas with the military. Adjusting from the desert environment of the Middle East to the tropical qualities of the Marshall Islands has been an interesting experience. He looks forward to packing away his heavy boots and desert-appropriate slacks and slapping on some snorkeling fins to enjoy some time in the water. Like his new colleagues Jorge Solis and Dr. Craig Corey, he enjoys the evolutionary challenges that medicine brings to the table and looks forward to lending his skills to the community.

U.S. ARMY'S SENIOR AIR DEFENDER DISCUSSES HISTORY, FUTURE OF THE BRANCH AT SAINT BARBARA CEREMONY

EXTERNAL REPORT

By Ronald Bailey

The U.S. Army's senior Air Defense Artillery Officer, Lt. Gen. James H. Dickinson, commanding general of U.S. Army Space and Missile Defense Command/Army Forces Strategic Command, discussed the history, transformation, modernization and the future of Army Air Defense and Field Artillery at Redstone Arsenal's Saint Barbara day dinner, Oct. 27.

Speaking to the gathered audience of active and retired Air Defense Artillery and Field Artillery personnel, spouses, and guests, Dickinson congratulated the evening's inductees into the Order of Saint Barbara (Ancient and Honorable-levels), as well as the Order of Molly Pitcher.

"You have proven worthy of this honor by your exceptionally high standards in many respects including integrity, character, professionalism, and selflessly dedicating yourselves to improving our Fires community," said Dickinson, "I want to thank each of you for everything you've done for the air defense and field artillery."

Dickinson specifically pointed to 2018 as a special milestone year for the ADA Branch, which celebrated its 50th anniversary. While looking back on ADA's strategic significance, he told the crowd that today it is time to refocus on readiness and investment in air defenders and field artillery Soldiers. He reinforced what Secretary of the Army Mark Esper said during the recent Association of the U.S. Army's annual meeting that the Army is entering a time of renaissance after years of sequestration and budget uncertainty.

Later, Dickinson stated the future is driving the Army to a renaissance and discussed a few of the key items he sees evolving such as: high-energy lasers and sensors, efforts to ensure ADA systems become more interoperable, and greater integration of space capabilities and applications.

"In the Multi-Domain Operations concept we'll see a big influence from the continuing convergence of space capabilities and applications, cyber, electronic warfare and information operations," Dickinson said, "and we'll be working out how to integrate the Fires community with all of that, both offensively and defensively."

Turning his attention to the future of the acquisition and fielding arena, Dickinson discussed how the new Army Futures Command and Cross-Functional Teams are central to the Army's transformation as they strive to rapidly develop future force requirements and necessary lethality options. He noted how the Army Futures Command will bring the processes together into a more synchronized, agile and flexible process.

"We'll see a faster moving pipeline for innovation, experimentation and demonstration," Dickinson said. "We'll see rapid prototyping and testing - not afraid to fail early and cheaply to move forward."

The general closed his remarks by stating that at the center of everything the Army does are the Soldiers who will continue to be ready to fight. He thanked their families for providing the stability, resilience and strength that underlies the readiness of their Soldiers.
