knew the writer Eugene Sims. I used to take photos of the sports teams for the paper."

A native of Jaluit, Marok began working on Kwajalein at age 17. His father worked as an interpreter when the island was under the control of the U.S. Navy. Back then, Marok was a student. One day someone suggested he try to find a job on Kwajalein.

"I wanted to finish my schooling, but I decided to work on Kwajalein," said Marok. "The money was good."

Marok is also as fortunate as he is long-lived: At more than 70 years of age, he remembers firsthand U.S. Navy controlled-Kwajalein. He has witnessed many changes on the island over the years and recalls seeing early missions launched from Kwajalein and missile monuments that used to be near Brandon Field.

Marok said he will miss working on the island. Employment on Kwajalein allowed Marok to put his children through college and to build a home for his mother on Jaluit. He spoke highly of his fellow employees and supervisor.

After retirement, Marok plans to return to Jaluit. His immediate plans are to build a new home and to spend time fishing.

"I am grateful to have worked here," said Marok. "It's a good place. I learned so much, about travel, about life from the people I worked with."

Longtime Kwajalein employee and Marshallese citizen Belma Marok retired last week after 55 years of service on island. The garrison recognized Marok for his service at an informal ceremony at the solid waste management grounds on the west end of Kwajalein. There to congratulate Marok were USAG-KA Commander Col. James DeOre, Command Sgt. Maj. Kenyatta Gaskins, members of the RMI government, the USAG-KA Host Nation Office and DynCorp International.

DeOre visited with Marok and thanked for his hard work and many years of service on the atoll. DI Director of Services Jason Scoggins recognized Marok with a certificate of appreciation and challenge coins.

In his employment history, Marok can name every major contract on island. When he retired last week, he worked in the solid waste management under DynCorp International. Before that, he worked for Chugach, Raytheon, PAN AM, Global Associates and the Transport Company of Texas. Among his many other jobs, Marok has served as a deck hand, a printer and an umpire.

"I printed The Hourglass with TCT," said Marok. "And I

THE LOCAL SHORTLIST

THE 2019 BUCKET LIST

HOURLASS REPORT

The new year is here! If you are a newcomer to Kwajalein, this handy 2019 Bucket List is for you. Use this activity guide when the doldrums hit. Add your own ideas, team up with your friends and kick off 2019 in style. Feel free to adapt and add your own. Happy New Year!

SKYWATCH. Go to bed early and hike out in time to enjoy the morning's solar action over the atoll. Make it your personal mission to catch sunrises, sunsets, rainbows and the Milky Way.

CHILL OUT AT EMON BEACH. By the way—it's pronounced eh-mahn. Visit the beach before you come up with infinite reasons to stay indoors.

LEARN TO SCUBA DIVE. Contact the Kwajalein Scuba Club and locate a dive instructor. New classes start up often. If your family has young divers, know that there are instructors who specialize in teaching island youth safe diving practice.

VISIT THE TIDE POOLS. Many of the Japanese and American tide pools teem with undersea life and colorful critters. Not all of these creatures are friendly. Check the garrison phone book for safety information regarding snorkeling in the tide pools. Plan to wear hand and foot protection, and always snorkel using the buddy system.

PLAY SPORTS. Registration for water polo basketball and bowling are now in progress. Get outside your comfort zone and try a new group sport. If you're more of a lone wolf, check out the Ivey Gym, or grab a buddy to swim laps at one of our three local swimming pools.

TAKE A TOUR. Learn the names and faces associated with local WWII battlefields in time to celebrate Operation Flintlock. Self-guided tour booklets of Kwajalein and Roi-Namur are available at the Kwajalein Library and Roi Air Terminal. On Kwajalein, tour signs located near points of interest around the island can help you appreciate the historic battlefield we call home.

GET CULTURED. Historical information and cultural artifacts on the history of the Republic of the Marshall Islands is available at Kwajalein's Marshallese Cultural Center. The MCC also maintains artifacts from the Federated States of Micronesia, collections on loan from the Kabua family, historical photographs and a selection of the fishing gear used to hunt in the atoll many years ago.

BE CREATIVE. The Kwajalein Art Guild and FMWR Hobby Shop love teaching new tricks and techniques to novice crafters using wood, clay and ceramics.

EAT OUTSIDE. Food tastes better grilled out under the stars. Make pavilion reservations by calling 5-3331 to stake out a grill station at Emon Beach or another common grilling area. If you don't know how to grill, this is your chance to learn—just don't overcook that awesome yellowfin tuna.

VOLUNTEER. Kwajalein's many private organizations and social groups want you to join! There are many ways to contribute your unique skills and talents to your island community. Check out the official garrison Facebook page, the AFN Roller channel and chat with longtime residents to find out where you can get started.

When we decided it was time to make a shortlist, we called up our friends in the community. Here are our top picks from island residents' favorite past times. Check out a few of the items here to see if they catch your interest.

HOME-BASED VENDOR LICENSE REGISTRATION

HOURLASS REPORT

With the new year comes the opportunity to share your talents with the Kwajalein community as a home-based vendor. Home-based vendor licenses are valid for one calendar year and must be renewed every year. The license renewal period for 2019 is about to begin! If you are a newcomer to Kwajalein with a special talent, we look forward to you sharing your gifts with us.

How It Works.

The registration process is easy. Prospective vendors are required to fill out a vendor form (available at DFMWR office BLDG 805) and bring the form to the AAFES manager for first approval. Vendor services are eligible for approval if they do not compete with an AAFES service. Past skills that have been certified on Kwajalein include seamstress, bike repairman, music lessons, graphic designer, scuba instructor, and photographer—but this is not an exhaustive list. New and unique services are welcome.

How Much Do Licenses Cost?

After approval by AAFES, forms should be brought back to DFMWR for final approval. A fee of $25 is collected for each certification.

Limitations of Vendor Licensure.

Some limitations apply to the USAG-KA vendor licensing process. The Department of Defense requires some vendors with specialized skills to carry proof of current certification (as in the case of a masseuse, scuba instructor or manicurist). Home-based vendors on Kwaj looking to use those skills should plan to provide current copies of their licenses.

The Right Stuff.

Vendors must provide their own gear or equipment and may not use government facilities or equipment to conduct business. So, if you're an artist, plan to purchase your own drafting table. If you're a seamstress, or are teaching someone to sew, make sure you have your own sewing equipment. If you're teaching piano, make sure you have your own piano or keyboard. The Army Postal Office (APO) or other military modes of transportation cannot be used for personal financial gain.

Want to Know More?

For more information, contact the Directorate of Family and MWR. Please stay tuned to the Kwajalein Hourglass, the FMWR Reef, the AFN Roller Channel for updates for payment and vendor license registration.

PERSONAL INFORMATION

- Do you keep sensitive, work-related information off your profile?
- Keep your plans, schedules and location data to yourself?
- Protect the names of coworkers, friends and family members?
- Tell friends to be careful when posting photos and information about you and your family?

POSTED DATA

- Before posting, did you check all photos for indicators in the background or reflective surfaces?
- Check filenames and file tags for sensitive data (your name, organization or other details?)
