COVID-19 VACCINATIONS BEGIN ON EBEYE

BY JESSICA DAMBRUCH

On the table in the bright vaccination clinic at Leiroj Kitlang Kabua Health Center Dec. 30 were two small, gray boxes containing Moderna vaccines for Ebeye residents.

Despite the more than 45 people crowding the clinic, silence was instant as Center Immunization Nurse Jotyla Johnny slid the business end of the syringe into the first vial.

In the chair, sleeve rolled up, was Ebeye's soon-to-be first vaccine recipient: Kwajalein Atoll local government Mayor Hirata Kabua.

Some people fidget when it's time to get a shot, but Kabua offered a ready smile as Johnny swabbed his arm.

History was made in a swift instant, and the quiet Health Center erupted in cheers and applause. As Kabua left to take his seat in the post-vaccine waiting area, equipped with a bottle of water and crackers, Ebeye residents were already lined up, awaiting their turn at a hallway check-in desk.

As The Marshall Islands Journal and numerous publications have reported over the past weeks, COVID-19 vaccinations have begun in the Marshall Islands. Majuro residents began receiving the shots shortly before the Christmas holiday. The initial shipment to Ebeye contains less than 1,500 vaccines. More shipments are expected in the coming weeks.

After careful deliberation, the RMI government chose Moderna, a vaccine approved for recipients of at least 18 years of age and older. The vaccine requires two doses to achieve its maximum effect.

The availability of the vaccine cannot guarantee "normal" travel will resume in 2021, but it is a milestone for nations and governments which have worked through the past year to protect atoll health.

The first Moderna shots on Ebeye come after weeks—nearly a year—of waiting.

In early March, the RMI acted swiftly to hand down a complete restriction on inbound travel. In the months that followed, travel and maritime commerce continued with a rolling 30-day restriction as quarantine measures and contingency plans for repatriation were discussed, developed and practiced.

Those months and days leading to the first Ebeye shots evinced close teamwork between the U.S. and RMI governments that will continue with the repatriation of Marshallese citizens and atoll residents. With assistance from U.S. Army Garrison-Kwajalein Atoll, a first group of more than 25 Marshallese citizens was successfully repatriated in November.

In attendance at the Health Center's vaccine dedication ceremony Dec. 30 to witness the shot were traditional leaders, personnel from the Health Center, RMI government, KALGOV, USAG-KA Command and U.S. Embassy Majuro, and Ebeye's newest residents: eight Fijian nurses. The medical team members are all recently safely cleared to emerge from quarantine and will assist with continued repatriation and vaccination efforts, according to Health Center staff.

RMI Assistant Secretary of Health and Human Services Glorine Jeadrik thanked USAG-KA Command and Col. Jeremy Bartel for facilitating quarantine for returning atoll residents.

To date, hundreds of Marshallese residents remain stranded outside the atoll by travel restrictions. The vaccine is another step in the process to help them return.

Lilieta Snoddy, a health practitioner who for many years has volunteered her services at the Ebeye Hospital, reflected on the day's events.

"It's great that we can do this today," Snoddy said.

As a member of the medical personnel at the Center, Snoddy also became one of Kwajalein's first residents to receive the COVID-19 vaccine.

CHRISTMAS ON CARLOS

U.S. ARMY PHOTOS BY JESSICA DAMBRUCH

BY JESSICA DAMBRUCH

When visitors and friends of Kwajalein High School set foot on Carlos in late December, it had been more than a decade since the last “Christmas On Carlos” holiday gift drop. With some generous donations from the community, the Kwajalein National Honor Society put plans in motion to help make the holidays a little sweeter for their neighbors.

Orchestrating the gift drop began in August, according to Abbie Warren, KHS National Honor Society president. With a few months to collect items for the small community, the ambitious students began a long-term gift collection plan. They staged donation bins in island offices and at major events and collected items through the holiday season.

Event attendees and passersby could donate the requested items: toiletries, basic hygiene items for women, soaps, small treats for children, snacks and clothing. They also fundraised at major events during the holidays.

After months of collecting various donated items, NHS bundled the goods together into family boxes. Other treats were bagged and tagged with two candy canes and readied for Carlos children.

Students and faculty members from Ebeye and Kwajalein traveled by catamaran and boat to the island and shared their gifts with the island residents.

After receiving each gift bag, some Carlos kids took the opportunity to take pictures with Santa Claus, and the students—all different islands and communities—visited and sang holiday songs together. Carlos hosts treated everyone to fresh coconut juice and gave the Kwaj kids a chance to explore the community before their departure.

The NHS thanks the Kwaj community for its incredible holiday spirit and USAG-KA Command for arranging transportation. The collected gifts exceeded the students’ initial expectations, and the gifts spread cheer into the new year.

HISTORY WITH U.S. SPACE AND MISSILE DEFENSE COMMAND

BY SHARON WATKINS-LANG, USASMDC HISTORIAN

The Prinz Eugen

The Prinz Eugen came to be a part of the Kwajalein landscape in late December 1946.

A part of Nazi Germany's Kriegsmarine, the Prinz Eugen, a 654-foot, 15,000-ton German heavy cruiser, was launched in 1938 and entered service in 1940. Named for the 18th century Austrian general, Prince Eugene of Savoy, the Prinz Eugen first saw combat in Operation Rheinübung and the Battle of the Denmark Strait, an attempt by the German Navy to break out into the Atlantic Ocean in May 1941. The Prinz Eugen and the Bismark battled the British battlecruiser, HMS Hood, and the HMS Prince of Wales battleship. During the battle which destroyed the Hood and damaged the Prince of Wales, the Prinz Eugen was redirected to raid Allied merchant shipping. Following a period in Occupied France for repairs, the Prinz Eugen returned to Germany and later deployed to Norway.

Three days after arriving, the cruiser was torpedoed by the Trident, a British submarine, and returned to Germany for repairs. After returning to active service, the ship deployed to the Baltic Sea and the Eastern Front to provide artillery support against the advancing Soviet army. In May 1945, the Prinz Eugen was surrendered to the British in Copenhagen and subsequently transferred to the Americans.

In 1946, the American Congress authorized atomic weapons testing at the Bikini Atoll. Operation Crossroads was designed to assess nuclear effects on naval vessels and determine the vulnerabilities. A flotilla of 95 target ships, including the Prinz Eugen, was assembled. Some ships were sunk in the initial airborne blast. More were sunk in the second test, conducted underwater a few weeks later.

The Prinz Eugen, on the outer limits of the test zone, was not affected by either blast. A collection of 50 ships, which had survived the blast to include the USS Saratoga, the USS Pennsylvania and the Prinz Eugen were towed to Kwajalein and anchored off Echo Pier. For the next several months, they were subject to inspection teams and decontamination squads which studied the effects of the two blasts and radioactivity upon the ships.

On Dec. 21, 1946, the Prinz Eugen began to take on water and list. Fearing the ship would block the harbor, Kwajalein Commander, Commodore George A. Seitz, ordered the ship be pushed across the lagoon and beached. These efforts failed as prevailing winds pushed the ship broadside on the reef. The Prinz Eugen officially capsized on Dec. 22, 1946 off Carlson Island.

There the ship has remained for decades, periodically leaking oil into the lagoon, as it gradually rusted away. The U.S. Navy addressed this issue in 2018. During a three-month operation, the Navy successfully removed 228,900 gallons of oil trapped in 173 of the fuel tanks in the submerged hull. This mission eliminated the potential of a catastrophic release and helped preserve the local marine life.

George Seitz Elementary School

The presence of a school system was one feature which factored as an asset for Kwajalein as teams scouted the globe for a site suitable for the new Nike-Zeus missile defense test program.

The Navy had opened an elementary school in 1947. By 1959, elementary instruction for students in grades one through eight was housed in three wooden buildings on the northeast side of the island.

A single-story building housed the principal's office, the library and some classrooms. The remainder of the classrooms were in two single-story structures. With one principal and ten teachers the school system supported approximately 200 students. At this time there was no high school instruction on the island.

Students in grades 9-12, assisted by two teachers, continued their education through a correspondence program from the University of California. Students typically took four courses per semester, and annual tuition fees for this program were $270.

With the expected influx of personnel and dependents with the Nike-Zeus program and to support recruiting efforts, additional facilities would be needed. Construction for the George Seitz school, named for Commodore George A. Seitz, USN, Commander of Kwajalein and Governor of the Marshall Islands in 1947, began in 1960. The school opened two years later, albeit with a modest high school curriculum. (Continuing Education was also important to these new personnel and a University of Hawaii extension program was established at the same time.)

The student population soon outgrew the facility and "panelfab" buildings were added in 1964 to provide additional classroom and fine arts (music) space.

By 1967, an image of the George Seitz School, located in the dependent housing area, shows a compact campus almost filled to capacity with nearly 700 students in grades 1-12.

These issues were soon addressed. In January 1969, the construction projects for the Kwajalein Junior/Senior High School and the Ivey school for elementary students were due for completion.

Safeguard

The SAFEGUARD Anti-Ballistic Missile system, the first missile defense system deployed by the United States, was initially planned as a multi-phased deployment.

By 1971 construction was underway at the North Dakota, Colorado and Montana locations. The second phase called for additional sites in Sedalia, Missouri, near Whiteman Air Force Base, Warren AFB, Wyoming and the National Capital Region. The locations were selected based upon a computer study of 90 sites across the nation.

On Jan. 7, 1971, a plan for five sites was publicly announced for Sedalia/Whiteman AFB—a Missile Site Radar and four remote Sprint launch sites, with no immediate plans for construction. In March, authorization to proceed was granted and Whiteman was designated the Fire Control Center.

Initial assessments called for an influx of more than 2,000 people (workers and dependents) with construction scheduled to begin later that year. The expected completion date for the site, which would have 900 permanent Army employees (Soldiers and civilians) was 1976. A year later in 1972, the authorization was rescinded and the Malmstrom Air Force Base, Montana site became the FCC.

NOTICE OF AVAILABILITY

Flight Test-3 (FT-3) Draft Environmental Assessment/ Overseas Environmental Assessment

The United States Army Rapid Capabilities and Critical Technologies Office and the U.S. Army Space and Missile Defense Command, as Participating Agencies, have prepared a Draft Environmental Assessment / Overseas Environmental Assessment (EA/OEA) in accordance with the National Environmental Policy Act (42 United States Code 4321, as amended), the Council on Environmental Quality Regulations for Implementing the Procedural Provisions of NEPA (Title 40 Code of Federal Regulations [CFR] Parts 1500-1508, July 1, 1986), the Department of the Army Procedures for Implementing NEPA (32 CFR Part 651), and Executive Order 12114, Environmental Effects Abroad of Major Federal Actions.

The Draft EA/OEA analyzes the impacts of the continuing collection of data to demonstrate a reduction of risk for a longer-range payload system. Specifically, the FT-3 would continue to develop, integrate, and flight test a payload system to demonstrate the maturity of key technologies. The U.S. Army RCCTO determined that a launch from the Pacific Spaceport Complex-Alaska to Kwajalein Atoll, Republic of the Marshall Islands (RMI) was preferred. They also considered the No Action Alternative, as required by the CEQ regulations.

All missile demonstration programs proposed to occur at U.S. Army Garrison-Kwajalein Atoll (USAG-KA) and within the RMI territorial waters must comply with the U.S. Army Kwajalein Atoll Environmental Standards (UES). A modified Document of Environmental Protection (DEP) is under development to outline the activities proposed to occur at USAG-KA and within the RMI. The proposed activity is located on Illeginni Islet and in the broad ocean area of the Pacific Ocean. As fully analyzed in the Draft EA/OEA, the U.S. Army RCCTO proposes one experimental flight test.

The Draft EA/OEA and Draft Finding of No Significant Impact/Finding of No Significant Harm (FONSI/FONSH) are available at www.ft3eaoea.govsupport.us and in the following locations:

- 1) Office lobby of the Republic of the Marshall Islands Environmental Protection Authority, Majuro, Marshall Islands

- 4) Roi-Namur Library Kwajalein, Marshall Islands
- 5) Kodiak Public Library, Kodiak, Alaska
- 6) Z. J. Loussac Public Library, Anchorage, Alaska

Public comments on the Draft EA/OEA, Draft FONSI/FONSH, and Draft DEP will be accepted from December 18, 2020 to January 20, 2021 and can be provided in either of the following ways:

- (1) E-mail comments by January 20, 2021 to ft-3-eaoea-comments@govsupport.us

How our newspaper got its name

The shoulder sleeve insignia of the 7th Infantry Division consists of two black, equilateral triangles placed vertically on a red circular disc giving it an hourglass shape.

The hourglass of the insignia was consequently used in the title of the island newspaper, The Kwajalein Hourglass.
