KWAJALEIN COMMUNITY GIFTS EBEYE FAMILIES, CHILDREN

BY JESSICA DAMBRUCH

A fishing pole stuck out from the gift pile in the AAFES Food Court like an antenna, surrounded by wrapped and bagged gifts so numerous they overflowed from beneath their holiday tree. Children and families laughed and played. The scene was so festive that it was easy to forget it was January.

More than 75 Ebeye children and their families joined community members and personnel from the RMI Liaison Office at the AAFES Food Court Jan. 16 for a special lunch and gift-giving event in their honor: Kwajalein's first-ever Ebeye "angel tree."

Throughout the winter holidays, Kwajalein residents visited the RMI Liaison Office in the downtown area to pluck handcrafted ornaments bearing names and ages for Ebeye children and families. Among the intended recipients were single mothers, infants and children with special needs. Gift givers purchased and delivered gifts to the office ahead of the Jan. 16 event.

RMI Liaison Office Deputy Kalani Riklon sourced the handcrafted tree ornaments and traveled door-to-door on Ebeye to locate families for the program, she said.

As word of the opportunity to give spread around the garrison, something not altogether unexpected happened.

"We ran out of names," said USAG-KA Chief Warrant Officer 3 Michael Schafer.

Kwajalein residents depleted the tree of its recipients again, and again. Many requested tags to sponsor gifts for entire families. The gift program far outpaced its intended size. To accommodate shipping for off-island purchases made to support the event, the gift-giving finale was pushed to mid-January.

Kwaj residents like Schafer were moved to move beyond gifting to meet needs. They ordered backpacks, school supplies and sports equipment. In hopes of equipping their recipients with gift and practical items, the gift pile included not one, but three fishing poles, and a laptop computer.

Others purchased items that could be shared amongst groups of children. One young Ebeye resident carried home a laser tag set, and several received a soccer ball. In her bag for a teenaged female recipient, one island artisan included health and beauty items, and jewelry-making supplies that could be shared with friends.

to the Food Court, where they enjoyed lunch provided by the RMI government.

"Our families are here from Ebeye," said RMI Liaison Specialist Hilary Hosia, in his address. "You can tell how Kalani and Chief Schafer wanted to do this. They targeted single parents and children with disabilities. This is really coming from the heart. We want to thank everyone."

Attendees cheered as recipients came forward to accept their gifts. Young children tottered to the holiday tree and came away with backpacks larger than they were tall, stacks of boxes and bags containing toys, school supplies and home and health items. Next, AAFES Food Court employees joined the party and with Bluetooth speakers blaring holiday music, tossed candy into the crowd.

"I just want you to know that you're not forgotten," Schafer said to the Marshallese guests. "We always think about you in our hearts. This is what we get from a community together," Schafer said. "The Americans stationed here are very grateful and we wanted to give something back to you. I want to thank the community for all the efforts. There is a lot of stuff the community is doing. I just want you all to know we appreciate you."

AFTER TWO YEARS AND QUARANTINE, FAMILY MEMBERS REUNITED ON KWAJALEIN

BY JESSICA DAMBRUCH

Throughout the pandemic, Kwajalein resident Stephen Robinson, his spouse Kendra, and their young daughter Mazie have stayed in touch with family at a distance through social media and video chats.

Recently, thanks to the quarantine program on U.S. Army Garrison-Kwajalein Atoll members of the Robinson family have reunited on island.

In the first few years of her life, four-year-old Mazie Robinson and her grandfather, Allan, formed a close relationship, said Allan's son, Kwajalein resident Stephen Robinson. At that time, Allan lived close by the family in the Pacific Northwest of the United States.

"For a year, he was basically Mazie's nanny," Stephen said.

After the family moved to Kwajalein, Allan, a former superintendent for the Kwajalein School System, visited in early in 2020. A few months later, RMI travel restrictions closed incoming travel. Strict travel procedures and a lengthy five-week quarantine limited travel to an exclusive list of essential employees.

Over the past months, the quarantine program made it possible for the Army's mission operations to continue, and for island residents and repatriating Marshallese citizens to travel to the atoll. Incoming visits from family members are still not yet possible—unless they travel to Kwajalein as new employees.

It was with great joy that the Robinson family was overjoyed to learn that Allan would return as an education consultant for incoming base operations support contractor Vectrus.

"We are really excited for the chance for Mazie to spend time with him again," said Stephen.

Little did Allan know that the Robinson parents had a surprise in store for the devoted grandfather.

On quarantine release day, the family drove to the outskirts of a quarantine neighborhood and waited behind a large scaevola bush for the official release notification.

Having tested negative for COVID-19 in all of his health tests, Allan was approved for quarantine release—but he had to wait until its official end at 9 a.m. His bags were packed, and his quarters was clean. He counted down the minutes until he could go outdoors.

Then, he received a knock at the door.

Mazie stood on the front steps.

Allan made an unsuccessful attempt to wipe away tears as the granddaughter he hadn't seen since her toddler years bounded indoors to give her grandfather a long-overdue hug, followed by her parents.

Together, the Robinsons welcomed Allan back outdoors, and back home.

TENANT
SATISFACTION SURVEY
11 JAN – 24 FEB, 2022

Make the difference for your family's and other families' quality of life.

YOUR THOUGHTS MATTER

The Army began its annual housing tenant satisfaction survey on Jan. 11 to gather feedback about living in Army housing.

- Tenants have 45 days to complete the confidential survey, ending Feb. 24.
- An online survey link will be emailed to more than 110,000 tenants living in privatized, government-owned and government-leased housing across the globe.
- Completing the survey takes about 10 minutes. Army privatized, government-owned and government-leased housing tenants can rate their satisfaction with services, property and the overall housing experience through the online survey.

- Feedback is used by the Army to help maintain a high quality of life for service members and their families.
- The survey will be emailed from ArmyHousingSurvey@celassociates.com.

VETS HALL TO REBUILD WITH USAG-KA, MWR, SAYS POST 44 COMMANDER

BY JESSICA DAMBRUCH

It will take more than some bad weather to break up the American Legion. Kwajalein's Post 44 Commander Dan Farnham has a message for the community. "The Vets Hall is not going away, and American Legion Post 44 is not going away," said Farnham during a recent interview. Despite the loss of the metal portion of the hall facility in late 2021 to weather damage, the 16-year resident of Kwajalein is confident the Post will continue to serve its local community and veterans in the greater Pacific Region.

For years, Kwajalein's American Legion Post 44 headquarters served as a meeting hall, a gathering place for visiting active-duty military members and a venue for countless community scholarships, fundraisers and concerts. The Post moved into the metal facility 976 in 1984 with China Post 1 and the Veterans of Foreign Wars following the availability of the space vacated by an outgoing contractor by the island's Army command.

Over the years, Post 44 has stayed true to its mission.

"The American Legion is the largest and oldest U.S. wartime veteran's association," said Farnham. "They advocate for veterans' issues, betterment of legion post communities and advocacy with Congress on issues like veterans' affairs, medical issues and community initiatives."

Over the years, ambassadors, generals and members of each branch of service have paid their respects to the fallen at the hall's auspicious Caribou Lounge bar area, underneath the memorial marker for Pvt. 1st Class Daniel Sorenson, Killed in Action during the 1944 Battle of Kwajalein.

Changes arrived in 2018, as updated Army policies required closure of the hall's bar while the Legion maintained the facility as a headquarters.

Then came the storm.

Days of fierce winds in late fall 2021 impacted Kwajalein and resulted in significant structural damage to the hall. The surprise isn't that the building collapsed, said Farnham. It's that it stood for more than 30 years.

"It had been a planned event to take down the metal part of the building for two years," Farnham said. "We had been working with Public Works on the plan. ... For a metal-framed building to last that long in this environment is extraordinary."

Post 44 membership held a recent sale of privately owned items stored in the demolished building. Proceeds will go toward supporting Post 44 activities and the refurbishment of the Vets Hall. The sale is only the beginning of the process to expand the facility with a new, safer building.

"At this point, we must have a new exterior wall built and some interior renovations done," said Farnham, of the work ahead. "When that process is finished, we can look to reopening the Caribou Lounge to the public again. We are working to Command and MWR on the plan for all of this. It's important for everybody to note that as we move forward, it's a partnership between the Command, the American Legion and MWR as it should be, within Army regulations. [The Vets Hall] is still there to serve the community, and will be there long after I'm gone."

Farnham credits previous post commanders like Mike Woundy for their instrumental work in maintaining the hall's bar operation and numerous community programs.

"Post commanders prior to him had set up scouting support, high school scholarship sand many other programs that Post 44 had done of the community over the years," he said.

Farnham's legacy will include continuing veterans support throughout the Pacific beyond Kwajalein. In December 2020, he accompanied Post 44 officers to Majuro for a ceremony to commemorate the beginning of Post 22.

"We've also gotten involved in an initiative in the greater Pacific region as well.

American Legion Post 44 Commander Dan Farnham visited the AFN Kwajalein Studio for a live interview to discuss the future of the Vets Hall following storm damage to facility 976.

We have veterans in COFA states in places like Kosrae, Pohnpei, American Samoa—veterans that have served in the U.S. military—who may be disabled and are dependent on medications to deal with post-service injuries. There is currently no way for those veterans to have those medication from the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs mailed directly to them. A friend must receive and their medications from Hawaii or Guam. There is an effort underway to get that changed, so their medications can get directly to them."

"Within the last few weeks, I received word that there is a group in American Samoa trying to form an American Legion post. They reached out to me for advice because they heard about Majuro's Post 22. We do have a reach within the wider Pacific region. It is great for us. We are here to help our veterans."

Taiwan Presents RMI 60 Tons of Rice

From a press release by the Office of the RMI President

Taiwan Ambassador to the Republic of the Marshall Islands Jeffrey Hsiao presented a gift of 60 tons of rice to RMI President David Kabua and attending mayors in a Jan. 18 ceremony at Majuro's International Convention Center. Also attending the handover ceremony were Taiwan embassy staff members and personnel from the office of the RMI president and Ministry of Foreign Affairs and Trade.

RMI Minister Casten Nemra of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and Trade, expressed thanks for the gift and continued support from Taiwan, on behalf of the RMI president, government and the Marshallese people.

"The Embassy of Taiwan, therefore, has prioritized food security cooperation with the government of the RMI. Today's handover ceremony is one of the stark examples," said Hsiao, in his special remarks.

New Opportunities Kwajalein to Support Micronesian Education

From the Yokwe Yuk Welcome Club

Two volunteer positions with the Yokwe Yuk Welcome Club will become available this spring at the Kwajalein Mic Shop. YYWC seeks a buyer, who will maintain the shop with handicrafts from the Marshall Islands; and a chair, who will be the point of contact and representative for the Mic shop.

The YYWC hopes to fulfill these volunteer roles with self-starters who are dedicated to the club's mission to support education in Micronesia. Volunteers also receive a 25 percent discount on all Mic shop goods and can volunteer their time on their own schedules.

Prospective volunteers should know that in-store processes are already in place. Training and assistance with the current buyer and chair are available now through March 1. Contact Diane Swanby at 5-1684 or kwajhandicrafts@gmail.com for more information.

U.S. Support to the Compact of Free Association

From U.S. Embassy Majuro

Under the Compact of Free Association, as amended, the U.S. provides the Republic of the Marshall Islands with approximately $70 million annually through fiscal year 2023, including contributions to a jointly managed trust fund and financial assistance from other U.S. federal grants.

Marshallese citizens also continue to have access to many U.S. programs and services. A Joint Economic Management and Financial Accountability Committee with members from both governments was established to strengthen management and accountability regarding assistance provided under the Compact, as amended, and to promote effective use of the funding provided.

THIS WEEK IN U.S. SPACE AND MISSILE DEFENSE COMMAND HISTORY

BY SHARON WATKINS-LANG, USASMDC HISTORIAN

Twenty-two years ago, Adm. Dennis C. Blair, commander-in-chief pacific, endorsed the High-Altitude Airship Advanced Concept Technology Demonstration

This ACTD was designed to “demonstrate the engineering feasibility and potential military utility of an unmanned, un-tethered, gas-filled, solar powered airship that can fly at 65,000 feet. As Blair observed “the HAA ACTD being proposed by NORAD has great potential to revolutionize the conduct of our military mission in the Pacific Theater. As a persistent platform for communications relay, ISR, precision targeting, and signals intelligence, the airship could provide enormous improvements in our current capabilities while reducing our dependence on satellites and both manned and unmanned aircraft. Seldom have I seen a proposal that could potentially change so many constraints and limitations to military planning and execution.”

The commanders of Central Command and U.S. Forces Korea also supported this initiative and the related benefits provided to both Homeland Defense and Joint Theater Operations.

The HiSentinel80, an unmanned high-altitude airship, constructed and tested by U.S. Space and Missile Defense Command in 2010. In its first test, conducted in November 2010 in Arizona, the HiSentinel80 remained aloft for over eight hours at an altitude of 66,300 feet. Although they did not achieve its goal of a 24-hour flight, testers gained “valuable command and control and payload data connectivity” information. The flight was terminated due to range limitations. The goal is to create a system that can remain on station for a year or more.

The HiSentinel80 unmanned high altitude airship is launched for its first flight demonstration on Nov. 10 from Page, Arizona.

COCONUT CRABS ARE A PROTECTED SPECIES

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Environmental Standards for U.S. Army Garrison-Kwajalein Atoll identify the coconut crab as a protected species. For this reason, USAG-KA residents and personnel should not touch, harass, injure or kill coconut crabs. If you have any questions or concerns, please contact Amentum-DI Environmental Office at 5-1134.

The coconut crab—Birgus latro—known locally as “barulep,” is a type of land-based hermit crab.

Unlike other hermit crabs, the coconut crab does not make use of a shell beyond the juvenile stages of its life. It is this characteristic that allows the coconut crab to grow so large in size.

Despite their name, coconut crabs have a varied diet which includes other fresh fruits and even meats, usually smaller crabs or dead animals. They use their strong sense of smell to locate food when they emerge from their burrows to hunt at night and, typically, remain inside their burrows during the day to protect themselves from the heat.

Coconut crabs can be found on many of the small islands throughout the Pacific and Indian Oceans. As the state of their population remains unknown, some nations have granted this species protected status.

This coconut crab, photographed by USAG-KA resident Art Bennis on Roi, is one of many on USAG-KA-maintained islands that are protected by environmental standards enforced by the Army and the RMI.

WATER PLANT CLEARS POTABLE WATER MAINS THIS WEEK

Old Navy housing quarters residents in areas west of Lagoon Road have noticed rusty potable water in their sinks and showers. This is from the older cast iron water pipes in these areas. Water Plant personnel will be flushing potable water mains over the next week to clear them of rust. The water is suitable for consumption, despite the discoloration. Please refrain from washing light-colored items in your washing machine through next week until the potable water is clear again.

Residents may notice additional temporary issues for a few days. Call the Service Desk at 5-3550 to report any continued rusty water in sinks and showers.

NEW RESIDENTIAL INTERNET SERVICE PROVIDER

Allied Telesis Capital Corporation currently provides voice, video and data service to AAFES facilities in Korea, Japan and Okinawa and will assume residential internet services on Kwajalein and Roi-Namur on Feb. 1.

The main ATCC customer service and support center is in Yokota Air Base, Tokyo, Japan. There will be local operational staff to support Kwajalein customers.

Service and Pricing

The price for monthly internet service will be $87.50 per month and will remain unchanged. Island IP addresses will also remain the same through the service transfer. Service will continue to improve as systems are upgraded.

How will I sign up for service and pay my bill?

To prevent disruption in service during the transition, customers will be directed to <https://atcc-gns.com/locations/kwajalein-internet/> to register for February service.

Once the system is transferred to Allied Telesis, when first accessing the internet service, customers will be presented with a sign-up page.

Customers can choose their desired service period, from day one to several months, and make payments by credit and debit card, or prepaid credit cards available at AAFES.

Making Payments

The first payment will be for the entire month of February. On March 1, all customers will be prompted to confirm payment for March, at which time, month(s) payment can be selected. Customers who arrived after Feb. 1 will receive a prorated refund with proof of travel orders.

Will my transaction appear as a foreign purchase on my credit card?

All transactions are made through a U.S. bank in U.S. dollars.

Customer Service and Technical Support

When calling, please self-identify as a Kwajalein customer.

How will I pick up or return my residential modem?

The service is designed to be an “always on” service wherein the modems/Wi-Fi routers remain in the residential units. This ensures customers don’t have to bother with equipment, and the service is always available.

RTS WEATHER STATION STAFF

WEATHER DISCUSSION

Dry season continues within the Kwajalein Atoll area with sinking air suppressing convection and cloud cover most of the time.

The little showers that have developed have been weak or fast-moving. The end of the workweek does not look much different with clearer skies expected; however, a develop low-level trough is expected to create isolated to widely scattered showers overnight

Saturday and into Sunday. Lingering showers may be seen for the rest of the week-end as convergence will be seen on the front and back side of the trough. Elevated winds at the start of the work-week will push the trough further west as gusty conditions sit in the area.

Dry season conditions seen over the last month are expected for the remainder of the week with some shower development late in the week.

SATURDAY

Mostly to partly sunny with minimal showers. NE-E 12-17 knots.

SUNDAY

Mostly cloud to partly sunny with widely scattered to scattered showers. NE-E 12-17 knots with occasional higher gusts, especially near showers.

MONDAY

Mostly to partly sunny with isolated to widely scattered showers NE-E 13-18 becoming 15-20 with occasional to frequent higher gusts.

NEXT WEEK

Moderate to fresh breezes from the NE-E expected to start the week with occasional to frequent gusts exceeding 20 knots. Dry conditions with moderate NE-E breezes and some higher gusts for much of the week until some shower development late in the week.

UXO HAZARD AWARENESS CLASSES

Kwajalein Explosive Ordnance Disposal will be conducting monthly unexploded ordnance hazard awareness classes on the first Wednesday of every month. Classes will not meet on holidays.

This class is a 30-minute new hire and refresher UXO class explaining specific dangers on Kwajalein.

First Class Meeting
Feb. 2
Building 1025

How to Register
Call 5-1550 to sign up. A maximum of 18 people may register for class.

For departments with a large group of employees we can come to your location. Call to schedule or for more information.

THE THREE R’S OF UXO

PUBLIC SAFETY ANNOUNCEMENT

Unexploded ordnance should be treated like dangerous sea creatures: Look, but do not touch. You can play an important role in keeping Kwajalein safe by knowing what to do when you spot unexploded ordnance.

- Remember the three R’s of UXO:
- Recognize an item as possible unexploded ordnance;
 - Retreat from the area of the UXO; and
 - Report suspected UXO immediately.

If you discover an object that could be UXO, notify Kwajalein Explosive Ordnance Disposal immediately by calling 5-1433. You can also call CPS at 5-4445. Provide the following information about what you found:

- Location. Note helpful details like the building number, GPS coordinates and any prominent landmarks
- Size of the UXO as compared to common items like a football or scuba air cylinder

For a detailed refresher on UXO safety, attend the new island orientation or call Kwajalein EOD at 5-1433.

SHARING STORIES FROM THE MISSION.

THE KWAJALEIN HOURGLASS

The shoulder sleeve insignia of the 7th Infantry Division consists of two black, equilateral triangles placed vertically on a red circular disc giving it an hourglass shape. The hourglass of the insignia was consequently used in the title of the island newspaper, The Kwajalein Hourglass.
