NATIONAL EXPLOSIVE ORDNANCE DISPOSAL DAY

BY JESSICA DAMBRUCH

This year marks the 52nd annual Explosive Ordnance Disposal Memorial Ceremony. In special recognition of EOD, the U.S. Congress has also named the first Saturday in May National EOD Day.

Today, friends and members of the EOD community honor members who have fallen in the line of duty with a ceremony at the EOD Memorial Wall on Eglin Air Force Base, Fla.

The event will be held with adjusted practice and streamed online due to Covid-19 safety concerns.

To date, the memorial bears the names of 341 fallen EOD techs who made the ultimate sacrifice in the line of active duty, from 1942 to present, according to an April 16 press release by Naval School Explosive Ordnance Disposal Public Affairs Officer Joseph Severino.

The service members most recently honored on the wall were killed in action decades apart. Among them are Army Sgt. James Johnston, killed in action June 25, 2019 while serving in Afghanistan, and Navy Aviation Ordnanceman 2nd Class James P. Devenny, killed in action Jan. 25, 1944 at Hunters Point Navy Yard, San Francisco. NAVSCOLEOD has also made special recognition of Coast Guard Lt. Thomas J.E. Crotty, already memorialized on the wall, for his remains repatriation. Crotty died July 19, 1942 while serving in Cabanatuan Prison Camp, Philippines during WWII.

For more than 60 years, EOD experts in the U.S. armed forces have continued to meet the threat of unexploded ordnance. Upon separating from the U.S. military, veterans serve communities and companies as special advisors and contract experts in technical fields such as security, law enforcement and demining operations.

Thanks to active efforts of Kwajalein EOD, residents of U.S. Army Garrison-Kwajalein Atoll live and work safely. Over the years, EOD techs on Kwajalein have removed and disposed of several hundred pounds of UXO recovered at construction sites around the atoll. In addition to routine UXO disposal operations, Kwajalein's EOD techs carry out a year-round public awareness and education campaign to educate children and adults about how to report UXO if they spot it on the island.

UXO continues to pose an active threat to communities on and near combat zones and historic battlefields. The 2018 EOD Memorial Ceremony was the first time since 9/11 that no new names were added to the memorial wall.

The EOD Memorial Wall is maintained by the EOD Warrior Foundation, a nonprofit support group supports the EOD community and its family members.

Join the EOD community online for the 52nd annual EOD Memorial Ceremony to honor the brave men and women who made the long walk downrange. For more information and to view the virtual ceremony, please visit <https://youtu.be/9DmlxGw-BXzg>.

The EOD Warrior Foundation was founded in March 2013. The nonprofit foundation maintains the EOD Memorial Wall and provides social, financial and emotional support to the EOD community through scholarships and outreach to EOD families and veterans. EODWF also hosts fundraising activities to promote fitness and awareness. In 2019, EODWF assisted 500 EOD families with $800,000 in donated funds and awarded $232,000 in scholarship funds. In April 2021, EODWF also announced a planned expansion to the EOD memorial grounds at Eglin AFB. Click the EODWF logo to learn more about the EOD Warrior Foundation.

Eight new names of Army and Marine EOD technicians, who lost their lives, were added to the Memorial Wall this year. In 2016, the all-service total stood at 306.

2) Lt. Col. H. Russell Ravenhorst removes the cover for the final new name added to the Army's side of the memorial wall during the 49th Annual EOD Memorial Service, May 4, 2019. Names of recent fallen and past EOD technicians are added to the memorial wall and flags presented to their families during a ceremony each year at Eglin Air Force Base, Fla. The Army and Navy added three new names in 2019. The all-service total now stands at 341.

KFD EMPLOYEE CELEBRATES 10 YEARS ON USAG-KA

BY JESSICA DAMBRUCH

Friends and former coworkers in the Kwajalein community congratulated one of the island's very important people on achieving 10 years of work on U.S. Army Garrison-Kwajalein Atoll.

Joe Attadi, the Kwajalein Fire Department's fire extinguisher technician, was celebrated in a lunch with KFD Fire Systems Technician Lee Pennington and longtime friends and former coworkers Tim Roberge and Grace McDiffett. In true Kwaj style, Attadi was awarded a specially painted coconut trophy marking his milestone.

Attadi's job is essential to daily operations on Kwajalein. He is responsible for maintaining all fire extinguisher equipment utilized on the atoll on each of the mission islands utilized by the garrison. His expertise also comes to bear on recreational aspects of island life.

"Joe is the only person in the Republic of the Marshall Islands that is certified to requalify and test hydrostatic cylinders," wrote Roberge to the Kwajalein Hourglass last week. "This includes the self-contained breathing apparatus—SCBA—worn by firefighters, scuba tanks for commercial and recreational diving and oxygen cylinders utilized for medical needs."

Island residents are encouraged to thank Attadi for reaching an important career milestone and for maintaining his commitment to island safety.

RUSTMAN 42

IN THEIR OWN WORDS

BY JESSICA DAMBRUCH

Why do Kwaj residents love the RustMan?

The culmination of a year's sweat, training and determination ended with the 42nd annual RustMan Triathlon April 26.

The Kwajalein Running Club event challenges island athletes to complete a 1-kilometer swim, 42-kilometer run and 10-kilometer bike segment to claim their victory in teams or as solo competitors. This year, some attempted to defeat personal best times from previous RustMans. Others were inspired by friends and family to hit the road and see what the RustMan was all about.

The excitement of the annual fitness challenge continues to draw event volunteers and cheers from the island community.

Together with support from USAG-KA MWR, U.S. Naval Mobile Construction Battalion 4, Detail Marshall Islands, and numerous community volunteers, RustMan day was a success in more ways than one. Volunteers cooked an after-race meal of hamburgers and hot-dogs, tracked time and kept athletes hydrated at water stations. Using colorful signs and words of encouragement, volunteers along the course cheered athletes and helped them achieve the last miles to the finish line.

Perhaps no one person can describe the RustMan better than the athletes themselves. The Kwajalein Hourglass asked several RustMan participants for their insight on what made them leave the sidelines, get up and start training.

Why do they love the RustMan? What made them stay the training course? What do they really notice along the course as the minutes tick by?

What they have to say might surprise you. Please enjoy these photos and accounts from the RustMan.

Exercise and regular work outs help me to better enjoy the many sports and adventures I love to do and something I first became addicted to as a kid—playing football in high school. The RustMan event is a great motivator because it socially makes it more fun instead of work along with shaking off that extra weight that seems to creep up so easy each year.

 It was very intense, but incredibly rewarding. I just tried to dig deep and give it everything I had. Even if I was the slowest out there it didn't matter—as long as I finished.

 As far as why I did the race, I love to run so when Bob Sholar approached me last Sunday about doing the run portion of the event for a team on Monday, I said, "Sure." I had a lot of fun running for my team and really appreciated all the people cheering along the route.

 My reason for running was simple: I was tricked by Capt. Drew Holder. Also, it was something that I wanted to do after watching last year's Rustman—it looked fun.

Last year, when I was watching the RustMan and saw all levels of athlete participating—especially those for whom just finishing was the goal—I thought, “Maybe I can do this.” Then, I figured I couldn’t, but I just started training (with encouragement from others), putting one foot in front of the other and then found myself at the finish line.

Lauren Wallach

I love triathlons. Training is so rewarding as you see yourself getting stronger. I am best at the run—especially because that means I’ve survived the bike. I have done many Sprint Tris and 4 1/2 Ironman competitions. This was my first Olympic-distance, and it was a challenge. Doing the Rustman was the greatest experience.

Hearing the crowds yell out your name is so motivating. In so many places, I wanted to stop or cry or both, but I wasn’t going to let down people that hung out all day to cheer. Bob and Jane Sholar and all the volunteers are so wonderful. You just feel their support. A special shout out to my husband, Noel, who swept the rocks and debris from the entire bike course and kept me company on the run.

Mandy Melody
RustMans: Two+

I love the training phase. The actual event makes me so nervous, and I’m always afraid I’m going to fail but I love the training. I can’t wait to try to get better for next year’s RustMan. I’m so thankful that God gave me a healthy body to tackle this thing, a mind to slog it out when I might rather be sleeping and of course, I’m thankful for my family, who put up with me and my craziness and my husband who is not only my biggest supporter—next to my mom and dad—but also does all my bike maintenance and calms me down when I panic about the swim. I cannot wait to get back out there and give it another go. I’m forever indebted to Bob and Jane Sholar for putting this event on so I could have a chance to “tri” it out.

Christi Cardillo
RustMans: 11

I keep doing the RustMan because it is by far my favorite Kwaj event. It brings out so many people from the community, whether they are competing on the course or supporting the event. I’ve seen spectator support increase over the last few years. This year, we had people all along the course, which was so encouraging. Down at the end of the island, we had the Parsons guys handing out water and playing music. You’ve got crowds out cheering with signs, cowbells, and this year—a live band! Kevin Melody had a cart full of bike parts and even whole bikes in case people ran into bike trouble. He helped a cyclist lower their seat (they had just borrowed the bike that day and hadn’t really tried it out yet). We had more people cheering all along the run course from the airport upwards on both Lagoon Road and Ocean Road. Every year the Rustman reminds me of why I love Kwajalein. The community is supportive, helpful and wonderful. I’ll keep swimming, biking, running and smiling as long as it brings people out onto the sides of the streets. I hope that next year, some of this year’s spectators will join us as participants in the actual event, whether as a solo competitor or on a team. That’s how I started on Kwajalein my first year—as part of a team. The next year, I did it solo.

[PAM HESS BIKE TIME: 1:39:45 RUSTMANS: ONE]

I have been a Rustman Triathlon volunteer many times over my seven years living on Kwajalein. Every year I would say the same thing: "I'm going to do it next year." Each year came and went, and I found myself sitting at the scoring table again—until last year, when my husband, Matt, competed for the first time. Matt spent countless hours training, and when I was there at the finish line last year to give him a hug, I was so inspired. I decided at that moment that I would do it the next year. The best part of competing was having my sons out there—Sean giving me water and Ryan waiting for me at the finish line.

I often joke that the RustMan is a chance to binge exercise with friends, and it is true. The event is such a fun activity with participation from so much of the community. Kids, friends, Seabees, families and Boy Scouts participate by doing the event, helping setup, cook, hand out water and encouraging and hugging when it's complete. It is always great to see new faces join in the exercise as a team and individuals. These events help provide a little more incentive for so many in the community to get and remain active. Through the years, Bob and Jane Sholar's encouragement and support of these running club events has helped many reach fitness goals that were previously only hopes. Even if I am injured, I try to always participate, sometimes as a team.

Darren Wheeldon

I was inspired to do the RustMan because I saw Matt Hess competing in it with one leg. It's also a great way of challenging your mind. Your body can do the work. It's your mind you have to train.

STUDENTS VISIT MECK TO STUDY SOLAR POWER

BY JESSICA DAMBRUCH

It's not every day that future scientists get to visit another mission island on a fieldtrip. Kwajalein High School students studying physics and electronics visited Meck April 17 for a special learning opportunity to explore the potential of solar power.

The excursion was led by two of US-AG-KA's resident experts: Department of Public Works employee Bob Sholar and Jim Wyant, a representative of the Compass Commissioning and Design team which conducts field engineering for Johnson Controls International. With support from USAG-KA Command, the Kwajalein Marine Department arranged transportation via catamaran. KHS teachers Masina McCollum, Kristen Hossek, Dan Laverty, Matt Gerber and parent chaperones also joined in the trip.

During their visit, students learned a bit about vintage Kwajalein Missile Range history and took a tour of the vast solar panel array. Energy derived from the panels is converted into power and stored in large batteries that can be used to supplement power used by the Meck power plant. Ultimately, the solar array successfully reduces the usage of diesel fuel on Meck, resulting in a long-term cost-savings for the garrison.

The students' tour guides helped make the day informative as well as entertaining. On the way to Meck, Wyant led students in a basic electronics crash course. Before departing for Kwajalein, Sholar proctored an impromptu quiz to help the students retain what they had learned.

Students expressed that they enjoyed learning about the science behind the solar solution and were impressed with the large solar array.

QUARANTINE PHASE TWO REDUCED TO TWO WEEKS

The RMI Phase 2 Quarantine Changes for Persons Traveling into the RMI from Countries with Covid-19 Community Transmission

As of March 25, 2021, the duration of the Second Phase of Quarantine on Kwajalein Atoll has been revised to 14 days. The total period of quarantine is now 28 days. This applies to all individuals entering the RMI from countries deemed high-risk for Covid-19 transmission (where community transmission is present).

The two-phase quarantine strategy remains in place and includes the following components:

1) Phase 1 – Secure and monitor hotel quarantine for 14 days in Hawaii. This includes a Covid-19 PCR test and an antibody test prior to entering quarantine, another Covid PCR test on day one and a final Covid PCR test within 48 hours of scheduled departure from Honolulu.

2) Phase 2 – Secure and monitored quarantine on Kwajalein Atoll for 14 days. This includes Covid-19 PCR tests and antigen tests on days 7 and 14.

This guidance is consistent with current WHO guidance on travel quarantine as well as other national health ministries and other public health agencies. This time period reflects the maximum incubation period for Covid-19 and includes individuals vaccinated against Covid-19 as well as unvaccinated individuals. Covid-19 variants of concern currently follow an incubation period of 14 days.

These quarantine procedures are subject to periodical review by the Ministry of Health. Bunton kein im jermal kein ikijjen jermal in etalle/kakkolkol rej ped wot iumwin jermal ko an MoHHS (ak jikin Ejmour eo).

COVID-19 VACCINATIONS ARE NOW IN PROGRESS.

Contact your tenant organization and Human Resources department for an information packet on the vaccine, and forms you need to have pre-filled before your date and time slot. Your organization will notify you of your time slot. Still have questions about getting the COVID-19 vaccine? Contact USAG-KA Family and MWR Health Systems Specialist Suzanne Mosier at 5-2354 for more information.

UNITED AIRLINES POLICIES FOR DEPARTURE

Customers at Kwajalein’s airport boarding United Airlines flights need to present the items described below:

Customers with a negative test result need to present written or electronic documentation which clearly indicates:

- Customer name. (The customer name and any other personal identifiers must match the customer ID).
- Date the test was taken. Test must be taken within three calendar days of flight.
- Type of test. The CDC rule requires a viral test, which means a molecular COVID-19 test (such as PCR or LAMP) or antigen test.
- Results must state “negative,” “SARS-CoV-2 RNA not detected” or “SARS-

CoV-2 antigen not detected.” A test marked “invalid” is not acceptable

Customers who have previously tested positive must present written or electronic documentation, dated within the last 90 days, of recovery from COVID-19 after previous infection.

This should be in the form of a positive viral test result and a letter on official letterhead that contains the name, address and phone number of a licensed healthcare provider or public health official stating that the passenger has been cleared for travel.

All United customers must also comply with the following requirements:

- Presentation of a disclosure and attestation form. The form can be found on the CDC website and will also be available at the departure airport. Customers are encouraged to print and complete the form prior to arriving at the airport.

- Check-In. All international originating customers will be required to check-in with a Customer Service representative to verify digital or paper documentation. This mirrors the process we’ve set up within the U.S. for many international destinations.
- Failure to Comply Will Result in Boarding Denied. Customers who do not show proof of a test or refuse to test prior to travel will be denied boarding. Denied boarding compensation will not be paid. Customers in this situation shall be offered a refund or rebooked for a later date at no additional charge.

NOTE: These documentation requirements do not apply to customers flying from U.S. territories such as Guam to the mainland.

BENEFITS OF GETTING A COVID-19 VACCINE

By the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention

Still on the fence about getting your free Covid-19 vaccination? Read on: Check out what the Centers for Disease Control have to say about the scientific benefits of receiving a vaccination in this April 12, 2021 press release.

COVID-19 vaccination will help keep you from getting COVID-19.

All COVID-19 vaccines currently available in the United States have been shown to be safe and effective at preventing COVID-19.

All COVID-19 vaccines that are in development are being carefully evaluated in clinical trials and will be authorized or approved only if they make it substantially less likely you will get COVID-19.

Based on what we know about vaccines for other diseases and early data from clinical trials, experts believe that getting a COVID-19 vaccine also helps keep you from getting seriously ill even if you do get COVID-19.

Getting vaccinated yourself may also protect people around you, particularly people at increased risk for severe illness from COVID-19.

Experts continue to conduct studies to learn more about how COVID-19 vaccination may reduce spread of the virus that causes COVID-19.

We are still learning how vaccines will affect the spread of COVID-19. Until we know more about how vaccines will affect the spread of COVID-19, people who are fully vaccinated against COVID-19 should keep taking precautions in public places like wearing a mask, staying 6 feet apart from others, avoiding crowds and poorly ventilated spaces, and washing your hands often.

People are not considered fully vaccinated until two weeks after their second dose of the Pfizer-BioNTech or Moderna COVID-19 vaccine, or two weeks after a single-dose Johnson & Johnson’s Janssen COVID-19 vaccine. You should keep using all the tools available to protect yourself and others until you are fully vaccinated.

COVID-19 vaccination is a safer way to help build protection.

COVID-19 can have serious, life-threatening complications, and there is no way to know how COVID-19 will affect you. And if you get sick, you could spread the disease to friends, family, and others around you.

Clinical trials for all vaccines must first show they are safe and effective before any vaccine can be authorized or approved for use, including COVID-19 vaccines. The known and potential benefits of a COVID-19 vaccine must outweigh the known and potential risks of the vaccine before it is used under what is known as an Emergency Use Authorization.

Getting COVID-19 may offer some protection, known as natural immunity. Current evidence suggests that reinfection with the virus that causes COVID-19 is uncommon in the months after initial infection but may increase with time. The risk of severe illness and death from COVID-19 far outweighs any benefits of natural immunity. COVID-19 vaccination will help protect you by creating an antibody (immune system) response without having to experience sickness.

Both natural immunity and immunity produced by a vaccine are important parts of COVID-19 disease that experts are trying to learn more about, and CDC will keep the public informed as new evidence becomes available.

COVID-19 vaccination will be an important tool to help stop the pandemic.

Wearing masks and staying 6 feet apart from others help reduce your chance of being exposed to the virus or spreading it to others, but these measures are not enough. Vaccines will work with your immune system so it will be ready to fight the virus if you are

A growing body of evidence suggests that fully vaccinated people are less likely to be infected without showing symptoms (called an asymptomatic infection) and potentially less likely to spread the virus that causes COVID-19 to others. However, further investigation is ongoing.

Stopping a pandemic requires using all the tools we have available. As experts learn more about how COVID-19 vaccination may help reduce spread of the virus that causes COVID-19, CDC will continue to update its recommendations to protect communities using the latest science.

COVID-19 vaccines are safe and effective.

We understand that some people may be concerned about getting vaccinated now that COVID-19 vaccines are available in the United States.

While more COVID-19 vaccines are being developed as quickly as possible, routine processes and procedures remain in place to ensure the safety of any vaccine that is authorized or approved for use. Safety is a top priority, and there are many reasons to get vaccinated.

None of the COVID-19 vaccines can make you sick with COVID-19.

None of the COVID-19 vaccines contain the live virus that causes COVID-19 so a COVID-19 vaccine cannot make you sick with COVID-19.

SKIP THE SUNBURN

U.S. ARMY PHOTOS BY JESSICA DAMBRUCH

One thing is for sure: Kwaj knows how to do hats. Check out the cool caps in these photos, above. We can all conclude that no one can wear those sassy sombreros and make them look quite as good.

If you're new to life on Kwaj, remember: The sun knows exactly where you are at all times. It will find you and bring the burn. The deep damage caused by fun in the sun may not appear for years, but the daylight will take its toll on your skin and eyes.

Protect yourself as you work and play on island. Many cancers caused by overexposure to UV rays are among the most common and easily avoided. If you work for extended periods in the sun, have pale skin and a family history of skin cancer, be especially prepared.

Wear protective clothing, polarized eyewear, a sunscreen of at least SPF 30 and, of course, a snazzy cool hat. If you hate wearing hats, don't worry. At noon, when the sun beats down, you will grow to love your lid. Get a broad brim and block out the direct daylight. Whenever you head out into your Kwaj-busy life, bring a buddy and a ballcap, and get into the spirit of sun protection. Sport a spectacular shadow, skip the sunburn and take your cover with you wherever you go.

Want to learn more about the sun? Get informed about UV rays, sun protection and other health tips. Visit https://www.cdc.gov/cancer/skin/basic_info/index.htm.

USAG-KA WEATHER WATCH

RTS WEATHER STATION STAFF

WEATHER DISCUSSION: The Intertropical Convergence Zone lifted north into the central Marshall Islands on Friday with heavy rain and thunderstorms. Diverging flow at high altitudes has supported thunderstorm activity and the lightning risk will remain elevated into Saturday night. Periods of showers and rain are expected to linger into Monday morning. Strengthening high pressure over the northwest Pacific should help to decrease shower activity Monday afternoon; however, an upper-atmospheric area of low pressure will be monitored as it could support occasionally squally weather with potential for lightning and gusty winds into the middle of next week.

SATURDAY: Mostly cloudy with scattered showers and isolated thunderstorms. Winds NE-SE at 5-10 knots with stronger gusts possible near rainfall.

SUNDAY: Mostly cloudy to partly sunny with widely scattered showers. Stray thunderstorm possible. Winds NE-SE at 6-14 knots with higher gusts.

MONDAY: Mostly cloudy to partly sunny with scattered showers in the morning, decreasing to widely scattered showers in the afternoon. Winds NE-E at 11-17 knots with higher gusts.

TUESDAY and WEDNESDAY: Partly sunny and breezy with isolated to widely scattered shower coverage and a slight chance of thunderstorms. Winds NE-E at 13-18 knots with higher gusts.

ZAMPERINI IS BACK

Capt. Louis S. Zamperini, a decorated Army war hero and Olympic athlete, overcame personal struggles after his release as a WWII prisoner of war on Kwajalein and in Japan, and would go on to inspire generations of Americans.

A placard honoring Zamperini was recently repaired and is now prominently displayed upon entry into the facility. The Kwajalein community is proud to have Zamperini as the namesake for the garrison’s dining facility.

Army regulation 600-200 describes the harmful practice of bullying.

“Bullying is any conduct whereby a service member or members, regardless of service, rank or position, intends to exclude or reject another service member through cruel, abusive, humiliating, oppressive, demeaning, or harmful behavior, which results in diminishing the other service member’s dignity, position or status. Absent outside intervention, bullying will typically continue without any identifiable end-point.

Bullying may include an abuse of authority. Bullying tactics include, but are not limited to, making threats, spreading rumors, social isolation, and attacking someone physically, verbally or through the use of electronic media.”

According to the reg, every service member and civilian who lives and works on Kwajalein Atoll deserves the right to work and live in an environment free of hostility. Please, think twice before you post.

NOTICE OF AVAILABILITY FLIGHT TEST-3 (FT-3) FINAL ENVIRONMENTALASSESSMENT/ OVERSEAS ENVIRONMENTAL ASSESSMENT

The United States Army Rapid Capabilities and Critical Technologies Office and the U.S. Army Space and Missile Defense Command as Participating Agencies, have completed a Final Environmental Assessment / Overseas Environmental Assessment (EA/OEA) in accordance with the National Environmental Policy Act (42 United States Code 4321, as amended), the Council on Environmental Quality Regulations for Implementing the Procedural Provisions of NEPA (Title 40 Code of Federal Regulations [CFR] Parts 1500- 1508, July 1, 1986), the Department of the Army Procedures for Implementing NEPA (32 CFR Part 651), and Executive Order 12114, Environmental Effects Abroad of Major Federal Actions.

The Final EA/OEA analyzes the impacts of the continuing collection of data to demonstrate a reduction of risk for a longer-range payload system. Specifically, the FT-3 would continue to develop, integrate, and flight test a payload system to demonstrate the maturity of key technologies.

The U.S. Army RCCTO determined that a launch from the Pacific Spaceport Complex-Alaska to Kwajalein Atoll, Republic of the Marshall Islands (RMI) was preferred. They also considered the No Action Alternative, as required by the CEQ regulations. As fully analyzed in the Final EA/OEA, the U.S. Army RCCTO proposes one experimental flight test.

Based on the analysis, the U.S. Army RCCTO has determined in the Final EA/OEA that the activities associated with the Proposed Action are not expected to result in significant impacts to the environment. Based on these findings the U.S. Army RCCTO has prepared a Finding of No Significant Impact/Finding of No Significant Harm.

The Final EA/OEA and Finding of No

Significant Impact/Finding of No Significant Harm (FONSI/FONSH) are available at ft3eaoea.govsupport.us and have been sent to the following locations:
